same year by the noted Quaker minister, George Fox, who came in the fall, giving in his Journal a most interesting account of his visit to Perquimans. Four years later Edmundson returned to the precinct and wrote in his Journal afterward that he found "Friends finely settled" in the county, and "things well among them."

From records still extant it seems certain that Little River "meeting" was the earliest to be "set up" in Perquimans, and the Virginia records are authority for the fact that Henry White built the first "Meeting House." He, it appears, was already a resident of Perquimans Precinct as early as 1699, at which time a "meeting" was held at his house, where Quaker marriages were solemnized. Taking into consideration the fact that he lived in that part of Perquimans bordering on Little River, somewhere near the present town of Woodville just across the line from Pasquotank County, makes it all the more evident that the church he built was somewhere in the vicinity of his own home, then too records show that part of Perquimans was the earliest and most thickly settled. Hertford and its environment had not then come into prominence, although there were no doubt settlers in and around the "Point." Deeds in Perquimans are authority for the fact that "Little River Meeting House" stood at the turn of the road going over Weeks Bridge, which is just beyond the village of Woodville, and it is spoken of as being "at the head of Little River" where today a Quaker burying ground can be seen on a small eminence on the right side of the road going toward the old Weeks home across Little River, on the Pasquotank side. A large sycamore tree marks the location and many small grave stones lift their mute testimony for all to see. Here in tranquil peace lie numbers of old residents of Quaker faith, probably in their midst the renowned Herny White, and certainly Joseph Jordan.

Why the Quaker settlers abandoned the Little River neighborhood and finally congregated in the Piney Wood section is one of the unsolved problems of the past, but it is true nevertheless that they did move, in and around Belvidere which has from early times been the stronghold of that faith. At the present date not any or very few live anywhere else in the county, and a large proportion of this once flourishing sect have moved away, some to Baltimore, others to Raldolph County, North Carolina, from which section they went west to Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and even as far as California. These good people in their new homes have made for themselves a name that makes those remaining in Perquimans proud. Among the families given in this book will be found the names of many who so migrated, who still keep up with the doings in the old State and county. Joseph Jordan, one of that splendid family of Nansemond County, Virginia, came early to Perquimans and lived on Little River, where he taught school in the first place of learning mentioned in the precinct. He was also a Quaker minister, being named in the Quaker Records in Virginia as "that great and worthy man and Minister" according to Lower Monthly Meeting, Nansemond County, Virginia. He was a son of Thomas Jordan, a prominent Quaker of said county and state, and his wife Margaret Brasurre (French Huguenot) who took an active part in the Church and civic activities in Virginia.

Vosses Creek meeting was probably the next to be "set up" and was built on land donated by Francis Toms (second) but the location is not definitely certain, however, as his land can be traced and the location of that is proven, there is not much doubt that this chucrh was built near his home, probably near Boswell Fork. The record of Vosses Creek meeting was carried west by one of the old residents of Perquimans where it reposed for many years, finally being copied by an old gentleman in Richmond, Indiana, who sent the old record back home, but in some way it was lost and no one knows what became of it. As represented to the writer the copy made by the Richmond gentleman is a wonderful piece of recording, and posterity should and will be undyingly grateful to him for his labor in years to come.

Suttons Creek Meeting house stood on ground where Newbolds school house now stands. Just back of it in the woods is the old Quaker burying ground, and Quaker records show that numbers of their dead are buried there, among whom if stones could be found would probably be found Albertsons, Nixons, Townsends, Suttons, Tomses, Hollowells, Newbys, Morrises, Henbys, Moores, Morgans, and many more whose names appear on Suttons Creek Register, who attended and affiliated with the personnel of this particular "meeting."

The location of Wells Meeting house is well authenticated, but the time it was built is not indicated by any record so far found in Perquimans. The place where this old house once stood remains in the memory of some of the oldest citizens of the county, being on Perquimans River across from the old Jessop residence not far from Blanchands Bridge. After a number of years for some unexplained reason the church was moved out on the road across from the Peele place, going towards Belvidere and here it still stands as part of a barn on the property of Mrs. Jack Trueblood who was before her marriage a daughter of Mr. Thomas Jessop. The old structure was for many years used as a school house, called "Jessops Schoolhouse" and here the children of the neighborhood went to study the Blue-back Speller, where formerly their ancestors came to worship God. It is claimed by old residents in Perquimans that there was at one time a "float bridge" across Perquimans River where the old Blanchard place stands, which was later

JORDAN

Samuel Jordan arrived at Jamestown with Sir George Somers fleet, 1609. Samuel Gourden of Charles City Co, "an ancient planter, who hath abode 9 years in this colony and his wife Cicily, who hath abode 2 years in the colony" received a Patent for 450a in three plantations, part adj John Rolfe (Surry Co) 2pt "abuts the great River, upon a Swamp, adj Martins hope, and 3d pt near Sandys, south upon Ye Great River" Sept 10, 1620. This land lay in the "Territory of Great Weyonoke" and was already planted. Samuel Jordan represented Charles City Co, in the House of Burgesses 1619. He settled at a place called "Jordons Journey" in the present confines of Prince George Co Va, and fortified his house, called "Beggars Bush" and defied the Indians during the massacre of Mar 22, 1622. His wife Sisley arrived in Va, in the Swan, Aug 1610, age 24 years. Among those living at Jordans Journey, Feb 16, 1623 are found, Cicily Jordan, and two children: Mary age 3, and Margaret age 1, born in Virginia. Cicily Jordan m soon after 1632. Capt William Farrar. Samuel Jordan was living 1632.

Samuel Jordan had three sons, born in England, who came to America, one of them Robert being killed by the Indians, 1622. The other two Samuel, who settled Surry Co, and became ancestor of a branch of Jordans who moved west, and north, Thomas his brother born 1600, came to Va in the ship Diana 1624, age 24. He settled in Isle of Wight Co Va, where he had a grant for 900a of land "at the head of Warricksqueake River" adj Mr Butler Aug 20, 1635. He was a soldier under Sir George Yeardley, and represented Warrasquoke, in the House of Burgesses Oct 1629, 32. His son Thomas (2) patented land in Nansemond Co Va, 1666, and lived in, or near Chuckatuck. In lower Mo meeting records, he is spoken of as "Thomas Jordan of Chuckatuck." He gives the information in these records, that "he was born 1634, and received the truth in ye year 1660, and abode faithful in it unto ye end of his days" (Records Lower Mo Meeting, Nansemond Co.)

Mar 30, 1679, Test' Richard, & Alice Jordan. This Richard had m prior to this date Elizabeth Reynolds, sister of John, who bequeathed to his sister, (wife of Richard Jordan) 800 lbs of Tob in his will, Mar 11, 1668. Isle of Wight Co, records.) The Richard here mentioned was probably a brother of Thomas (1) as he could not possibly have been Richard (s of Thomas). It is thought that John son of Richard Sr came to Chowan Co, at a very early date.

Jordan (VI) Joseph (1) Thomas (1) b 8, 7mo 1672. m Sarah. (untraced.) He may have been "Joseph of N. C."

Jordan, Benjamine, b 18 7mo 1674, m Sarah ———. His will Isle of Wight Co, Dec 8, 1715, Wife Sarah, sons: Thomas, Benjamin, dau's: Margaret, & Sarah. Brothers James, Robert, & Richard, Exrs.

Jordan (VII) Matthew (1) Thomas (1) b 1, 11mo 1676, m Dorothy Bufkin (widow of Leaner (Levin) dau of William Newby, & wife Izabell ? of Nansemond Co Va) 6, 7mo 1699. His will Isle of Wight Co, p Oct 13 1748. He made bequest to wife Dorothy, "6 negroes, ⅓ of money, and plantation where I now live, with Copper Still, & Utensills" at her death to son Josiah. To sd son "7 negroes, 1 Silver Tankard, 6 Silver Spoons, marked H" To son Mathias "Land bought of cousin Matthew Jordan (nephew) called Bells Point" with all stock, 6 negroes 1 Silver Brecor, 1 Silver Cup, 6 Silver Spoons and ⅓ of money. To dau Charity 4 negroes, 1 Silver Porringer, 1 Silver Tea Cup, & 6 Silver Spoons, To dau Comfort 4 negroes, "1 Silver Porringer, 1 Silver Cupp, and — Large Silver Spoons."

From this will it would not appear that Matthew Jordan, was not a man of spare means. "Disunion" papers were served upon Dorothy Jordan, widow, 17, 3mo 1750, for "Disorderly walking." Soon afterwards she obtained a "Certificate" to the Meeting in Perq Co, and as her two sons Josiah & Matthew had already preceded her, she probably lived a while in N. C. But in Josiah Jordans will p in Perq, he mentions his "mother in Isle of Wight Co Va," sd will p in Perq 1789. She m 2d James Pleasants 7, 12mo 1764.

Jordan (VIII) Samuel (1) Thomas (1) b 15, 2mo 1679, m Elizabeth Fleming, 10, 10mo 1703.

Jordan (IX) Joshua (1) Thomas (1) b 30, 6mo 1681, m Elizabeth Sanbourne (d of Daniel, & Sarah, named in his will). Joshua Jordan will Isle of Wight, p Feb 28, 1717. In his will he "desired that his mother-in-law Sarah Sanborn, shall be Hon'bly taken care of by my wife, and daughter, and shall not want for any thing that can be done for her, likewise shall have a horse & saddle to go to Meeting when she thinks fitt." Wife Elizabeth, Dau's: Sarah, Rachel, Mary, Elizabeth, Margrett, Susanna, sons: Joshua, and Matthew, brothers Robert, & Matthew. Test' Thos. Copeland, Cornelius Ratcliff, Henry Davis. His descendants also moved to Perq Co, N. C.

Matthew Jordan, son of Joshua, was evidently the "cousin Matthew" spoken of in the will of Matthew (1) son of Thomas (1) 1748.

Elizabeth, wife of Joshua, m 2d Cornelius Ratcliff, of Isle of Wight Co Va, 9, 3mo 1721. Their descendants (if any) also came to Perq. (See deeds in Perq.)

Jordan, Matthew (2) Matthew (1) Richard Sr, (son of Matthew, & wife Patience Darden) moved with his "cousin" Josiah to Perq, where his will was p July 1763, naming: Brother Gabriel Newby, sister Anne Jordan, sister Mary Clay, and Elizabeth Newby (wife of Francis) brothers: Francis, Joseph, Benjamin, & Josiah Newby, sister Dorothy Skinner (wife of John) mother Patience Newby (wife of Joseph Sr).

The will of Matthew Jordan, father of Matthew above, Nov 19, 1742, names: son Matthew, dau Dorothy, dau Elizabeth, dau Martha, and wife Patience. His Estate was appraised, May 23, 1743 .(Isle of Wight Co.) Patience Jordan m 2d Joseph Newby of Perq. (See Newby family.) (Isle of Wight Rec.) Patience Jordan (2) m her cousin James Jordan, and was "disunited" for so doing. Matthew Jordan of Perquimans died without issue.

Jordan, Josiah (1) Joshua (1) Thomas (1) will Isle of Wight Co, Jan 24, 1783, names sons: Thomas "plantation whereon I live" Joshua (2), Robert, and children of "my dec'd son Hezekiah, all Estate I possessed him with in his life time," gr-son Samuel Jordan, dau Doley Brown, son-in-law John Pleasants. "As my son Hezekiah, and dau (not named) have left this life, I give to their representatives, parts as to children." Wife (not named) Son-in-law William Brown, & Jacob Randolph Exrs.

Josiah Jordan m Mourning Ricks 17, 2mo 1746. She was an Elder in Western Branch Quarterly meeting — 11mo 1745. They served as Exrs, Will of Abraham Ricks dec'd, Sept 23, 1745. (Isle of Wight records.)

Hezekiah (gr-son of Josiah) moved to Gates Co, N. C. where he m Mary Cook, and had son Daniel Jordan, m Miss Hunter, Mary Tatum Jordan, m Francis E. Winslow, Susan, who died young. Their descendants also lived in Perq.

Jordan, Rachel (1) Joshua (1) Thomas (1) dau of Joshua, & Elizabeth Sanbourne, of Isle of Wight Co Va, m Thomas White (s of John, of said Co) 13, 7mo 1719, issue: I Lydia, b 12, 9mo 1720, m John Robinson of Perq—2 Elizabeth, b 19, 10mo 1722, m Joseph Pritchard of Pasquotank Co—3 Joshua, b 26, 11mo 1727, m Gulielma Jordan—4 Jordan, b 20, 3mo 1729—5 Thomas, b 25, 12mo 1730, m Anne Barrow—5 Rachel, b 25, 12mo 1730 (twin to Thomas) m Benjamin Winslow (s of John Winslow, & Esther Snelling dau of Israel & Hannah, his wife née Larance)—6 John, b 17, 3mo 1733, m Lydia Winslow (d of Joseph Sr & wife Pleasant)—7 Mary, b 29, 2mo 1735, m Joseph Winslow (s of Joseph Sr, & wife Pleasant)—8 Matthew, b 10, 3mo 1738, m Mary Robinson—9 Caleb, b 8, 3mo 1740, m Rebecca Toms (gr-daughter of Francis (1) dau of Francis Jr, of Perq).

Thomas White will Perq, p Jan 1762. Made bequest to son Benjamin (not of age) "plantation on which I now dwell, and water mill," and should not "debar his mother from the dwelling house, and a third of the said plantation." To wife Rachel "chattels, one large looking glass, and a square walnut table," to son Joseph property "I possessed him with" and half of the water mill, until son Benjamin comes of age. Sons John, Matthew, Caleb, same. To dau Mary Winslow "one large looking glass & chattels," dau Sarah White, gr-dau's Sarah, & Mary Pritchard, "negroes which I lent to my dau Elizabeth." Appointed son Thomas, & Benjamin Ex. Test' Thomas Newby, Mary Pritchard, Israel Perry.

Mary Pritchard (d of Elizabeth née White) will Oct 1765, names brother Benjamin Pritchard, to whom she left "all my land," sisters: Elizabeth and Miriam, mother-in-law Sarah Pritchard (step-mother) aunt Sarah Albert—(son) bequest, to gr-mother Rachel White, to whom she left "a negro man named Jacob," at her death to uncle Benjamin White, uncles Joshua, Joseph, Thomas, John, Matthew, Caleb, and Benjamin White, "remainder of Estate." Brother-in- law Zephaniah Jones, and uncle Caleb Exrs.

The will of Rachel White, née Jordan was found behind an old looking glass in an antique shop in Suffolk Va, only a few years ago, with an original grant to Timothy Clare 1707, and another to Benjamin Winslow 1794. As said Rachel (d of Thomas) m Benjamin Winslow, whose will Perq, p Nov 1794, & it seems probable that some of his descendants sold the looking glass to the antique dealer. Benjamin Winslow names in his will sons: Joseph, John, Jordan, & Benjamin (2) Dau's: Sarah, and Rachel. Test' Israel, & Lawrence Perry.

The will of Rachel White, found behind the looking glass, was unfortunately unsigned, & not dated, but she names the same children, named in her husband Thomas Whites will p 1762, so there can be no doubt of her identity. As this will has never so far been published, the writer gives it in full, for the benefit of future generations.

Will of Rachel White, of Perq Co.

I Rachel White, of the Province of Carolina, and County of Perquimans, being weak of body, But of Sound, and Disposing memory, do think Proper to make and ordain this to be my last Will and Testament, in manner and form following; Firstly I give and bequeath unto my three sons, Joshua White, John White, and Caleb White, my negro girl Called Priscilla, She and all her Increase to them and their heirs forever, also I give unto my son Joshua, one Brass Kittle, and one Stone pot, to him and his heirs; also I give unto my son John, one Small Round table, and two Chairs; also I give unto my son Caleb, one feather Bed, and furniture, and three earthen plates, to him and his heirs forever. Secondly I give, & bequeath unto my son Thomas, my Desk ? and one Cow, and one Walnut framed looking glass, and one Couch, to him and his heirs forever. Thirdly I give and bequeath unto my son Joseph two Cows, and two heifers, one Ewe, and lamb, one Side Saddle, and bridle, one great Chest, and one Pewter Dish, and three plates, two white chairs, to him and his heirs forever. Fourthly I give and bequeath unto my son Matthew, two heifers, one tub and pail, two Ewes, and one looking glass, and one Candle Stick, and one Cofey pot, to him and his heirs forever. Fifthly I give and bequeath unto my daughter Rachel Winslow, one Small Square table, and one brass Candle Stick, and one negro wench Judah, and one old feather bed and some furniture. Sixthly I give and bequeath unto my Daughter Mary Winslow, Eight pounds proc— money, three Earthen plates, and one Earthen prinah ? bole, one Small Stone mug, to her and her heirs forever. Seventhly I give and bequeath unto my Daughter Sarah Nicholson, one feather bed, and furniture, that Mary Pritchet left me, one half Duzen Earthen plates, and one punch bole, one large pewter Dish, one Deep puwter Dish, one tee pot, and five tee Cups, and sas—(saucers) one large Stone pot, one Square table, one Chest, to her and hers forever. Eightly and lastly I give and bequeath unto my son Benjamin, one feather bed and furniture, and one Case and bottles, also I give all right of that Negro man Called Jacob, which Mary Prichard left me, to him and his heirs forever. No signature, and no probate, not dated.

A true copy, made by Mrs. Watson Winslow, July 9, 1930.

Rachel White was still living 1774, when her son John (d. s. p. will Perq) made his will said year. The grant to Timothy Clare 1707, called for 300a on Perq River, and it is supposed that the original was kept by some member of his descendants and finally fell into the hands of Rachel White, who hid same behind the old looking glass for safe keeping. Benjamin Winslow who m Rachel White (d of Rachel, and Thomas, as before shown) was ancestor of Jordan Winslow late of Winfall, who was father of Mr. Alonzo Winslow now residing there. Benjamin Winslow was son of John Winslow, and wife Esther Snelling, d of Israel, & Hannah née Larance, who was 3d and last wife of Timothy Clare. The writer has now in her possession an old "square walnut table" which was given to her husband Watson Winslow, by his grandmother, and the question naturally arises, could this table be the same mentioned in the will of both Thomas, and Rachel White? The style of the table proves it to be at least 225 years of age and it may very well be the same. (See other White will; N. C. Hist Reg, Vol 3-3.)

Of Joseph Jordan, who also moved to Perq at an early date, and settled near Little River Bridge, the Quaker records give data as follows:

Jordan, Joseph, departed this Life, 11 11mo 1725. (Reg of Suttons Creek, Perq Co.)

Jordan, Joseph (2) departed this Life —, 12mo 1752. (Reg of Suttons Creek, Perq Co.)

Jordan, Joseph (3) departed this life 4, 7mo 1760. (Reg of Suttons Creek, Perq Co.)

Jordan, Mary (widow of Joseph) died 6, 10mo 1767, and was buried in Friends burying ground at Newbegun Creek, in the 63d year of her age.

Jordan, Jane, (widow of Joseph, dau of Joseph Barrow) died 7, 10mo 1789, age 63.

Jordan, Joseph, Gent, appears first in Perq, with wife ffelia Christi, and purchased 200a of land in Pasquotank Co called "Chanceys," where said Jordan "now lives," 1704. ffelia Christi was probably the first wife of Joseph who died 1725, or there may have been a former Joseph who was father of Joseph who died 1725, and this seems to be the most plausible conclusion, taking into consideration the fact that, "Joseph Jordan (s of Joseph of North Car) m Mary Rix (d of Abraham, of Isle of Wight Co Va) in 10, 2mo 1723, therefore we see that Joseph (s of Joseph) m a sister of Mourning Ricks, who m, as before seen, Josiah Jordan of Isle of Wight Co, being cousins once removed, and marrying sisters.

Jordan, Joseph (3) was a Schoolmaster in Perq, teaching perhaps in or near Woodville where he lived, this being the first school spoken of on the records of Perq Co. He petitioned the Court Jan 1756 for license to keep "an Ordinary at his now Dwelling House, near Little River Bridge." He was also a Quaker minister, and probably held forth in the "Little River meeting house" near by on the River by same name.

Robert Jordan, m Elizabeth Carver, 7, 3mo 1765. (Simons Creek, Pasq Co.)

Jacob Jordan, m Patience Small, 5, 4mo 1751 (Welles, Perq Co.)

Excursus Brasseur.

Robert Brasseur, French Huguenot, was granted 1200a of land in Nansemond Co, Va, April 12, 1653, at the head of Nansemond River, for transporting, himself, his wife Florence, children Mary, Persid, Kathe, Bennet Brassuer, William Wooten, Tho. Parker, Jno. Sutton, Jno. Stephens, ——— Barefield, Elizabeth Paleman, Nicho. Moroise (Morris), Tho Russell, and Ra, Ellis. This grant was located on Southern branch of Nansemond River.

Margaret Jordan (daughter of Robert Brashare) b —, 7mo 1642, "united with the truth in her 16th year, who about 63 years of age was taken with an Indisposition of Body, which continued for three years, came to the end 7, 10mo 1708. She was an Elder in Friends meeting at Chuckatuck, and had taken from her by the high Sheriff of Isle of Wight Co, 120 lbs of Tob, 25, 1 mo 1701, she being a widow 11, 7mo 1700. (Sufferings of Quakers.) Thomas Jordan her husband "Departed this Life, ye 8, 10mo 1699, on ye sixth day of the week." He also suffered persecution at the hands of authorities, being imprisoned six weeks for "being at a meeting at his own house" but was released by order of Kings Proclamation. Of the Jordan family too much can not be said, as they seem to be from beginning to end a family of great worth, true, strong, public spirited, every where holding places of honor, and public offices, they have blazed a way for their good name through all generations, since the first intrepid adventurer Samuel Jordan set foot on American soil, down to the present day.

My own husbands mother being of this splendid family, I feel that I can not say too much about them, she herself being a fine example of all that good womanhood stands for in this life.

LAMB

Joshua Lamb in an affidavit made in Perq, asserted that he was "of Mass Bay, in New England." Sir William Berkeley granted to Joshua Lamb of New England "the whole Island of Roanoke" April 17, 1676. Test' James Bray, Darby Maguire, John Culpepper. In this grant he is called "merchant." Joshua Lamb of Roxbury, Co of Suffolk, in New England, Merchant; sold said Island for £150 unto Nicholas Paige, of Boston, same county, Merchant. Sept 29, 1679. Mary Lamb widow of Joshua, returned to Roxbury, where she signed some papers 1690, and calls herself of said town. As Joshua Lamb made no will, so far as the records of Perq make manifest no direct line can be traced from him, but it seems probable that the next to make his entry into the county, may have been his son, or gr-son.

Lamb, William, (next to appear) made his will in Perq, probated April 1758, naming wife Miriam, and dau's: Elizabeth, Miriam, & Mary. Ex William Newby (bro-in-law). As he named no sons, we are at sea again, as to descent, but he may have "set off" his sons before this date, to use an old Quaker phrase, in use at that day. William Lamb m Miriam Newby 2, 11mo 1751.

Isaac Lamb, (s of Henry) m Elizabeth Nixon (d of Phineas) 18, 2mo 1756. As these two appear to be contemporaries, they were probably brothers. Henry Lambs name appears on Tithe List of James Sitterson J. P. 1744. On List of Masters, & mistresses, between Cypress Bridge, & Skinners Bridge, are found the names of Henry & Thomas Lamb (no date). As Henry Lamb made no will it is not possible to find descent from him, although he surely had children, as shown by his son Isaac.

Lamb, Joseph, (Thought to be son of Isaac) m Lovey Smith, 1, 11mo 1794. His will p in Perq, Nov 1803, names sons: Nixon, & Stanton, brother John Lamb, bro-in-law Hosea Smith, dau's: Mary Sarah, & Nancy Lamb.

Lamb, Zachariah, m Miriam Griffin, 1, 2mo 1785. He also made his will in Perq, p May 1804. Sons: William, & Chalkey, dau's: Mary, & Betsy, wife Miriam.

Lamb, Phineas, m Dorothy ——— & had issue according to his will, p in Perq Feb 1809. Sons: Thomas, Jacob, Josiah, & Isaac, dau's: Lydia, Rebecca, & Elizabeth Lamb, dau Miriam Griffin.

Lamb, Restore, m Millicent Winslow (d of Jacob, & Elizabeth). His will p in Perq, May 1823, names wife Millicent, sons: Stephen, & Caleb, dau's: Sarah Perry, & Mary Lamb, son Jacob, gr-son Thomas Hunter, dau Elizabeth Hunter, dau Kezia Willson, & Gulielma Lamb, son-in-law Sam'l Willson.

LAWRENCE

The supposition seems very plausible, that the family by this name in Perq, came as so many others had done, from Nansemond Co Va, where John Lawrence, was living very early, according to the records of Isle of Wight Co. These records show that Ann Exum of Isle of Wight, wife of Jeremiah, appears to be a daughter of said John Lawrence. No proofs are to be found, but he probably came south with the immigration from New England, where he married Elizabeth Adkinson, 8, 12mo 1653. (Records of Boston.) The Lawrence family appeared in Perq Co, N. C. simultaneously with the Clare's,

LSON CHURCH.

anized about 1822. It was named for one of the charter members, Mr. Thos. Nelson, who was 100 years old at the time the church was established. It is said that he split 100 rails the day he celebrated his 100th birthday. There have been several church buildings here. One was destroyed by a cyclone in 1894, and the present building was erected in 1895.

This church was connected with the Zebulon work until 1866. It was then put on the Milner Circuit. In 1917 it was placed on The Rock Circuit. The present very much beloved pastor is Rev. Grover C. Knowles.

Among the early members of the church, who served their generation by the will of God, were Thos. H. Turner and family; Mrs. Amanda Bussey and children; Thos. L. Campbell and family; Thomson Graham and wife; Jas. Yarbrough and family; Mrs. Thos. Allen and children; Mrs. Matthews and family; Thos. Verden and family; Seaborn Hickson and family, and the Simmons family.

There are sixty members on the church roll. The following are the Board of Stewards: Thos. J. Matthews, T. L. Matthews, Curtis W. Allen and J. T. Speer. There are forty on the Sunday School roll. Mrs. W. A. Bishop is Superintendent.

Rev. T. L. Bussey, a useful local preacher, now living in Atlanta, was a member of this church for many years.

HISTORY OF MT. OLIVE BAPTIST CHURCH.

The church record was burned when J. W. Pilkenton's store was burned several years ago, he being clerk. Mt. Olive Church was constituted between 1835 and 1840 by Jonathan Milner.

The following pastors and clerks have served the church:

1849-54 Henry Garland of The Rock, Ga.; Clerk, W. T. Crowell.

1855-56 Jacob King, Upson Co.; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1857-58 James F. McCloud, Upson County; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1859 Jacob Buffington; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1860-61 W. W. Head of Milner; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

J. M. Slade and J. D. Carreker came home from Camp Stephen Griffin, united with the church and were baptized the third Sunday in September, 1861, by W. W. Head.

1862-66 G. A. Moore; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1867 James H. Weaver; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1868-71 E. S. Harris; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1872-74 L. A. Jackson, Delray, Ga.; Clerk, P. H. McDowell.

1887-90 W. A. Brooks, Madison, Ga.; Clerk, H. G. Jordan.

1891-96 J. W. Beck, Jackson, Ga.; Clerk, J. W. Pilkenton.

1898-1904 W. P. Head, Woodbury, Ga.; Clerk, J. W. Pilkenton.

1904-1908 L. Hooten, Zebulon, Ga.; Clerk, J. W. Pilkenton.

1916 F. B. Ricketts, Atlanta; Clerk, G. W. Hamlett.

1918-1920 L. B. Harvey, Forsyth; Clerk, J. T. Pilkenton.

1920-1921 James C. Eppinger, Griffin; Clerk, J. T. Pilkenton.

1921-1922 C. E. Hitt, Forest Park; Clerk, J. T. Pilkenton.

Garner was deacon and also William Hardy of Upson County. W. J. Jones, R. G. Elliott, J. T. Pilkenton, T. C. McLendon, S. E. Clark and Luther Jones are the present deacons.

The land east of the creek belonged to Jas. M. Holmes and he gave four (4) acres for the church lot. Robt. Pilkenton gave three (3) acres making seven (7) in all.

Two of the oldest members now living are J. D. Carreker and Mrs. Susan Reeves who have been members 62 years. Total membership is about 246.

Number of ministers ordained from Mt. Olive Church were three. Zachariah Harris in 1848 who moved off to Dale County, Alabama, and spent his life in the ministry. G. W. Garner was ordained about 1880 and is now one of our leading ministers. J. D. Carreker was ordained about 1893.

There have been three churches erected on present lot: first one about 1835, second 1856 which was blown down by the cyclone March 3, 1893 and was rebuilt during the summer, Burl Banks of Zebulon being the contractor.

The number of churches constituted or partly constituted from the old church were five, namely, Beulah, Hendricks, Molena, Neal and Pleasant Valley.

We have had irregular Sunday Schools from about 1870, ben regular for the last twelve years. Superintendent, R. G. Elliott; average attendance, forty; number of teachers, five. W. M. S. was organized about 1909 during the pastorate of Bro. W. U. Kendrick. Mrs. W. J. Jones was president for several years. Mrs. E. J. Reeves is our present president; Mrs. J. T. Pilkenton, Vice-President; Mrs. J. L. Hamlett, Secretary; Miss Ethel Carreker, Treasurer; Miss Perla Pilkenton, chairman Social Committee. Sunbeam leader, Mrs. M. D. Connally.

THE WILKES COUNTY PAPERS

A compilation of the Genealogical Information Found in Collections of Loose Court, Estate, Land, School, Military, Marriage, and Other Records of the Ceded Lands and Wilkes County, Georgia, From 1773 to 1833 With a Few Additional Papers From Earlier and Later Periods

Compiled By Robert Scott Davis, Jr.

WILKES COUNTY

On June 1, 1773, more than 1½ million acres of land on Georgia's northern-most colonial border were ceded by the Cherokee and Creek Indian nations to the British government. The area became known as the Ceded Lands or New Purchase, officially part of St. Paul Parish, Georgia. British and Patriot forces occupied this region at different periods, changing the area's name several times:

1773-1776	The Ceded Lands or New Purchase, St. Paul Parish	British Colonial Rule
1777-1780	Wilkes County	Patriot State Control.
1779-1781	The Ceded Lands	Restored British Colonial Rule.
1781	St. Peter and St. Mark Parishes	Restored British Colonial Rule.
1781-1790	Wilkes County	Restored Patriot State Control.

Wilkes County was the first county created by the State of Georgia, being the first officially created by the State Constitution of 1777. Washington, Georgia, the county seat, was established in 1780. Although destroyed by Loyalist troops that same year, Washington was rebuilt on the same site after the Revolution.

Thousands of families moved to Wilkes County immediately after the American Revolution and by 1790 roughly one third of Georgia's population was living in that one county. Since that time, land that was originally part of Wilkes County has been used to create:

that the crown in this instance stands, in fact, in trust for the several creditors of those nations, whose debts have been or may be fairly liquidated and certified, or their assigns. The lands therefore so ceded in trust cannot be deemed the property of the crown, unless it is at the same time acknowledged that they must stand charged with, and liable to, the several unsatisfied claims of your memorialists and their correspondents.

That the present situation of affairs affords your memorialists reason to presume that some accommodation may soon take place with the revolted colonies. Upon this supposition they have taken the liberty to trouble your lordship of their intire reliance upon your attention to it, and that they are persuaded, that in every event of negotiation which may happen, the circumstances attending the cession made by the Cherokee and Creek Indians to his majesty at the congress of Augusta in May, 1773, of the lands to the southward of the River Savanna, for the sole purpose of paying the debts due from their respective nations to the British traders, will be duly attended to, and that those lands will be deemed as charged with, and made liable to, the payment of those debts, or that some other mode of payment will be adopted, to the satisfaction of your memorialists and their correspondents.

Burke County came third in the list of the eight original counties cited in the first State Constitution of 1777. Prior to that time, under the Royal Province of Georgia, it was called St. George Parish, named after St. George, the patron saint of England.

Many of Georgia's great Irish families came from old St. George Parish, descended from the original settlers of Queensborough, commonly known as the "Irish Town." Located near the mouth of Lamberts Creek on the Ogechee River, this town was laid out specifically for the Irish settlers, the first group arriving from Europe in 1769.

From this great county of Burke, came part of Jefferson County in which is located Louisville, the second permanent State Capital of Georgia. Burke also gave up territory to help form Screven and Jenkins Counties.

Unfortunately, many of the early county records of Burke are gone and perhaps this book will add a little to the records of its early days.

History of Pulaski Co, Ga.

William Oliver Jelks, educated at Georgia Tech and Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Ala., married Mary Peacock of Hawkinsville, in 1920. Three children were born to this union: William Vance (died in infancy), Mary Peacock, and Virginia Vance. This family now resides in Delray Beach, Fla., where "Will" is a dealer in real estate and fertilizer. W. O. Jelks volunteered in the World War, was in R. O. T. C., Artillery, 1918-19. He was commissioned second lieutenant.

Virginia Jelks, educated at Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga., resides in Hawkinsville.

Albert Augustus Jelks, educated at Mercer University, Macon, and American School of Osteopathy, Kirksville, Mo., married Doris Onderdonk, of Syracuse, N. Y., in 1921. She was before her marriage, and is now, a member of the faculty of Wesleyan Conservatory. They have two children, Albert Augustus, Jr., and Jordan Onderdonk. This family resides in Macon, Ga., where Dr. Jelks is practicing his profession of osteopathy. He volunteered in the World War and served overseas during 1918 and 1919 in Base Hospital 43, as sergeant.

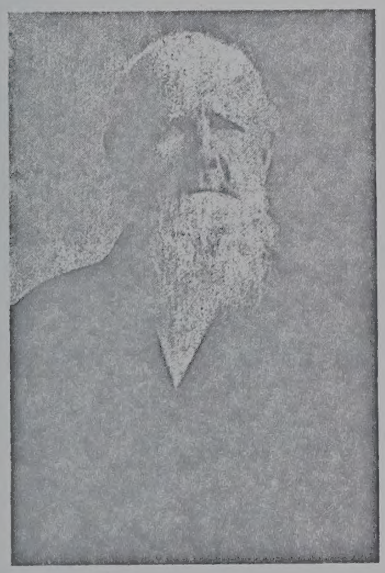
JORDAN

Origin of this surname: "A young Crusader who had borne the ensign of the Cross through many battles, when knighted by Richard the Lion Hearted, and asked what boon he desired, replied, 'My father, William of Deandon, once made the complete pilgrimage, bathed in the holy waters of the river, and carried to my mother the olive branch. Therefore, if it please thee, I would like a name—I would be called Jordan'."

George Washington Jordan, son of Briton Jordan and his wife, Margaret Bell, was born in Washington County, Georgia, in 1826, and died in Hawkinsville in 1912. He attended school at Penfield, Mercer Institute, and read law under his uncle, Judge Isom Saffold, and settled in Hawkinsville in 1847 to practice law. After his marriage to Ann Rebecca, daughter of George Walker and wife, Martha Childers, of Longstreet, he removed to Longstreet, noted Pulaski community. Their children were: Anna Bell, who died young; George Walker, Albert Augustus, who died young; Martha Spann (Mrs. W. A. Jelks), and Richard Childers. Besides his profession he was a planter with extensive interests. He was solicitor general of the Southern Circuit in 1851, and represented Pulaski in the Senate in 1859-60. His wife died in 1864. His second marriage was to Mrs. Henrietta Breazeal Walker. They had one child, Leonidas Augustus. He represented Pulaski in the House of Representatives in 1877. He returned to Hawkinsville with his family in 1881, and was mayor of Hawkinsville. Governor Allen Candler appointed him Judge of Pulaski County Court in 1899. He served nine years. Judge

Jordan was a member of the Baptist Church, a Confederate soldier, and a man of unquestioned integrity.

George Walker Jordan, son of George Washington Jordan, was born at Longstreet in 1855. He was educated at Longstreet Academy and at Mercer University. He first married Lilla Mason of Longstreet, and they had one child, Lilla Bell, who died young, and in 1881 his wife died. He next married Caroline Tarver, of Tarversville, Twiggs County, Georgia. Their children: Laura, who died young; Rebecca, Carolyn, George Walker, and an infant that died young. Mr. Jordan was a planter and landed proprietor of Longstreet. He removed to Hawkinsville in 1898, and has served Pulaski



GEORGE WASHINGTON JORDAN

County and Hawkinsville thirty-two years, as follows: County commissioner for five years, member county board of education for one year, member House of Representatives eight years, city councilman four years, city tax assessor two years, city mayor six years, and city manager six years. He was mayor during the World War, and responded personally and officially to government appeals. "Peace and equity" has been his rule in life.

George Walker Jordan II, son of George Walker Jordan, was born at Longstreet, and has lived at Hawkinsville since 1898. He is a member of the Methodist Church, a graduate of Hawkinsville High School, and M.E. graduate of Georgia School of Technology. He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. During the World War he volunteered for service, enlisting in the United States Naval Reserve Force with rank of C.M.M. He married Marion Green of Cochran, Georgia, and their children are Lucy Callaway and George Walker III.

Richard Childers Jordan, son of George Washington Jordan, was born at Longstreet in 1864, and died at Macon, Georgia, in 1925. He was educated at private schools, and graduated at Mercer University in 1884, with A.B. degree. He read law under his father, and was admitted to the bar in 1885. He was appointed solicitor of Pulaski County Court and served during 1889-92. Moving to Macon, he entered the law office of Bacon and Rutherford. He married May

LEE A. JORDAN

Curd, of Macon. Their children were: Julia, who died young, and Marion, who died soon after graduating at Wesleyan College. Though she lived a brief span of years, she left a record of heroism for the annals of her people. Judge Richard Jordan was a deacon of the Presbyterian Church, and during the World War was active in selling Liberty Bonds. He was law agent for the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad in 1894-95, and for many years was attorney for the Central of Georgia Railway, as well as solicitor general for the City Court of Macon. He was appointed judge of the City Court of Macon in 1924 by Governor Clifford Walker, and served until his death.

Leonidas Augustus Jordan, son of George Washington Jordan, was born at Longstreet in 1871, and died at Hawkinsville in 1933.

After 1831 his home was at Hawkinsville. He was educated at private schools. He was a planter, a cotton buyer, and at one time one of the largest landowners of Pulaski County. He married Marie Johns of Farmington, Oconee County, Georgia. They had one child, Leonidas Augustus. Mr. Jordan was a member of the Baptist Church. He was a liberal supporter of World War demands, was active in the social and progressive interests of his town and county, and was an upright, loyal citizen.

Arthur Jordan, progenitor of this line, emigrated from England and settled in Virginia in 1635. His brother, George Jordan, was attorney general of Virginia. John Jordan, lineal descendant of Arthur, was born in Greenville County, Virginia, and settled in Washington County, Georgia, in 1800. He served all during the Revolution, and was a guard on post when Cornwallis surrendered to Washington at Yorktown. John Jordan was the grandfather of George Washington Jordan of Pulaski County.

JAMES LEWIS LAMKIN

James Lewis Lamkin was the grandson of Lewis Abb Lewis Lamkin, who was directly descended from original Welsh emigrants, and was born in Westmoreland County, Virginia, in 1751, and died November 8, 1832. He spent most of his life in Nash County, N. C., and was a most distinguished citizen. His wife was Charity Williams, daughter of Samuel Williams, whose will is still in possession of one of his descendants. Their sons were Samuel, Lewis Abb Lewis, Jr., founder of the family in Texas, William and John Lewis.

John Lewis was born in Nash County, N. C., January 15, 1784. He married Penelope Hair Cain, of Nash County, April 10, 1810. In 1817 he rode his horse from North Carolina to Georgia, while his family accompanied him in a handsome old-fashioned carriage. He settled first in Telfair County, and later in Pulaski County, where he died September 23, 1857. Land purchased by him is still owned by his descendants (1935). He was the father of Eliza, Emily, Elmira, Charity, and James Lewis.

James Lewis Lamkin was born in Nash County, N. C., December 8, 1817. When only two months old he came with his parents to Georgia, where he lived until his death, March 11, 1887. In Hawkinsville, Ga., August 2, 1842, he married Sarah Ann Dillard, who was born September 22, 1822, and died May 22, 1890, daughter of Nicholas Philips Dillard and Emma Adams, who were married in Edgefield County, South Carolina. The mother of Emma Adams was Miss Rambo of the same state and county. The children of James Lewis Lamkin and Sarah Ann Dillard were: Penelope, Elmira, and Katheen.

Penelope was educated at Winston-Salem Moravian Seminary. She married James L. Walker. They were the parents of two chil-

"PASSPORTS ISSUED BY THE GOVENORS OF GEORGIA" 1785-1820

'Passports' received by Governor of Ga. were for permission to go through or into the Indian Nation. Reccomendations would come from friends, neighbors and these would be sent to the Governor.

Earliest found is in 1785 for either recovery of stolen horses, or slaves. Later it was to 'see the new country'.

The passports seemed to stop in 1813. Two were issued in 1817. One in 1819. Four in 1820. This slow down and eventually a stoppage was probably because the Indians had become Allies of the English in the War of 1812 and it was very dangerous to go into the Indian Nation.

By the time it was safe to go though, the land had been secured from the Indian and it was no longer necessary to have a passport.

GEORGE GUNBY JORDAN

1910 Muscogee Co., Ga. Census

GEORGE GUNBY JORDAN

George Gunby Jordan was born in Sparta, Ga., June 19, 1846, one of six children of Sylvester Franklin and Rachel (Gunby) Jordan. His father's ancestors were Scotch and among the first settlers of Massachusetts. The Gunbys were English, having settled in Maryland, the Georgia branch moving to Columbia County shortly after the Revolution, in which Gen. John Gunby, one of the connection, played a conspicuous part. Mr. Jordan was educated in the grammar and high schools of Sparta, leaving at seventeen years of age to join the Confederate Army as a private in Nelson Rangers, a volunteer company from Georgia, which served as scouts and as escort of Lieut. Gen. Stephen D. Lee, after he was appointed Corps Commander in Hood's Army.

After the war he came to Columbus as a clerk in a wholesale firm in 1866. The year following, when the Eagle Manufacturing Company had been reorganized into the Eagle and Phenix Mills, he was made treasurer and credit man. In 1875 he was made cashier of the Savings Bank connected with the mills, and served there until 1887. Since that time Mr. Jordan has held many positions in the commercial world, among them the following: president, Georgia Midland Construction Co., 1886; general R'way; organizer and president, Third Nat'l. Bank, 1888—January, 1921; organizer and president, Columbus Bank and Trust Co., 1889—January 1921; president, Eagle and Phenix Mills, 1898-1916; president, Bibb Mfg. Co., (Macon), 1909-1913; president, The Jordan Co. He also served as president and is director of the Perkins Hosiery Mills (Columbus), is Director of the Southern Mutual Ins. Co., (Athens), the General Fire Extinguisher Co. (Providence and New York), etc.

In the political and civic world he has held the following offices: member staff of Gov. A. H. Stephens, 1882; member Western Atlantic Commission under appointment of Governor Northen, 1891; member railroad commission of Georgia, 1894-1901; president, Georgia Immigration Assn., 1904; member Commission for Industrial Peace by appointment of President Roosevelt, 1907; chairman Western and Atlantic commission, by appointment of Governor Slaton, 1913; vice-president, Western and Atlantic Leasing commission, 1915; member executive committee National Civic Federation; member National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education.

In 1905 Mr. Jordan was elected president of the Columbus Board of Education and largely through his efforts the city put into operation the first municipally owned Industrial High School in the United States.

In February 1881, Mr. Jordan was married to Miss Lizzie B. Curtis, of Columbus. She died the year following leaving a son, Ralph Curtis, who was married to Miss Louise Mulford of New Jersey. They have four attractive children: G. Gunby II, R. Curtis, Jr., Mulford, and Louise. The Jordan home, Green Island Ranch, seven miles from the city is one of the show places of Columbus, covering many acres of wellkept lawns, flower gardens, and farms.

Mr. Jordan at present is a member of the county commission of roads and revenues, and in charge of the project of the betterment of the Muscogee prison facilities. Of his position as a Columbus citizen, a friend has said: "Mr. Jordan stands among the first of that large class of able, broadminded and untiring characters who have contributed so much to the upbuilding of the Southern States since the close of the great Civil War. He is a man who would have been eminently successful in any line of life work which he might have chosen to follow. Personally he is universally popular. His ambition seems to be to labor in and for the good of his adopted city, and the good which he has already done will live long after he is called to his final home."

Many other historical places have been referred to in former chapters and their locations noted.

NOTABLE VISITORS

Besides the many prominent visitors who have come to Columbus in recent years, and in the stirring political times centering around secession, there have been many others of national and international repute to pay a call on the oldest industrial city of the South:

Among the refugees during the Civil War, besides those already mentioned, was the family of Gen. John B. Gordon's parents who came from near Chattanooga. They lived here for a number of years and after their death were buried in Linwood cemetery.

Immediately after the Civil War, numbers of the famous military leaders and statesmen came to Columbus, and since that time other prominent visitors have found a cordial welcome here.

Of the United States Presidents, besides those already named, President Taft came to Columbus on his tour of the South while he was in office. President Roosevelt also came here, when he was a candidate for the presidency on the Progressive Party's ticket. William Jennings Bryan came to Columbus on three different occasions.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, also has been to this city. In 1917 he attended the state bankers' association held here. There are also many others who have discovered the advantages of the South's Oldest Industrial city, at first hand, and have gone away to other sections of the country to tell of what they have found.

Fleming Jordan

By Wiley Phillips Jordan

Four Jordan brothers, Reuben, Fleming, Charles Scott, and Mortimer, came to Jasper County from the Goose Pond District of Oglethorpe County, Georgia, soon after Jasper County was founded. Mortimer moved on to Alabama and Reuben and Charles Scott are buried in the Methodist Church Cemetery.

Members of this family now living in Jasper County are descended from John Fleming Jordan, known as Fleming, b. July 26, 1791 in N.C., who m. Ann Rebekah Meriwether, April 4, 1811 in Oglethorpe County. She was b. Aug. 26, 1790 and d. July 22, 1853. Fleming d. March 19, 1868. They are both buried in unmarked graves in the old Jordan-Meriwether Cemetery on the Bennie Batchelor farm in Piedmont Community. Also buried there are Ann's father, Thomas Meriwether, a Revolutionary War soldier, and her mother, Rebecca Mathews Meriwether, daughter of Georgia's Governor George Mathews.

Fleming and Ann Meriwether Jordan had four children: Sarah (Sallie) (1812-1862) m. Benjamin F. Ward; Reuben (Oct. 28, 1814-Feb. 10, 1885) m. Mary Frances Bonner; Rebecca M. (1817-1837) m. Henry Slappy Glover; and Thomas Meriwether (Sept. 14, 1826-July 1881) m. Frances Caroline Burney (Dec. 11 1828-Apr. 16, 1907).

Fleming's son Reuben Jordan married Mary Frances Bonner in 1839. She was the daughter of Pleasant Bonner and Elizabeth Mathis. They obtained the home of Welcome Park and made it their home. This house still stands and is the home of their great-great-grandson Wiley Phillips Jordan, Jr. and his wife Miriam McElheney.

Reuben, along with Aris Newton, were Jasper County's representatives to the State Meeting held in Milledgeville in January 1861. Representatives from each county in the state decided at this meeting that Georgia should secede from the Union and become a part of the Confederate States of America.

Mary Frances and Reuben Jordan had four children. They were Henry Bonner, Rebecca, Fleming and Erasmus Hunter.

Henry Bonner Jordan married Salina Fish, daughter of Calvin Fish and Serena Kelly. Their children were: Rebecca who married Charles Lee Henderson; Hunter who married Hattie White first, Zadie Ezell second; William Fleming who married Lena Barnes; Charles Henry who married (1) Lizzie Kate White, (2) Carlie Barnes (see Barnes); and Irene who married James Johnson.

Rebecca, known to relatives as Aunt Beck, never married. She was a school teacher who taught nieces, nephews, and neighborhood children at a school she operated in the Reuben Jordan home for many years. She died in 1932 at the age of ninety.

Second son Fleming Jordan went off to the War Between the States. At age nineteen he was with General Jubal Early's cavalry that made a raid on Washington, D.C., in July of 1864. General Early's forces advanced from Silver Springs, Maryland, to within sight of the White House before being forced to retire from the area by Union forces. Fleming was wounded and captured at Blairs' Farm. He died of his wounds at Lincoln Hospital in Washington and was buried in Arlington National Cemetery along with about 150 Confederate soldiers who died in or near Washington.

Ironically, less than four months later, on a dreary Sunday morning, November 20, 1864, soldiers of General Sherman's cavalry had breakfast prepared for them at the Reuben Jordan home near Monticello, Georgia.

Erasmus Hunter Jordan, who as a soldier aged sixteen participated in the Battle of Atlanta, returned home after the war to marry Rebecca Glover, daughter of Eli Seymour Glover and Rebecca Meriwether.

Their children were: Mary Davis who married Evan Powell; Bonner who married Elizabeth Davidson; Sarah Capal who never married; Hampton Marks who married Lucy Ann Ward; Reuben who married Roberta Malone; Annie who married Thomas Edwin Perry; George Dixon who married Inez Marshall; David who died as a child of four; and Erasmus Glover Jordan who married Myrene Phillips.

Thomas Meriwether Jordan

By Fronie Jordan Turner

Thomas Meriwether Jordan (1826-1881) and Frances Caroline Burney (1828-1907) were m. Jan. 4, 1848. In the 1850's they came to live at "Exeter" (now known as the Jordan-Bellew House) which was built by Fleming for his son and his family. In 1860 Fleming lived next door and listed his occupation as Farmer. Thomas and Caroline had nine children: Elizabeth (1848-1878) m. ——— Minifee; Mary Burney (1849-1940) m. Jasper B. Groves; Sara Jeanette (1851-1943) m. Sumner Bacon; Thomas Meriwether, Jr. (1854-1903) m. Lizzie Powell; John Flemin; II (1857-1932) m. Jessie Emma Thonason; Annie Kate (1858-1941) m. WILKES COUNTY, GEORGIA TAX RECORDS, 1785-1805

INDEX TO RETURNS OF PERSONS SUBJECT TO TAXATION, OWNERS OF ADJOINING LANDS, AND TO WHOM GRANTED OR FOR WHOM SURVEYED

This Index is a combined index to three columns of the database created from the original records: "Persons Names", "Who Land Joins", and "Granted To". Duplications resulting from the person named subject to taxation being the grantee have been eliminated. Names of all persons having exact same spelling of a surname, and similar or variant spellings of first (given) names and all abbreviations thereof, have been consolidated. Example: Returns for J^n, Jno, John, and Jo^n SURNAME will be found as SURNAME John; sometimes SURNAME Jno, J^n or Jo^n. Single letters (initials) for first names and nicknames are not included in the consolidations.

THIS IS AN INDEX TO TAX RETURNS, NOT TO PAGES IN THIS BOOK. To make best use of this index, the reader should first refer to Appendix "A" for a list of the variant spellings of common surnames found in these records. Each return is identified by a year, a district, a number, and in many cases, a letter suffix. This designation is unique: no other return will be found with the same identical designation.

The designation for a return may be broken into its components, as follows:

YEAR: First two numbers: 85 for 1785, 96 for 1796, 99 for 1799, 00 for 1800, 04 for 1804, etc.

DISTRICT: One, two, or three letters after the two numbers for the year: A, X, C, Y, CC, GG, MM, BBB, HHH, JJJ, etc.

A BLANK SPACE

NUMBER: All returns for a district for one year are numbered in sequence: 001, 002, 003: 021, 022, 023; 091, 092, 093; 135, 136, 137; etc.

SUFFIXES: A second return for the same person uses the same designation with an A added, a third with a B added, etc. To save space, suffixes are combined in the index, e.g., A&B; A,B&C; A,F (for A and F); and A-F (for A,B,C,D,E and F). In general, suffixes replace dittos found in original records, not suitable for use in a database.

CHAPTER I

HARVIES IN VIRGINIA

ARMS: Azure on a bend or, three trefoils vert.
CREST: A trefoil vert.
MOTTO: Delectat et ornat.

For information relative to the Harvie family the following sources were used: "Historic Homes of the South West Mountains," by E. C. Mead (1899); "History of Albemarle County," by Woods; "Georgians," by Gilmer; "Augusta County History," by Lyman Chalky.

JOHN HARVIE, I, was born at Gargunnock in the shire of Stirling, Scotland, coming to Virginia about 1730. Just at the time Albemarle County was organized he was living at Belmont, near Keswick, having purchased about the same time as did his neighbor, Colonel William Randolph of Ruckahoe, 2500 acres of land from a certain Joshua Graves, lying east of the Edgehill estate, adjoining lands of his friend, Colonel Peter Jefferson, and embracing the present farms of East Belmont, Springdale, Keswick Station, Broad Oak, and Everettsville.

At the death of Colonel Peter Jefferson, John Harvie was named guardian of the young Thomas Jefferson. The following is a copy of one of Jefferson's earliest letters addressed to Colonel John Harvie at Belmont, January 14, 1740:

"Sir:

"I was at Colonel Peter Randolph's about a fortnight ago, and my schooling falling into Discourse, he said he thought it would be to my advantage to go to the College, and desirous I should go, as indeed I am myself for several Reasons. In the first place, as long as I stay at the Mountain, the loss of one-fourth of my time is inevitable, by company's coming here and detaining me from school. And likewise my absence will in a measure put a stop to so much company, and by that means, lessen the expenses of the Estate in Housekeeping. And on the other hand by going to College I shall get a more universal acquaintance, which may hereafter be serviceable to me; and I suppose I can pursue my studies in the Greek and Latin as well there as here, and likewise learn something of the Mathematics. I shall be Glad of your opinion and remain, Sir, your most humble servant."

"THOMAS JEFFERSON, JR."[1].

[1]. From Sketch of the Harvie Family.

The following records in the life of John Harvie I are taken from the "Records of Augusta County, Virginia" by Lyman Chalky, recorded in Albemarle County:

John Harvie qualifies as Attorney, August 19, 1747.

John Harvie is appointed to prepare deeds on March 20, 1758.

On August 22, 1755—Alexander Wight's bond as administrator of William Wight, with Sureties, John Harvie, Gabriel Jones, Teste, John Semple.

John Harvie married Martha Gaines, born 1719, daughter of Daniel Gaines of Virginia. [1]John Harvie died in 1767, leaving the following children:

Richard Harvie; John Harvie, born 1742; Daniel Harvie; William Harvie; Martha Harvie; Mary Harvie; Margaret Harvie; Janet Harvie; Elizabeth Harvie.

All the children except John, with their mother, Martha Gaines Harvie, emigrated to Georgia in the year 1780, settling on Broad River in Wilkes County.

Although John Harvie was the second son, he will be recorded first, being the only son, who remained at his father's home, "Belmont." The original house, supposed to have been built by John Harvie I, had nine small rooms, was one and one-half stories high, with wings at each end, and high dormer windows, giving it an antique appearance. Previous to his removal to Richmond, Colonel Harvie had placed his property in the hands of his friend, John Rogers, to be sold, and in 1811, Dr. Charles Everett, of Albemarle, purchased twelve hundred acres of the Belmont tract, while John Rogers retained and lived upon the portion of the estate known as East Belmont. In 1858 the old house was removed to the rear, divided into two out buildings and upon its site a new mansion was built by Dr. Everett. This was a brick stuccoed, sixty feet long, and forty-five feet wide, and fifty feet from the ground. The building, three stories in height, had wide porticoes and on the roof a tank, holding 1500 gallons of water, to supply the house. This handsome structure cost $17,500.00 and was three years in building. Certainly no country house equalled it at that time.

[1]. John Harvie's will, dated June 4, 1767, proved March 10, 1768, Albemarle County Records (26 V. M. 318).

On Sunday, March 11, 1883, while the Everett family was at the South Plains Church, two miles distant, the top of the building was seen to be on fire. Mrs. Everett got into the house in time to save most of her valuable papers and jewelry.

Again the old chateau, now fully two hundred years old, was remodeled and moved back upon its ancient site. It is doing good service by sheltering the family, its timbers as sound as ever, surrounded by stately elms, and Kentucky collee-nuts, etc.

JOHN HARVIE, II, married Margaret Jones, daughter of Gabriel Jones and his wife, Margaret Strother Jones. Margaret Strother was the daughter of John Strother, who is buried in the graveyard opposite Fredericksburg and upon his tomb is inscribed: "John Strother, Gentleman."

Gabriel Jones was a well educated Welchman, the friend, kinsman, and executor of Lord Fairfax. His residence was in the valley of Virginia, on the Shenandoah River, in view of the mountains in every direction, upon a farm of great fertility and extent, adjoining the farms of his three brothers-in-law, Thomas Lewis, John Madison, and John Frog, and his friend, Peachy R. Gilmer.

Gabriel Jones was a lawyer, who rose to eminence in his profession. He was offered a judgeship, which he declined. He was a good patriot and is mentioned in Lane's "History of Virginia" as commanding a company of volunteers from Culpepper County.

Gabriel and Martha Strother Jones had four children:

Margaret Jones m. John Harvie; Elizabeth Jones m. John Lewis; Anna Gabriella Jones m. John Hawkins; Strother Jones m..... Thornton.

JOHN HARVIE II, was a prominent man in his generation. He was one of the first lawyers in point of time, who practiced at the Albemarle bar. He took oath of attorney on June 20, 1770. He represented Augusta County in the Convention of Delegates in 1775–1776.

Upon the outbreak of the Revolution, a company of volunteers was organized at Albemarle. John Harvie was elected as Ensign of the Company. The other officers elected at the same time were: Charles Lewis, Captain; Dr. George Gilmer and John Marks, Lieutenants; William Simons, William Wood, William T. Lewis, and John Martin, Sergeants, and Frederick W. Will, Thomas Martin II, Patrick Napier, and David Allen. John Harvie was a member of the House of Burgesses and in the House introduced a resolution to move the prison camp to a tract of land belonging to himself. It was approved and Colonel Harvie made arrangements for the building of a barracks, which project failed through the miss-management of his brother, whom he put in charge.

Colonel Harvie was one of the vestrymen of the old Saint John's Church, Richmond, Virginia, elected March 28, 1789–1795.[1] It was before this assembly that Patrick Henry made his famous revolutionary speech. Colonel Harvie was united with John Walker to treat with the Indians at Fort Pitt.

John Harvie was a member of the Continental Congress and represented Augusta and West Augusta Counties in the convention of delegates during the session of 1775–1776, respectively, and signed the Articles of Confederation in behalf of the State of Virginia, with Richard Henry Lee, John Banister, Thomas Adams, and Francis Lightfoot Lee.

Colonel Harvie served in Congress during the most critical times. He was a friend and supporter of Washington and "this he could not have been, if he were not, as he undoubtedly was, a man of strict integrity and of the highest sense of honor."

From Mr. Jefferson he received an appointment as "Register of the Land Office," which necessitated his living in Richmond. He lived in a beautiful home, "Belvidere."

John Harvie was a public-spirited man and did much to improve his city property, building, among other houses, what was afterwards known as the Gamble Mansion, in the erection of which his death was caused by falling from a ladder. This occurred at Belvidere in 1807.

By his great business and financial ability, he amassed a large fortune and was, for many years, identified with most of the enterprises connected with the growth and prosperity of the city of Richmond and the state of Virginia.

The children of John and Margaret Jones Harvie were:

Lewis Harvie; Edwin James Harvie m. Miss Hardaway; Jaquelin Harvie m. Mary, daughter of Chief-Justice Marshall; John Harvie, III, m. Margaretta Hawkins; Emily Harvie m. (1). Mr. Whitlock, (2). Mr. McCraw; Julia Harvie—died; Gabriella Harvie m. (1). Thomas Mann Randolph, I, (2). Dr. John Brokenborough.

Lewis Harvie was elected in early manhood to the Legislature, served one year with great distinction (having been previously one of President Jefferson's Secretaries), was seized with pulmonary disease, was ordered to take a sea voyage for the disease, and died at sea. His body was brought back and buried in Norfolk, at Saint Paul's Church.

John Harvie, III, emigrated to Kentucky, where he was appointed by the Governor and Senate, a member of the first State Board of Internal Improvements. He represented his county (Franklin) in the legislature of 1835–1836. He was an esteemed and beloved citizen. At his death he left three sons and two daughters.

Edwin James Harvie was burned in the Richmond Theater in 1811. At the time of his death he was an officer (teller) in the bank of Virginia. He left a widow, who was Miss Hardaway of Amelia County, Virginia, and two sons, Lewis Edwin Harvie and John B. Harvie.

Lewis Edwin and John Brokenborough Harvie married respectively two daughters of John Blair, viz: Mary E. Blair and Sarah Blair. John G. Blair was the son of Reverend John D. Blair of Richmond, Virginia, and his wife was Sarah Ann Eyre Heron, daughter of James Heron of Glascow, Scotland.

Lewis Edwin and Mary E. Blair Harvie had the following children:

Edwin James Harvie, II, m. Mary Edmonia Meade, daughter of Modijah Meade.

William O. Harvie, b. 1839, m. Ann Jefferson.

Charles Irving Harvie was attending the University of Virginia at the outbreak of the war. He went with a group of fellow students to Harper's Ferry. Soon after, he entered the Confederate army as a private. He was soon made a Lieutenant on General Echol's staff. He served with distinction and fell at Cedarville, aged 22 years, on November 12; he was carried to Winchester, where he died November 14, 1864.

CHAPTER II

GEORGE R. GILMER

To George R. Gilmer the writer is indebted for the preservation of material concerning the Harvie family in Georgia. Governor Gilmer is a connection of this family and has presented facts concerning them in his book, "Georgians." As a tribute to him, a sketch of his life is here recorded.

George R. Gilmer was the oldest son of Thomas Meriwether Gilmer and Elizabeth Lewis. Thomas Meriwether Gilmer was the son of Peachy Ridgway Gilmer, who, in turn, was the son of Dr. George Gilmer, who came to Virginia from Edinburgh, Scotland.

Elizabeth Lewis Gilmer was a descendant of the distinguished Lewis family of Virginia. Thomas M. and Elizabeth Gilmer came to Georgia and settled on Broad River in that part of Wilkes County, which is now Oglethorpe County. There George R. Gilmer was born, on the eleventh of April, 1790. In the story of his life, Governor Gilmer says: "The first recollection I have of myself was my confinement in bed, by an attack of bilious fever and of my slow recovery." [1].Until he was ten years of age, he lived in a house made of hewed logs. He tells of sleeping with a crack at his back large enough for his body to pass through. An interesting account is also given concerning the old Field Schools he attended. At the age of twelve years, he went with his brother, Lewis, to Mr. Wilson's select classical school near Abbeville, South Carolina. This was his first experience away from his home and his first contact with people, other than Virginians. After the breaking up of Mr. Wilson's school, he attended Dr. Waddel's Academy before he was eighteen. Being too young to enter a law office, he taught his younger brothers and sisters and a few of the young people of his neighborhood for a year's time.

After teaching a year, he set out with a friend, Muse, on a trip through Virginia on horseback. During his travels he visited many of his kinsfolk, among them, the Lewis,' Gilmer's, Gabriel Jones, and Mrs. John Harvie. While a guest of Mrs. John Harvie, he met Eliza Grattan of Rockingham, who later became his wife.

During the trip the two men visited the courts and public meetings, where they heard speeches made by noted Virginian statesmen. Upon their return to Georgia, George Gilmer commenced the practice of law with Mr. Upson of Lexington.

In 1813 he received a commission of First Lieutenant in the 43rd Regiment. He was put in command of a troop to treat with the Indians along the Chattahoochee.

He was elected to act in the Georgia Legislature for the session 1818–1819. He served with distinction in Congress during the 17th, 20th, and 23rd sessions. In 1832 he represented Oglethorpe County at the Great Anti-Tariff Convention, where "he made an argument with his usual zeal and ability on the main question." George Gilmer was twice Governor of Georgia, from 1837 to 1839. He was a great friend and supporter of the Cherokee Indians; both in Congress and as Governor he espoused their cause. In a message to the Legislature upon the subject of a land claim, he stated, "Permit me to recommend to the Legislature the most liberal and forebearing course, in relation to our right to the territory in dispute. Delay and thorough investigation will not weaken our title if valid. Representing as we do, a great community and having for our dependents a weak tribe of Indians, subject to our legislation, it becomes us to not only act justly but to avoid the appearance of violating right."[1].

During his governorship a rush for gold was made on the Indian territory. This was cause for more disturbance—this time, between the Gold-Seekers and the Red Men.

After retiring from public life to his home in Lexington, he wrote his book, "Georgians." Most of his life was spent in Lexington and there he died and is buried in the beautiful Lexington cemetery.

CHAPTER III

HARVIES IN GEORGIA

From Governor Gilmer's "Georgians" information concerning the Harvie family in Georgia, descended from John Harvie I and his wife, Martha Gaines Harvie, is obtained. Martha, the widow of John Harvie I, soon after the Revolution, accompanied by her children, moved from Albemarle County, Virginia to Wilkes County, Georgia and settled at Goose Pond on Broad River. The Harvies were the most numerous family of original settlers. Martha Gaines Harvie made her home with her son, Richard Harvie, at a beautiful place between Mr. Frank Meriwether's and Mr. Tom Meriwether's. William Harvie, another son lived with them until his marriage. Mrs. Harvie resided there until her death in her eighty-third year. [1].Her will, recorded February 2, 1802, in Oglethorpe County, cut off from Wilkes County, reads thus:

In the name of God Amen. I, Martha Harvie of the County of Oglethorpe and State of Georgia, being of sound and disposing mind, do constitute and appoint this my last will and testament, of all my real and personal property, which I wish to be carried into full effect, in the following manner, that is to say Imprimis:

My will is that all my just debts be paid out of what estate I shall leave.

2nd'ly. I give to my grand daughter, Martha G. Harvie, daughter of my son William Harvie my negro girl named Millinda to her and her heirs.

3rd'ly. I give to my grand daughter Janette and her heirs my negro girl named Matilda.

4th'ly. I give to my son William Harvie my negro woman named Letty and whatever children the said Letty may hereafter have to be distributed among the children of my son William in such a manner that each child may have one as far as they will go, at the death of my said son the negro Letty shall be left to which ever of the said children she may choose to serve, and that the said Letty shall receive five dollars a year in token of her Mistresses regard of her—also my negro man Gabriel if he chooses to be sold, my said son is to sell him to whom he may choose to serve and to give him ten dollars of what money may be in the hands of my said son, but if he chooses to live with my said son my said son may keep him at appraised value. I also give to my son William all my stock of sheep.

5th'ly. I give to my grand daughter Martha Bradley one bed and pr. of Blankets, one pr. of sheets and one counterpane.

6th'ly. I give to my grand daughter Lucy P. Moore one bed and pr. of blankets one pr. of sheets and one counterpane.

7th'ly. I give to Massey Powers in consideration of the great Regard I have for her the sum of forty dollars.

8th'ly. I give my lands in Jackson County to be Equally divided between my grandson Daniel Harvie and the first son my son William may have.

9th'ly. I give to my granddaughters Mary, Margaret, and Janette the sum of one hundred dollars each.

10th'ly. I give to my son William Harvie, my grandsons Nicholas M. Marks and Daniel G. Moore, and my friends Thomas Meriwether and John Davenport in trust for the use of my daughter Martha Moore, that part of my estate that from the will of my late husband, John Harvie dec'd, which would have descended to my said daughter Martha, the Revision of which I have brought of John Moore, together with one hundred dollars to be appropriated by them in such manner, as they shall conceive to be most advantageous to my said daughter Martha during her natural life and at her death to be Equally divided between all her children except Martha G. Jordan and William Moore who are already provided for the Residue of what moneys may be left in the hands of my son William including the price of Gabriel together with my carriage and horses to be equally divided between my grand children Peggy and Betsy Jordan, Frankie Harvie, Peggy and Betsy Moore, Martha Gincy and Polly Marks, daughters of my grand son John A. Marks.

Lastly I constitute my son William my sole executor of this my last will and testament.

Signed and sealed this 25th day of September 1801.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Harvie were of unusual weight. The story is told that when Mr. Jefferson was in France, Ambassador of the Confederation, he found that the opinion was prevalent there and elsewhere in Europe that animal nature deteriorated in America. In an effort to disprove this point he wrote notes on Virginia and in seeking evidence applied to Colonel Harvie for the weight of himself and his brothers and sisters. Colonel Harvie so indignantly refused that Mr. Jefferson made no reference to them in his book. The nine, however, weighed about 2700 pounds; the four brothers a little less than 1200 and the five sisters somewhat more than 1500 pounds.

The children of John and Martha Gaines Harvie follow:

RICHARD HARVIE was the only gentleman of the Broad River people, who enjoyed "Otium cum dignitate." His taste was literary and his time devoted to reading. His library was large and made up of the best books. His will, recorded in Oglethorpe County, Georgia, June 23, 1800, throws much light on his characteristics. He was first of all deeply appreciative. He expressed his appreciation to George Kepper and Co. for establishing him in business. He was certainly generous as can be seen by his most liberal grants to George Kepper, Alexander McCaul, his school master in Scotland, and Charles Irving. He received his education in Glasgow, Scotland. The will reads:

"Know all men by these presents that I Richard Harvie of the County of Albemarle State of Virginia being this day in perfect health and sound memory do make this my last will and testament and Revoking all others heretofore made.

Item: I desire that all my just debts shall be paid out of what Estate I may leave behind me and the residue if any Be divided as followeth:

Item: I desire that my dear mother shall have use of my negro fellow Stephen and my negro woman Easter during her natural life and then to return to my estate.

Item: I desire that the sum of two hundred pounds be paid to Messrs. George Kepper and Co. in gratitude to those gentlemen, and so be divided according to their Respective Interest in that Concern for their taking me amongst the first of the Virginia store keepers and by their so doing has been the cause of my making the greater part of the estate that I have, by being brought up to Business.—and it is my desire that a Good hogshead of tobacco should be sent to my good friend and worthy school master, Mr. Alexander McCaul of Glascow.

Item: My will and desire is that the Residue of my estate of what kind soever Both Real and personal, shall be divided after Daniel Gaines Moore shall have attained the age of twenty-one years Be equally divided between the children of my dear brothers John, Daniel, and William Harvie, and my dear sisters, Mary Meriwether, Martha Moore, Margaret Davenport, Elizabeth Marks, and Genette Jordan, and this my last will I hope will be strictly complyed with.

Item: My will and desire is that my good friend Chas. Irving, my brothers, John, Daniel, and William Harvie do see this my last will and testament and I further desire that my gun Blunderbus and Re..... and my sword be given to Mr. Charles Irving.

The above is all written with my own hands and signed this eighth day of May one thousand seven hundred and eighty three.

(signed) RICHARD HARVIE."

The above will was recorded June 23, 1800, in Oglethorpe County, Georgia, Will Book A, page ninety-three.

The writer does not know whether or not Richard Harvie was a Revolutionary soldier but from the evident importance he attached to the historic gun and sword, as expressed in his will, it seems likely that he was.

DANIEL HARVIE is said to have weighed near 400 pounds. It was said that he righted the corner of a mill house which had been put out of its place by a freshet, that he raised a heavy hogshead of tobacco over the groundsill through the door of the tobacco house; and that he could hold two men of ordinary size, one on each side, with arms extended full length from his body. He was stronger than Francesco. Indeed he had the reputation among his friends of being the strongest man in the world. He married Sally Talliaferro of Amherst County, Virginia, sister of Colonel Benjamin Talliaferro. They removed to Georgia along with their kin and settled on the eastern side of Long Creek two miles from Broad River. Daniel Harvie in displaying his great strength to his neighbors in hauling a dray for fish in Long-breigh became so much heated that he took cold and died. Mrs. Harvie was left a widow in the prime of life, with five children, four daughters and one son. She devoted herself to them in the spirit of self-sacrifice which men admire but seldom imitate. Though her estate was small, by great industry and economy, she sent them to the best schools in the country and when they arrived at the proper age introduced them into the polished society. These children were: Martha Harvie (m. T. Thornton Gilmer); Mary Harvie (m. Peachy R. Gilmer); Nancy Harvie (m. Thomas Lewis Gilmer); Frances Harvie (m. Bostwich ....., of Kentucky); Daniel Harvie (moved to Missouri and died a bachelor).

MARTHA HARVIE was a worthy woman and much beloved by her family. She was married when very young to John Moore. At the first organization in Oglethorpe County he was made clerk of the Superior Court. Their children were:

Harvie Moore; William Moore (m. Mary Marks).

MARY HARVIE married David Meriwether. Her only child, Martha, married Colonel Benjamin Talliaferro.

MARGARET HARVIE married John Davenport.

GENETTE[1] HARVIE married Reuben Jordan. She was the largest of the Harvie sisters. When Mrs. Jordan's size became too great to visit, or go to preaching in a carriage, she travelled in a wagon. She had great conversational talents, loved to talk, had an inexhaustible fund of anecdotes and was not less remarkable for her wit, than for her weight. Reuben Jordan

Jasper Co. Jordans.

[1]. In some records "Janet," and in others "Jane." Dr. Gilmer spells it Genette—later it appears Jeanette.

Dear Most Adored Cousin:

Few white folks and no niggers have ever enjoyed a letter as much AS I did your'n of a week or so back - not that you could tell from the haste I made in writing you back. Truly, you made my day for several days thereafter.

We are all atwitter at the prospects of your arrival. Mary has made herself out ~~of~~ a list of things to worry about that has put her in hog heaven. Included in her list is, if Elizabeth is going to come home with her, where is Harry going to stay? Not with Mary, for damn sure. Mary has wroked out the sleeping arrangements, yet. You and Elizabeth get a room each, and I can sleep with Mary. I have refused to discuss food with her, but will be sure there is drink. All in all, we are all looking forward to it.

Prepare for the worst, because everybody and his brother is planning to come to Joel's installation. I think we are going to have to hire a bus to get everyone there. Pet (she takes up room for three) and Betty want to come, as well as Mary and me. I don't think the Jeter-Boswells are coming, but probably only because they havent received an ingraved invitation plus two personal phone calls from each and every one of us.

Worse than that, old Bucket -mouth Mary had to go and tell Polly you were coming. I could have trottled her over the phone. I don't know if they are coming down on Sunday or not. At the time Polly was waiting for the flood to reach her doorstep. For all I know, the flood got her.

Other than working myself to death trying to beat some manners and knowledge (in that order) into my so-called students I haven't been up to much interesting.

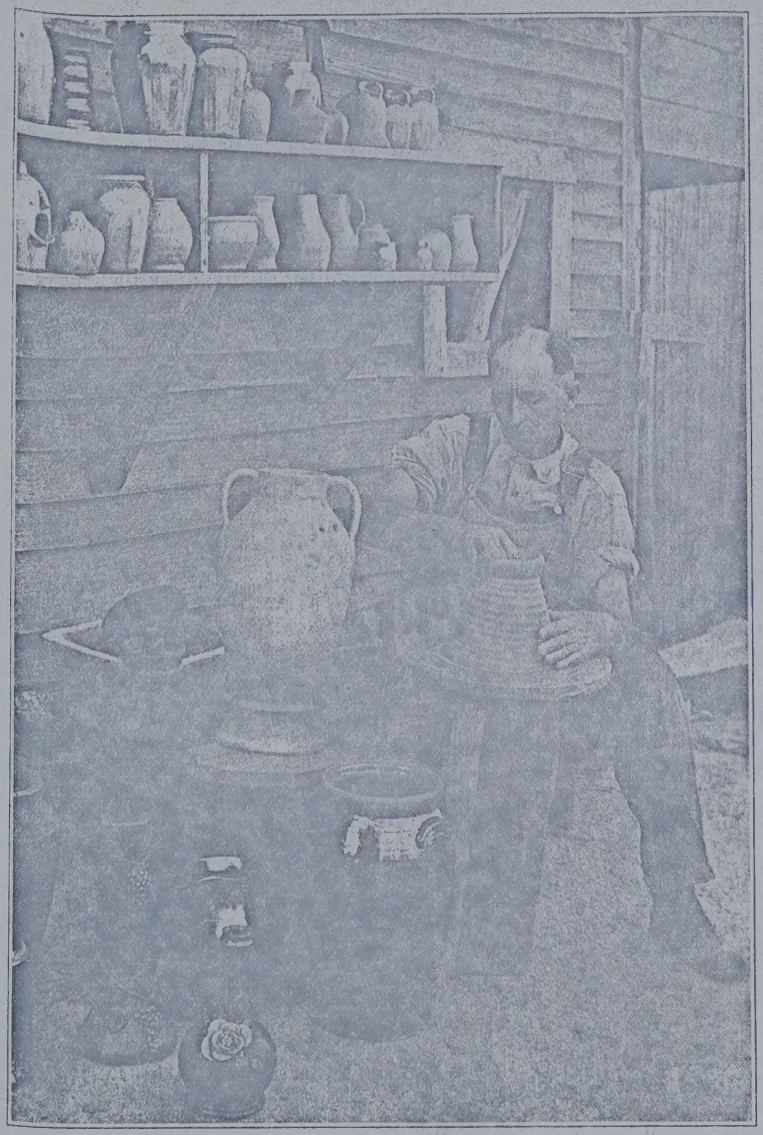
I hear young son Jim rummaging around in the kitchen, searching in vain for something to eat. He is about to let out that well-known adolescent howl, "There's NOTHING to EAT in this house!" which is the everlasting truth in this case, as Daine departed for her last week at U. of Ga. with all the remaining Thanksgiving turkey, two cans of pork'n'beans, a head of lettuce, a half-pound of cheese and a loaf of bread. She has run out of money and does not somehow equate food from Mama's pantry (not to mention refrig.) and money. I forgot to mention she also took a jar of instant coffee, and God knows what else I haven't missed yet.

Much as I hate to, I guess I'd better go grade today's English papers. I would wait until tomorrow, but two days' worth is more than mortal man can bear. You just wouldN8t believe!

This is about as tacky a letter as I have ever written, but I did want you to know all is moving along for a grand and glorious week-end, so prepare to enjoy. Tell Vivian I'm sorry she isn't coming, but I bet she is going to love some time to herself.

Love and kisses,

X- M.C., her mark.



POTTERY AT JUGTOWN

In a remote section of Upson County, approaching the Pike County boundary, is found a variety of clay peculiarly adapted for use in making pottery, and here that industry has been practiced for nearly one hundred years in the village called Jugtown.

The first known pottery was operated by Bolling Brown, on what is now known as the Franklin place, but the industry was later transferred across the creek. As the name of the town indicates, jugs were the chief articles manufactured. Then, as now, a wooden treadle with a cast moulding board constituted the machinery, which was operated by one man, upon whose skill and patience the success of the process depended. The baking, drying and glazing was a delicate process, likewise, requiring infinite patience.

The Brumbeloe family were perhaps the next operators and it is said one of them turned utensils for the Confederate soldiers during the War Between the States. S. R. Rogers who operates the pottery at the present time learned the trade while he was a child, as most potters do. He is a grandson of Frederick Rogers and his wife Jennie Brown (who was a half-sister of Bolling Brown) who came to this county probably from Virginia, married into the Brown family, and established the home which still bears his name. He drove a wagon in the Confederate army during the War Between the States, and was captured in the only battle in which he fought. Seven families of the descendants of Bolling Brown and Frederick Rogers live in the immediate vicinity.

Others who have operated plants in this section are: J. O. Brown, J. J. Childs, W. C. Rogers, J. H. Stewart, B. S. Salter, J. W. Salter, J. F. Key, John Creamer and S. L. Rogers.

S. R. Rogers married Ida L. Salter and they have ten children. Products of Jugtown factory have been shipped to fifteen states by Mr. Rogers.

CHAPTER XI.

LORD CORNWALLIS having spread his military posts over Georgia and South-Carolina, considered the conquest of those two states so far complete, as to authorize with impunity an infringement of the conditions stipulated in the protections which had been given to the inhabitants. The impression first made upon the public mind, was, that persons and property were to be secured against outrage and molestation, by the British troops and loyalists, and that they were not to take up arms against the crown of Great-Britain, so long as these conditions were duly regarded. Having gained entire possession of these two states, his lordship began to indulge the idea of extending his conquest to North-Carolina; but finding that his numbers were unequal to his plans; the deficiency could only be supplied by making an indiscriminate call upon the militia. With this impolitic measure in view, Sir Henry Clinton had issued a proclamation on the 5th of June, by which it was declared, that all those who were paroled, (not taken in action or under arms,) and those who had taken protections, should be released from these unnecessary restrictions, and after the 20th of the same month, should be liable to take up arms in defence of the country, and consider themselves as being restored to all the rights and duties appertaining or belonging to the king's subjects. All persons of the description before mentioned, who should thereafter neglect or refuse to return to their allegiance, were to be considered as enemies and rebels, and treated accordingly.

There was some ambiguity in this proclamation, and some of those who had taken protections were willing to construe it into its most favourable light toward themselves: others who had not so high an opinion of the character of the British commander, considered the proclamation as a direct violation of the conditions stipulated in their protections. An explanation however, soon followed the proclamation, which verified the predictions of the minority, that Sir Henry Clinton was capable of duplicity, and of the violation of contracts, whenever such measures accorded with the interest of his prince. The following is an extract of lord Cornwallis' letter to the commanders of his out-posts. "The inhabitants of the provinces who have subscribed to, and taken part in this revolt, should be punished with the utmost rigour; and also those who will not turn out, shall be imprisoned and their whole property taken from them or destroyed. I have ordered in the most positive manner, that every militia man who has borne arms with us and afterward joined the enemy, shall be immediately hanged. I desire you will take the most rigorous measures to punish the rebels in the district in which you command, and that you obey in the strictest manner, the directions I have given in this letter, relative to the inhabitants in this country." This order was circulated among the British officers, at the garrisons in Georgia and South-Carolina, but foreseeing the bad effects it might have upon the public mind, it was for a time carefully concealed from the people at large. The most barbarous cruelties were practised under its authority, without the forms of trial. In many instances, officers, soldiers, and citizens, were brought up to the place of execution, without being informed why they had been taken out of prison. The next morning after this sanguinary order reached Augusta, five victims were taken from the gaol by order of colonel Brown, who all expired on the gibbet.

Encouraged by the hope that the foregoing proclamation and order, by the British commanders-in-chief, would rouse the resentment and bring into the field all those who felt an interest in the American cause; colonel Clarke determined upon making the attempt to recover a part of his own state. Lord Cornwallis had drawn all his disposable force to his head-quarters, near Camden, to oppose general Gates, and afterward to give him sufficient strength to advance into North-Carolina: consequently he had left barely a sufficiency to garrison his posts in Georgia and South-Carolina. About the 1st of September colonel Clarke returned to Wilkes county, in Georgia, and lieutenant-colonel M'Call to the western part of Ninety-six district; with the expectation of raising a joint force, of at least one thousand men. To such an army it was supposed that Augusta would submit with little or no resistance, and that Ninety-six might soon afterward be menaced, and would probably be evacuated by the enemy. If Clarke's views had been seconded with that zeal which inhabited his own bosom, the exertions of one month would have thrown the western divisions of Georgia and South-Carolina, into the possession of the Americans.

Though the Carolinians were in general, favourably disposed toward the freedom and independence of their country, and felt great solicitude for the success of the plan, yet they could not be sufficiently inspired with the certainty of the issue, to induce them to take up arms. The effects of the British general's proclamation, had not, to their knowledge, commenced its operations. The sacrifice of those lives which had fallen under lord Cornwallis' explanatory order, was attributed to other causes, and the secret spring which formed its basis, was concealed from the public.

Lieutenant-colonel M'Call made his first application to colonel Pickens, and the most influential officers of his regiment; but with little success. The stipulations in their protections had not yet been violated, and they considered themselves bound, by conscience and honor, not to break their engagement until an infringement was made upon its conditions. Instead of five hundred men, which had been confidently calculated upon from Carolina, M'Call's persuasions could only induce eighty to accompany him upon the expedition. With this number he marched to Soap creek, in Georgia, forty miles northwest of Augusta, which had been fixed on as the place of rendezvous. Colonel Clarke had been more successful: his numbers amounted to three hundred and fifty. Though this little band fell far short of his expectations, and were really inadequate to the purposes he had in view, it was then too late to relinquish a project which he so anxiously wished to accomplish: he was therefore compelled to depend upon courage and stratagem, as substitutes for numbers in his ranks.

Colonel Clarke's arrangements had been made so suddenly, and so unexpectedly to the enemy, that he reached the vicinity of Augusta unobserved, and found them unprepared for an attack. On the morning of the 14th of September, he halted near the town, and formed his command into three divisions: the right commanded by lieutenant-colonel M'Call, the left by major Samuel Taylor, and the centre by colonel Clarke in person. The centre approached the town by the middle road, and the right and left by the lower and upper roads, at its eastern and western extremities. Near Hawk's creek on the west, major Taylor fell in with an Indian camp: they kept up a desultory fire and retreated toward their allies. Taylor pressed on to get possession of M'Kay's trading-house, denominated the White-house, one mile and an half west of the town. At this house the Indians joined a company of the king's rangers, commanded by captain Johnston. The attack upon the camp gave the first intimation to Brown of the Americans' approach. He ordered Grierson to re-enforce Johnston, and advanced to the scene of action in person, with the main body. The centre and right divisions completely surprised the garrisons of the forts, and took possession without resistance. Seventy prisoners, and all the Indian presents, were put under charge of a guard, and Clarke marched with the residue to the assistance of major Taylor. Brown and Grierson had joined Johnston and the Indians, and upon Clarke's approach, took shelter in the White-house, and defended it. Several attempts were made to dislodge the enemy, by taking possession of some small out-houses to the eastward; but they failed, from the houses being too small and flanked by the Indians. Finding that these houses furnished little or no defence, they were abandoned. A desultory fire was continued from eleven o'clock until night, but it was found that the enemy could not be dislodged without artillery. The house was situated about eighty yards from the river. The Indians, who had not room to fight from the house, took shelter under the banks, which furnished them with a good breast work; while they were secured by the thick wood between the bank and the waters edge. At the close of the day the firing ceased, and strong guards were posted to keep the enemy in check.

Under cover of the night, Brown added strength to his position, by throwing up some works round the house. The crevices, between the weather boards and ceiling, were filled up with earth, to make it proof against musketry: loop-holes were cut out at convenient distances; the windows were filled up with boards, taken from the floors; and defence rendered as formidable as the materials at command would admit. The next morning two pieces of artillery, six and four pounders, were brought up from Grierson's fort, and placed in a position to bear upon the house; but the carriages not being calculated for field service, added to unskilful management, they proved of little use: captain Martin, of South-Carolina, the only artillerist attached to colonel Clarke's command, was unfortunately killed soon after the pieces were brought to bear upon the enemy. A fire was continued through the day, with small arms, but without much prospect of compelling the enemy either to abandon the house or surrender.

On the night of the 15th, Brown was re-enforced by fifty Cherokee Indians, who crossed the river in canoes: they were armed, and united in defending their beloved man. On the morning of the 15th, before day light, the Americans drove the Indians from the river bank, and cut off their communication with the water, by which the wounded, particularly, suffered greatly. The dead men and horses which lay about the house, became very offensive. Early in the engagement Brown was shot through both thighs and suffered among the wounded, who were often heard calling for water and medical aid.

The sufferings of the wounded; the want of water; and the nauseous smell of animal putrifaction, it was supposed, would discourage the besieged, and induce them to surrender. On the 17th, colonel Clarke sent colonel Brown a summons; but the proposition was rejected, and Clarke warned of the destruction his measures would bring upon the western division of Georgia. In the afternoon the summons to surrender was repeated, with the addition that Brown would be held responsible for the consequences of his temerity, and a declared determination to reduce the garrison, whatever might be the requisite sacrifice to accomplish it. Brown replied, that it was his determination to defend himself to the last extremity.

Immediately after colonel Clarke arrived at Augusta, Brown had despatched messengers by different routes to Ninety-six; informing colonel Cruger of his situation, and the necessity of immediate relief by re-enforcements. Sir Patrick Houstoun, one of the messengers, reached Ninety-six early on the next day, and was the first to communicate Brown's embarrassed situation to Cruger, who lost no time in making preparations and advancing to his relief. On the night of the 17th, Clarke's spies informed him of Cruger's approach, by forced marches, with five hundred British regulars and royal militia, to the relief of the besieged. Many of colonel Clarke's men had gone to visit their friends and families, in Burke county, from whom they had long been absent: others, who had been actuated by the hope of obtaining plunder, rather than by motives of zeal in the cause of their country, had decamped, laden with the goods which colonel Brown had received not long before for presents to the Indians.

About eight o'clock, on the morning of the 18th, the British troops appeared on the opposite side of the river. The weakness occasioned by the loss of men in the action and siege, and by the desertion of those who prefered plunder to the honor and interest of their country, compelled the Americans to raise the siege and retreat about ten o'clock, having sustained a loss of about sixty, killed and wounded: among the former, were captains Charles Jourdine and William Martin. William Luckie, a brave and much respected young man from Carolina, was killed early in the contest in a desperate effort to gain the possession of the White-house. Such of the Americans as were badly wounded, and not in a condition to be removed, were left in the town. Captain Asby, an officer noted for his bravery and humanity, with twenty-eight others, including the wounded, fell into the hands of the enemy and were disposed of, under the sanguinary order of lord Cornwallis, in the following manner: captain Asby and twelve of the wounded prisoners, were hanged on the staircase of the White-house, where Brown was lying wounded, so that he might have the satisfaction of seeing the victims of his vengeance expire. Their bodies were delivered up to the Indians, who scalped and otherwise mangled them and threw them in the river. Henry Duke,* John Burgamy, Scott Reeden, Jordan Ricketson, —— Darling, and two youths, brothers, of seventeen and fifteen years of age, named Glass, were all hanged: the former of these youths was shot through the thigh and could not be carried off when the retreat was ordered, and the younger brother could not be prevailed on to leave him; his tenderness and affection cost him his life: a horse was the fatal scaffold on which they were mounted, and from the gibbet they entered together on the long journey of eternity. All this was merciful, when compared with the fate which awaited the other prisoners; they were delivered to the Indians to glut their vengeance for the loss they had sustained in the action and siege. The Indians formed a circle and placed the prisoners in the centre, and their eagerness to shed blood spared the victims from tedious torture: some were scalped before they sunk under the Indian weapons of war; others were thrown into fires and roasted to death. The record of these transactions is now before the author, from the pens of British officers who were present, who exultingly communicated it to their friends in Savannah, Charleston, and London, where it stands upon record in the papers of the day.

Major Carter, adjutant to colonel Clarke's regiment, received a mortal wound at the White-house door, endeavouring to prevent the enemy from gaining possession of it, and with great hazard, his companions carried him off the ground; he was removed to Mrs. Bugg's plantation, where he died a few days afterward. Colonel Clarke's own words give the best evidence of the high standing of this officer, in his estimation: "A man of more bravery than major Carter, never occupied a space between heaven and earth."

The British loss was announced in colonel Brown's official letter, published in Charleston, but cannot now be stated with correctness. Among the slain, was captain Andrew Johnston and ensign Silcox, of the Florida rangers. According to the British account, seventy Indians were killed.

The morning on which colonel Clarke retreated, he paroled the British officers and soldiers who had been captured, and received certificates from the officers, of the number of men who were to be considered and accounted for as prisoners of war: captain, or lieutenant James Smith, for himself and forty-one of the king's rangers; a commissioned officer and eleven men of Dulaney's corps, and a surgeon. These officers and private soldiers, regardless of their obligations as prisoners on parole, resumed their arms immediately after Clarke retreated.

Colonel Brown's command at Augusta, consisted of two hundred and fifty men, of several corps, but principally of Florida rangers; two hundred and fifty Creek, and fifty Cherokee Indians; making a total of five hundred and fifty. If Brown had not been surprised in the first instance, the numbers in his ranks would have authorized the defeat of his adversaries. This circumstance combined with his personal safety, probably occasioned his obstinate perseverance in the defence of this feeble fortress.

Dear Aunt Vivian –

Mama sent the genealogy form for me and my brood along to me, and I've filled it out as best I know how.

Don't know if you really want the information about other spouses (spice?) for me and my former or if those blanks are for the parental units, so I'm including them here and figuring that you'll put the information in the right places if you want it at all.

I remarried on May 5, 1982, to Linda Trout (born 8/14/45 in Norfolk, VA).

My ex, nee Linda Jean Meeker, married Wendell Banyay – but you'll forgive me, I hope, for not remembering the date or his place of birth, somewhere in PA.

Christopher and Elyse are both engaged, but weddings aren't taking place until August and January, respectively. IF you want that information after the fact I would be happy to send it to you . Just let me know . . .

I would very much like to have the genealogical information you've accumulated. I seem to remember seeing some of it in the deeps of the past, but I'm sure you have a great deal more now.

SURE enjoyed talking to that old goat that you've managed to put up with since Nov 10 of 1945.

History of Colonial Bath 975.6 P. N.C.

explorers and fur traders, but land speculators were not far behind. In 1681, Seth Sothel, a Proprietor and governor of Albemarle, issued to himself a patent for 12,000 acres of land on the Pamlico. Included in this area was the land along Old Town Creek (now Bath Creek) which included the future site of the town of Bath.

Not until the 1690's did the first settlers push their way into this virgin wilderness and begin the job of clearing fields and erecting homes. The removal of an immediate Indian menace, as a result of the plague (already noted) which decimated the ranks of the Pamtico tribe, aided and encouraged this settlement.

The Lords Proprietors in 1694 authorized Governor John Archdale "for ye Incouragement of settling those parts wch lye north of Cape Fear" to dispose of lands at moderate and reasonable rates so long as they were not below a half penny per acre.

Sometime prior to 1696, the Pamlico settlement became known as the Precinct of Pampticoe in the county of Archdale, but in that year the Governor and Palatines Court formally proclaimed that this region was henceforth to be known as the county of Bath, in honor of the Proprietor, John, Earl of Bath. Orders were also issued at this time authorizing its inhabitants to elect two representatives to sit in the General Assembly of the province.

By the close of the century the lands along the Pamlico River were attracting settlers in ever increasing numbers. Along the creeks and waterways of the region houses and small fields became ever more frequent.

Close on the heels of the Pamlico settlement came the settlement of the region along the Neuse and Trent rivers. The first settlement in this area was made at the mouth of the Neuse on the north shore of that stream. This settlement was soon followed by a French Huguenot colony planted along the banks of the Trent. Plantations soon began to spread up both sides of the Neuse and Trent, and later in 1710, over 400 Swiss and Palatine colonists migrated into the region, under the leadership of Christoper Von Graffenried, where they founded the town of New Bern.

In 1708, the region embraced in present-day Carteret County began to attract settlers also. This settlement grew rapidly and many families moved into the area about North River which soon acquired the name of "the Core Sound" settlement.

Until the arrival of the German and Swiss settlers on the Neuse in 1710, the center of population in Bath County remained unmistakably on the Pamlico and its tributaries. One of the centers of this Pamlico settlement lay along the banks of Old Town Creek (now Bath Creek) where Joel Martin, Simon Alderson, David Perkins, William Barrow, William Brice, John Lawson, Levi Truewhite, David Depee, Richard Collins, Robert Daniel, John Burras, Collingwood Ward, and many others owned plantations in the years immediately following the turn of the century. Into this vicinity also, about 1704 or 1705, came a group of French Huguenots from Virginia where they had settled in 1699 at a place known as Mannakin Town on James River. Discontented over economic conditions there, this group moved into Bath County, attracted by its fertile and plentiful lands. Here they proved an industrious people noted for the excellent linen cloth and thread which they made and exchanged "amongst the Neighborhood" for other commodities which they desired. While some of these Huguenots appear to have settled permanently on the Pamlico River, the majority of them soon moved on to the Trent River where Von Graffenried and his colonists found them in 1710. Almost nothing is known of these French Huguenots and their settlement, and one authority has termed them the "Lost Colony" of the coastal midlands. (While legends persist of a French Huguenot settlement in Bath County about the year 1690, there is no available proof that such a settlement was ever made. It appears to have developed from a confusion of the French settlements in the first decade of the eighteenth century with plans advanced by Dr. Daniel Coxe of England, claimant under the Heath patent of 1629 to all of Carolina, to settle a group of French Huguenots on the Pamlico River in the 1690's. This plan, like so many of those advanced by Dr. Coxe, was never carried into effect.)

As Bath County became more populous, it was divided in 1705 into the three precincts of Pamptecough, Wickham, and Archdale. Sometime prior to 1712 the names of these precincts were changed in honor of three Proprietors to Beaufort, Hyde and Craven precincts respectively. From 1705, these precincts were each given the right to elect two representatives to the General Assembly.

From its first settlement, the possibilities of developing Bath County as a center of trade had been recognized. Roanoke and Currituck inlets, through which most of the seaborne trade entered the Albemarle area during the seventeenth century, had by the late 1690's become nearly choked with drifting sand. For this reason Ocracoke Inlet became ever more important as an entry into the Carolina sounds. As this inlet lay closer to Bath County than the Albemarle it was assumed that this region would become within a short while the commercial center of the colony. If a region hoped to develop commercially however it needed a city or town where shipping could concentrate and where business could be transacted with the minimum amount of trouble and inconvenience. Such a possible center of commercial activity was lacking in Bath County in the first years of the eighteenth century, and despite the close proximity of Ocracoke Inlet, the Albemarle region continued to dominate the commercial life of the colony.

To end this domination, plans were laid about 1704 by several of the planters and leaders about Old Town Creek (now Bath Creek) to establish a town which might be expected to develop in a short while into the commercial and political center of the colony.

Despite the Sothel grant of 1681, the land about Old Town Creek, which includes the site of Bath, had been treated as unpatented land and patents had been issued for this land by the North Carolina government either through ignorance of the Sothel patent or else in contempt of the same. The area which became a part of Bath was taken up and settled by David Perkins. On March 2, 1705/6, David Perkins received a patent from Governor Thomas woodlot for the citizens of the town. East of the town and apparently adjoining it was a glebe of nearly 300 acres granted by the Lords Proprietors in 1706 to the parish of St. Thomas to encourage the settlement of a minister of the Church of England at Bath. This was the first and one of the few valuable glebes ever established in North Carolina. (Glebes were farms set aside for the use of ministers in colonial America.)

With the town formally incorporated and official authority lodged in the three commissioners to sell lots, the sale of lots proceeded vigorously. Although Nicholas Daw was named a commissioner of the town by the act of incorporation, he appears to have taken little part in the affairs of the town or at least in the sale of lots as nearly all conveyances of lots were made under the signatures of John Lawson and Joel Martin, Sr. The first sale of lots under the terms of the act of incorporation, which the records disclose, was made on September 27, 1706. On this date conveyances were entered to thirteen different individuals. By the end of October at least twenty-five individuals owned lots in Bath. The names of these early lot holders are worthy of being preserved. They included: Nathaniel Wyersdale, Richard Odeon, Jr., Maurice Luellyn, Thomas Cary, Christopher Gale, George Birkenhead, Thomas Peterson, John Porter, John Worsley, John Lawson, David Perkins, Henry Robinson, Simond Worsley, Nicholas Daw, James Beard, Daniel Mathews, Otho Russel, Giles Shute, Lyonell Reading, Thomas Sparrow, Thomas Worsley, James Walsh, Edmund Pearces, Joel Martin and one Capt. Raymond.

Throughout the next few years Lawson and Martin continued to convey lots to individuals and some of the early landowners in turn sold their lots to others. These early Bath landowners were an interesting cross-section of colonial North Carolina society. In this group was a governor, Thomas Cary; many merchants such as Nathaniel Wyersdale, Thomas Sparrow, Thomas Peterson, James Beard, and John Robinson who saw this as a future commercial center; a later Chief Justice of North Carolina, Christopher Gale; the author and explorer, John Lawson; the physician and "Chirurgeon," Dr. Maurice Luellyn; citizens of Albemarle County, Maryland and Philadelphia; and several prominent pioneers and planters of the Pamlico region; and John Jordan, a cooper by trade.

One of the most difficult things to determine about the first few years of Bath's existence is the names of those who actually lived in the town. Many of the early lot owners never made their homes or conducted their businesses in Bath. John Lawson, Dr. Maurice Luellyn, Giles Shute, Nathaniel Wyersdale, John Jordan and perhaps David Perkins, Thomas Roper, Richard Odeon and John Mackay, Jr., are the only residents of Bath whose names have survived to the present.

Life in the town during its first years must have been colorful and interesting. By 1708 the town could boast about twelve houses which indicates a population of fifty to sixty souls. The houses with their outbuildings, probably wood frame construction, straggled along Front Street. John Lawson's home lot and perhaps those of others were enclosed by a fence. A "town

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY QUIT RENTS, 1750-6
(Includes a large area of Hertford Co., formed 1759)

Quitrent or Quit Rent (a dictionary definition:) "A rent reserved in grants of land, by the payment of which the tenant is quit from all other service."

Quit Rents were in effect in North Carolina up until the Revolutionary War. These Quit Rents were resented by many, and were no doubt one of the many contributing factors to the outbreak of the Revolutionary War, which resulted in the overthrow of the English "yoke of oppression."

A few (very incomplete) of the Quit Rent lists are preserved for North Carolina, for the 1739-1758 period (File No. SS 751, Archives, P. O. Box 1881, Raleigh, N. C.). The following list, judging from the names of persons and the locations of the land, is obviously for the Northampton-Hertford County area. Fifty pages are preserved, although there may have been more; right half of page 50 is missing; no index. Northampton County was formed in 1741 from Bertie; and from 1741 to 1759 included a large portion of Hertford County, formed in 1759 from parts of Chowan, Bertie, and Northampton Counties.

NOTE: First ten pages are dated 1750-56; pages 11-29, no date; pages 30-50, dated 1750-56.

Samuel Jourdan - N.C. himself only, 100 Acres on s. South Ogeechee Adj. Saunders Walkers' upper line.

THE THOMAS E. JORDAN FAMILY

THOMAS E. JORDAN (JOURDEN) (b. 1766 Edgecombe Co. N.C. d. 1846 Wash. Co. Ga.) married Catherine Daniel (b. 1780 Edgecombe Co. N.C. d. after 1850, for she was listed in the 1850 Wash. Co. Ga. census) in Edgecombe Co. N.C. c. 1796.

Buddy Jordan of Sandersville, Ga., who send me much of this material, writes: "The first Jordan known to us who is our direct line is Joshua Jordan. We know little about him. We do know that he was married to a girl named Edith (Edey) and that they lived in Edgecombe Co., N.C. He died in Edgecombe in 1793. In the division of his estate dated 5/11/1793, he named the following children: Sons Stephen, Cornelius, Henry, Joshua, Jesse, and daughters Edey and Elizabeth.

"Cornelius Jordan Sr., son of Joshua and Edey Jordan, also lived in Edgecombe Co. We have no record of his birth date or to whom he was married. We do know that he died in Edgecombe Co. in 1794. He must have been a man of means as his estate included 1240 acres of land.

"Corneliun Jordan Jr., son of Cornelius Jordan Sr., was married to Martha C. Woodard, daughter of Elisha Woodard. Cornelius Jordan Jr. died in Edgecombe Co. in 1791, leaving a very large estate. In his will he named his widow, Martha C. Jordan, and sons Corneluis, Asa, Thomas, and Levi. Among the things willed to Thomas were: one pair knee buckles and one breast buckle, two coats, jacket, two pair breeches and one pair boots Also land and other items. Also in the will of Elisha Woodard, maternal grandfather of Thomas, among others were named "three grandsons: Asa Jordan, Thomas Jordan, Levi Jordan, sons of Cornelius Jordan, deceased, five pounds sterling each." In this same will was named "My father, John Woodard, deceased."

"The original spelling of the name in all old documents was "JOURDEN". I used Jordan above for convenience."

(Ref. Mrs. Dewey W. Huggins, Professional Geneologist, Box 623 Raleigh, N.C. 27602)

In 1797, Thomas E. Jordan received a grant of land on the Ogeechee River in Washington Co. Ga. He and his wife moved to Georgia by wagon train. Both became active members of the Bethlehem Baptist Church (Warthen, Ga.) and were later instrumental in organizing the Baptist Church of Christ at Antioch on the Mayview Road in Wash. Co.

Their children:
I. WILLIAM DANIEL JORDAN (b. 1797)
II. JAMES JORDAN, SR. (b.1799)
III. CORNELIUS JORDAN (b.1806)
IV. MARY JORDAN
V. EPHRAIM D. JORDAN (b. 1810)
VI. THOMAS JORDAN, JR. (b. 1812)
VII. STEPHEN JORDAN
VIII. JOHN JORDAN
IX. ROBERT JORDAN
X. ELISHA WOODARD JORDAN (b. 1817)

Because of the large amount of information on this family, the children of Thomas E. Jordan will be listed seperately. The older spelling, JOURDEN, was dropped after the War Between the States although the pronounciation for most of the family remains "JERDEN".

I. WILLIAM DANIEL JORDAN

WILLIAM DANIEL JORDAN (JOURDEN) (b. 10/10/1797 Wash. Co. Ga. d. 1/22/1851 buried Fam. Cem. Wash. Co. Ga.) married Pheriba Manning Adams (b. 7/1/1799 -cem. record 7/21/1799 d. 1/11/1856 Fam. Cem.) (Refer back to page 2 under THE WILLIAM DUGGAN (SR.) FAMILY.) He was a Baptist minister and served as pastor of the Antioch and Sisters Churches in the Washington Association. He was one of the four messengers from Bethlehem Church to assist in organizing the Washington Baptist Association in 1828 at Sisters Church. In 1836 he preached the Introductory Sermon.

Their children:

(I) ARCHIBALD M. JORDAN (b. 2/14/1819 Wash. Co. Ga. d. 4/10/1862 buried Wm. D. Jordan Fam. Cem. Wash. Co. Ga.) married Penelope Ann Watkins (b. 12/12/1826 Wash. Co. Ga. d. 9/22/1891 buried Sisters Bapt. Ch. Cem. Wash. Co. Ga.) on 1/3/1844 Wash. Co. Ga. She was the daughter of Penelope _____ (b. 1800 N.C. d. 8/2/1856 Sisters Cem.) and Rennin Watkins (b. 1786 N.C. d. 1/27/1853 Sisters Cem.). Granddaughter of Mitchell Watkins, Sr.

1. MALISA JORDAN (b. 1845 d. 1924) married John I. Giles, Sr. (b.10/28/1837 d. 8/14/1907 buried Giles Fam. Cem. Wash. Co. Ga.) as his second wife. No children:

2. NEWTON MATHIAS JORDAN (b. 4/14/1846 Wash. Co. Ga. d. 2/16/1930 buried Zeta Cem. Wash. Co. Ga.) married Susan Margaret Boatright (b. 1/8/1852 d. 7/25/1894 Zeta) on 9/19/1871 Wash. Co. Ga. She was the daughter of Elizabeth Sessions (b. 4/20/1826 d. 12/7/1896 Zeta) and George Franklin Boatright.

JORDAN NAME

The name 'JORDAN' comes from the Hebrew, meaning the river of Judgment. JORDAN in Gaelic meant the western river with respect to the Euphrates River. The name is derived from its two springheads 'JOR' and "DAN,' which together form the JORDAN River, at an elevation of 4080 feet above sea level. The word 'JORDAN' means flowing down. At the Dead Sea the elevation is 1292 feet below sea level.

'JORDAN' was first used as a personal name. French and English crusaders brought flasks of JORDAN River water from the Holy Land to baptize their children and invariably the male infant was christened 'JORDAN.' From its use as a personal name it later developed into a family name. The family is recorded as having settled in England soon after the Norman Conquest in 1066. The name appeared in France soon after the first crusade in 1095 and was variously spelled as JORDAN, JORDAIN, JORDAYNE, JOURDAN and JOURDON. The feminine form was JOURDAINE. Other spellings have been GORDEN, JERDEN, JERDON, JORDEN, JORDIN, JORDINS, JORDON, JORDINE, JOURDAIN, JOURDEN, JURDAN, JURDEN and JURDIN.

Adherence to the Protestant faith forced the Jordan family to flee to Germany, Switzerland, Scotland and England. Branches of the Norman-English family went to Ireland after the invasion of 1172. In England during 1182 a Robert JURDAN (as it was spelled then) was put on the Yorkshire records. In 1212 the name became common in Cambridgeshire where a John JORDAN was entered on the record, dated 1220. Walter JOURDAN lived in Sussex in 1327 and William JURDAIN lived in Staffordshire in 1332.

The first instance of the name in Scotland was JORDAN the Fleming, who was Chancellor to King David I in 1142-43. JORDAN de (of) Wooford was a charter witness in Angus in 1170. Magis William JORDANUS (son of JORDAN) was charter witness in Aberdeen in 1230. A later spelling was JURDANE.

A Norman family of JORDANS held extensive lands in Connacht, Ireland. They soon adopted the Gaelic designation MacSIURTAIN meaning 'son of Jordan.' This was Anglicized MacJORDAN and the patronymic prefix was soon dropped. In the 'Composition Book of Connacht,' the chief of this sept is called MacSURTAINE alias JORDAN. In the 16th Century the English classed this family as 'Wild Irish,' and a member of the Augustinian Order, Father Fulgentius JORDAN was martyred in 1652 because of his beliefs. The present-day barony of Gallen in County Mayo, Ireland, has long been known as MacJORDAN'S country.

During the author's experience he has observed a river JORDAN in Utah, a town JORDAN in South Carolina, a boulevard JORDAN in Paris, France, a city JORDAN in Scotland, a noted Flemish painter JORDAN in Belgium,and an Arab nation JORDAN in Asia.

SOME JORDAN IMMIGRANTS TO AMERICA

Samuel Jordan, born in England, came to America on the 'Sea Venture' in 1609. The ship was wrecked on an island in the Bermudas and he came on to Jamestown in 1610. Cicely (Reynolds), married Samual Jordan after arriving at Jamestown on the 'Swan' in 1611. Thomas Jordan, born in England in 1600, came to America on the ship 'Diana' in 1623. Stephen Jordan came to Ipswich, Mass., in 1634. Hannah Jordan, cousin of Nathan Cradock of London, merchant, arrived Nov. 9, 1640. Robert Jordan, clergyman, came from Worcester, England, in 1641, lived in Maine, moved to Portsmouth, N. H., died 1679. Rufus Jordan came from England about 1700. Francis Jourdin, a native of France, carpenter 4 years, arrived Nov. 17, 1725. William Jordine, Yarmouth, Norfolk, tin plate worker, 4 years, arrived Apr. 30, 1731. Richard Jordan, Stoneden, Essex, blacksmith, 4 years, arrived Mar. 6, 1754. Ettie Amelia Jordan, descended from Baron Bolum and King David I, (Born c. 1080, died May 24, 1153 at Carlisle, England) of Scotland. Thomas Jordan, age 29, born in England, resided in Culpepper, Va. Was in Revolutionary War after Sep. 1, 1780.

RANDOLPH and ETHELDRED JORDAN'S HOMESTEADS

When Randolph Jordan selected a site for a homestead he picked a location about mid-way between Wilson and Rocky Mount at a spot which was soon to become 'Joiner's Depot' after the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad Company built a rail line past his farm. Joiner & Edwards had a general store at Joiner's Depot June 9, 1842. After William W. Farmer, who owned adjoining land over which the railroad passed, refused to sell at a reasonable price land for development of a town, the railroad company went one mile south and built 'Toisnot' depot which later became Elm City.

Randolph's house was built c. 1828 on a knoll a few hundred yards west of where the railroad passed later and about equidistant from Cabin Branch on the north. It was about the same distance northeast of an intersection of two roads. One of the roads was east and west and crossed the railroad, the other for north-south cross-country traffic. Today (1977), that road has become a four-lane highway, No. 301, and passes over the former site of Randolph's house. Because of relocation it now crosses the railroad too on an overhead bridge. In 1800 when Randolph was married most of this area was covered with trees.

When Randolph's son Etheldred was married he chose a home site and purchased land on the north side of Cabin Branch and west of the north-south road, (now 301). His house, built c. 1842, was a few hundred yards from the branch. Randolph's house was razed about the turn of this century and Etheldred's remained until fire destroyed it a few years ago.

Randolph's house was a small frame structure. Etheldred's consisted of six rooms with a long piazza on the front. The kitchen and dining space was about fifty feet away in a separate building to the west of the main domicile. Etheldred had a workshop where the farm repair work was done.

After the deaths of Etheldred and his second wife Polly (Land), both of whom died in 1901, the land was sold to their son Henry, who owned it until his death. Then it became the property of his son Henry Leonard, who died in Oct. 1945. It was later owned by his widow, who died May 12, 1971.

Several members of the Jordan and Land families are buried at a graveyard on the south side of Cabin Branch about half a mile west of Peoples Chapel Church, one and one-half miles north of Elm City, N. C. Others are buried in cemetery at Peoples Chapel Church.

THE NANCY'S PASSENGERS

These were THE NANCY's passengers who survived the trip from Belfast to Charleston, SC in June 1767, although some may have died soon after reaching Charleston. Sources of this data are given in parentheses. Ages were shown on the passenger list submitted by Capt. Hannah to the colonial Governor and Council as the basis for reimbursement of passage money under the 1761 Township Act mentioned an earlier issue of FAMILY PUZZLERS.

When we could identify a passenger receiving a warrant of survey for land in the colony, the acreage, date and location are also shown. Most were being settled near Belfast or Boonesborough (Fort Boone) in the Ninety Six District of northwestern South Carolina. This is a composite of information we found on each persons:

ELIZABETH ALEXANDER 33 years old (C.J. 6-22-1767 Capt. Hannah's passenger list).
GEORGE W. ALEXANDER signed the complaint against Capt. Hannah (C.J. 7-10-1767)
GEORGE ALEXANDER 10 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Capt. Hannah's passenger list).

WILLIAM ANDREWS 30 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list), 300 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767). He received land for 5 persons, so there must have been a baby also.
MARY ANDREWS 31 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).
ELIZABETH ANDREWS 13 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).
DAVID ANDREWS 8 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).

SARAH MCCANN 8 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).

JAMES MCCULLOCK 19 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); signed complaint against Capt. Hannah (C.J. 7-10-1767); 100 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767).

JAMES MCDOUGAL 20 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); signed complaint against Capt. Hannah (C.J. 7-10-1767); 100 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767).

JOHN MCHAND 27 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); 150 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767).
MARGT. MCHAND 23 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).

JAMES MCKELVY 42 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list). As JAMES MCKELVEY he received 350 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767). Two of his family members must have died.
MARGARET MCKELVY 48 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).
JAMES MCKELVY 16 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); 100 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767).
ALEXANDER MCKELVY 15 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); 100 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767).
WILLIAM MCKELVY 14 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).
JANE MCKELVY 8 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).
JOHN MCKELVY 5 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).
HUGH MCKELVY 2 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).

JAMES MCMULLEN 18 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); signed complaint against Capt. Hannah (C.J. 7-10-1767); 100 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767).

JOHN METLAND 150 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767)

JOHN MILLER 21 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); as JOHN MILLEN signed complaint against Capt. Hannah (C.J. 7-10-1767).

ADAM MITCHELL signed the complaint against Capt. Hannah.

ROBERT YOUNG 39 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); signed complaint against Capt. Hannah (C.J. 7-10-1767); 200 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767).
MARY YOUNG 42 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).
JANE YOUNG 18 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); 100 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767).
JOHN YOUNG 16 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list); 100 ac. in or near Boonesborough or Belfast Twshp. (C.J. 6-22-1767).
AGNESS YOUNG 12 (C.J. 6-22-1767 Hannah's passenger list).

Heads of most of the families shown in the passenger list of the NANCY also signed the complaint against Capt. Hannah, showing that the dissatisfaction was general. But their deposition to the Governor and Council mentioned only one specific individual as target of the captain's abuse - "old Mr. Peacock". What a prolonged nightmare that voyage became!

SOME POINTS TO REMEMBER ABOUT COLONIAL S.C. RECORDS

When searching for incoming immigrants between 1761-1768, there are passenger lists for those persons who COULDN'T pay their own passage recorded in the Governor and Council Journal. Each list was submitted by the ship Captain or his agent for reimbursement. The original journals are at the SC Archives; microfilm copies can be purchased from the Library of Congress as part of RECORDS OF THE STATES OF THE UNITED STATES - SC, the "E" series.
To find passengers who COULD pay their fare, go to the Journal C of the Public Treasurer of SC, available on microfilm from SC Archives as "M3, reel 2". He kept detailed records of payments and those under the category of New Settlers' Bounty are the one you're interested in.
Be aware that Janie Reville's PROTESTANT IMMIGRANTS TO SOUTH CAROLINA does not include either all the bounty payments in the Council Journal, or any of the Public Treasurer's Journal entries.

POST SCRIPT

Mr. H.A. Carlisle of Lowndesville, SC, claimed as his ancestor the Mr. Carlisle whose irate letter to Irish relatives ended up in print in the BELFAST NEWS-LETTER.
The Carlisle family took up land in the 96 District near Lowndesville and Abbeville, SC, where descendants still live!

Florence—Friday
2 October 1953

Dear Cousin Florence:

The Ingersolls think perhaps the references we want about John Washington being a Major and Justice of the Peace are to be found in Boddie's Colonial Surry; I have asked Miss Lee of Richmond to look into this and will let you know.

And I have been thinking on something that may work out.

Attorney General George Jordan buried his first wife in 1650 on the plantation of Col. Henry Browne; her tomb is the second oldest in Virginia. This must mean that Jordan was kin to Browne.

And the fact that Rev. Richard Washington married Frances Browne makes me feel that she was kin, perhaps a sister, to Col. Henry Browne of Virginia. He was on the Council in 1643. P erhaps born ca 1610. Frances Browe Washington was perhaps born ca 1607 as she married in 1627.

If I am right in my thinking, this would explain why John Washington came to Surry from the Barbados—because his uncle was prominent there.

How the Brownes were related to the Jordans is something to think about and look into, but they must have been. The Browne plantation was near if not adjoining the Flood place.

Arthur Jordan was born in 1626; John Washington born in 1627. Their children married in Virginia. I suspect it will be found the Brownes were prominent in England. One thing I feel pretty certain of, Frances Browne had a better background that the wife of Rev. Lawrence Washington who was not considered much.

It may also be found that Col. Henry Browne left something to the Washingtons, accounting for the large land holdings of Richard.

The data the Ingersolls had, got by John A. Washington in England last summer did not include anything of Richard W. having been ordained and being of the Diocese of Oxford or a fellow of University College.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely
Hiram

Dear Geneaologist,

My name is Matthew Jordan Sweeney and I am doing research on my Mother's family --- Jordan.
I was given a list of those people who have an interest in this last name or who may have information concerning this group of people. Sending a copy of this letter to as many as I can afford, I hope to tie some ends that are presently lose in the Jordan line I am researching.
I have enclosed a list of names and dates that might ring a bell for some one out there, also if you would care for any information that I have please feel free to convey that to me. Soon, I will be working on my masters degree and will not have as much time as I do now, so please correspond quickly.

rector of Bruton parish, Williamsburg, Virginia, in 1674, and after a service of four[illegible] years, died April 23, 1688, and was buried in Williamsburg.

Jones, Thomas, son of Captain Roger Jones, was a man of large estate and had extensive commercial transactions. He patented large bodies of land, and was a colonel of the militia in King William county. He married February 14, 1725, Elizabeth Pratt, widow of William Pratt, and eldest daughter of Dr. William Cocke, formerly secretary of state.

Jones, William, member of a prominent family in Northumberland county, was burgess for that county in 1692-1693. He was a son of Mr. Robert Jones, of "Fleet's Bay," who died in 1675, leaving sons Samuel, Robert, Maurice and William, and a other John Jones.

Jones, William, was a burgess for Northampton county in 1691; a prominent justice of the peace.

Jones, Wood, brother of Peter Jones, the founder of Petersburg, was a member of the house of burgesses for Amelia county in 1752.

Jordan, Colonel George, came to Virginia in 1635 and resided in Surry county, near "Four Mile Tree," on James river. He was a justice of Surry in 1652, and for many years later, burgess in 1659, 1674 and 1676; attorney general of the colony from 1670 to 1678, when he died. In 1673, Surry court gave him a certificate for the importation of thirty-eight persons into the colony, among whom were Mr. William Jordan, Mrs. Ann Jordan, his wife, Mr. John Cary, Mr. Robert Lee, etc. He left no issue, but his brother, Arthur Jordan, [illegible] extensively represented through descendants.

Jordan, John, [illegible] Accomac county in 16[illegible]. He came from Maryland and married [illegible], widow of Patrick Spence. [illegible] daughter, Elinor Spence, married [illegible], ancestor of President Jam[illegible].

Jordan, Richard, [illegible] burgess for Isle of Wight county in 16[illegible]. He left a son John, whose son John of Newport parish, Isle of Wight county, made a deed about 1730. The family were Quakers.

Jordan, Samuel, settled on James river at an early date and [illegible] place "Jordan's Jornes." He represented the plantation in the first assembly 1619. In the massacre of 1622 he [illegible] fully fought off the Indians. He died [illegible] 1623, and his widow, Cecily, married Adam Lerrett, of the council of state. After a flirtation with the minister of the parish, Greville Pooley, that was taken notice of by the council in a solemn proclamation.

Jordan, Samuel, [illegible] justice of the peace for Albemarle county, 1760-1761; captain, 1753; sheriff, 1752-1753; county lieutenant of the new county of Buckingham in 1764, and burgess of Buckingham, 1766-1769. During the revolution he served as colonel of the county militia and was commissioner for the casting of cannon in Buckingham. He married Ruth Meredith, daughter of Colonel Samuel Meredith, of Hanover. His daughter Margaret married Colonel William Cabell.

Jordan, Thomas, was born in 1600 and was living in Virginia in 1624; burgess for Warrosquoake, Isle of Wight, 1629-1631.

Keith, George, [illegible] by John Smith as "a Scotchman who professed scholarship," was for [illegible] minister at Bermuda but came to Virginia in 1617. He was born in 1581. In 1617 he [illegible] minister of Elizabeth City [illegible] he was pastor of the Indian [illegible] settlements in the North. He was probably ancestor of the celebrated George Keith, who figured in Pennsylvania at the close of the century.

Keith's or Skiffe's creek in James City county, Virginia, perpetuates his name.

Keith, James, was a burgess from Hampshire in the sessions of November 3, 1761, January 14, 1762, and March 30, 1762. In the session of November 2, 1762, James Mercer represented Hampshire "in place of James Keith, who had accepted a clerkship."

Keith, James, [illegible] a native of Scotland, and on March 4, 1725-26, received the king's bounty of twenty pounds to go as minister to Virginia. He probably settled at first in Henrico county, where he married Mary Isham Randolph, daughter of Thomas Randolph and Judith Fleming, a daughter of Colonel Charles Fleming. He then lived in Hamilton parish, Fauquier county, for many years. His daughter Mary Randolph Keith, married Colonel Thomas Marshall, father of John Marshall, chief justice of the United States.

Kemp, Edward, [illegible] was member of the council.

Kemp, Matthew, son of Colonel Matthew Kemp, member of the council, was burgess for Middlesex county in 1685, and 1692; justice from 1698 and sheriff 1700. His will was dated May 4, 1715 and proved in Middlesex, January 2, 1716. He left a son Matthew (q. v.).

Kemp, Matthew, son of Matthew Kemp, of Middlesex county, was born in 1695 and died in December, 1739; was burgess for Middlesex county in 1723-1726 and 1727

Revolutionary War Size Roll (After Sept. 1, 1780)

Chesterfield (County, Va.) Supplement - Virginia State Library Accession #23816-

Frontispiece - (Quote) - "This book is a supplement to 'papers concerning the Army of the Revolution,(?) I, Executive Department' and in order, precedes Benjamin Harrison's mission to Philadelphia 1781 - Size Roll of Troops joined at Chesterfield Courthouse since Sept. 1, 1780 (Signed) - Captain Joseph Scott". (End Quote)

Comment by C. H. Hamlin:

These records give the rame of the soldier, his age, his size in feet and inches, his trade, where born, place of residence, color of hair, eyes and complexion.

The ages of the soldiers given in this roll very probably are their ages in the latter part of the year 1780 when the roll was evidently initiated and it might be well to estimate the year of birth as, circa 1780, from which deduct the ages given for the year of birth.

From the list, which will be treated of below, it would seem that this company or regiment was a Foreign Legion outfit, from their places of birth as given, but in actuality they composed only about 25 percent of the total of this muster roll. I have not listed the soldiers claiming Virginia as their birthplace. A full list, including the Virginia born, is being currently serialized by the Virginia Genealogical Society in their Quarterly Bulletin.

Although this record is called the Chesterfield County Supplement and most people think it is therefore a company of soldiers recruited from residents of Chesterfield County I was struck by the very singular and noteworthy fact that less than one percent of these men claimed Chesterfield County as their birthplace or place of residence.

There seem to be several possibilities for surmise inherent herein. (1) These men may have been recruited in various sections of the State and all brought together or concentrated at Chesterfield Courthouse to form a new company or (2) They may have been the remnants or remaining portions of several other regiments and companies brought together from various sections for the purpose of re-organization into full strength.

I have done no research at all to decide if this is so or not. Very probably the military records or pension applications of some of the individuals contained in this list could be checked and further very important historical facts determined or disclosed.

At any rate, this muster or size roll cannot properly be claimed by Chesterfield County beyond the fact that this company was evidently organized and encamped here at one time. My last observation is that this is a truly remarkable, important and valuable record and of a very rare type.

THE COCKE FAMILY IN ENGLAND
VIRGINIA MAGAZINE OF HISTORY, 5, 306

The earliest complete account that we have of the Cocke family in England is the pedigree of Walter Cokkes de Chelworth, or Walter le Cock of Ospring County, Kent, (circa 1250). This covers a period of 400 years from 1250. The name is spelled Le Cock, Cokkys, and Cokkes, and may readily have passed into Cocke, Cock, Cox, Cocks, or Coxe. But almost a century prior to this there is mention of Andreas Cockain, of Ashburne in the County of Derby, in the reign of Henry 2nd., 1154-1189, whose son and heir was William Cockain, from whom descended Charles Cockain, who was created a baron and viscount in 1642, (Edmondson's Peerage, London, 1785) , The interesting fact is added that the coat of arms shows three cocks; crest, a cock's head; motto, virtus in arduis. This was about a century after William the Conqueror landed in England, and shows the family established with a coat of arms from the very beginning; which indeed appears from the pedigree and arms of Walter Cock.

This was, say 1160, and in 1403, some 250 years afterwards, the Cockaines were still living in Ashbourne, when John Cockaine married Agnes, daughter of Sir Richard Vernon. About 1600, Thomas Cockain of Ashbourne, married Anne, daughter of Sir John Stanhope, father of the first Earl of Chesterfield. There is another pedigree of the Cockes of Essex, (published in the Harleian Society Publications, vol. 14, page 558), which begins with Ranulphus Cocus, (or Ralph Cock), in the reign of Henry 3rd., circa 1250. The names in this line are Ranulphus, John, Richard, John of Shopland, John and Richard of Prittlewell. John Cocke of Shopland in com. Essex Esq., married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas, 1st, Lord Wentworth, Lord Chamberlain to King Edward 6th.

We find the family also spread into Surrey,(adjoining Kent), in the fourteenth century. Rev. John Cok, vicar of Comptom 1379, and Gilbert le Cok, rector of Albany 1372. There was a Ralph Cock in Cornwall about 1400. But one of the most significant facts in the history of this family is stated briefly in a voluminous work published in London, in 1804, on the "History and Antiquities of Surrey", by Manning and Bray. We learn from this publication, (vol, 1, page 42), that about the year 1350, reign of Edward 3rd., one of the representatives in Parliament, of the county of Surrey, was Richard atte Cockes. Only one more step was necessary after learning these facts about the family in Surrey and Kent at this early period, to go back to the time of the Conquest; and this is given in Walford's "County Families of the United Kingdom", (London 1860). Under the head of William Cox Esq., we find in this volume, the following:

William Cox Esq., of Ballynoe. This family is lineally descended through the Plantagenet Kings, from William the Conqueror, from whom the present representative is 25th, in descent. Ballynoe, near Ballingarry, County Limerick was the home of the same family of Cox, or Cocks, who lived at Beamond, and of whom we shall speak hereafter. That the family was a very ancient one seems also to be proved by the fact Cock of Newcastle had on his escutcheon a "Bezant be'n 3 Cocks". A byzant is a Byzantine coin, and is a common heraldric device, which originated, as is supposed, from the coins of Constantinople, assumed as armorial bearings by the doughty Crusaders in commemoration of their exploits. The Third Crusade (1188-1192), of which the renowned Richard Plantagenet was the hero, was the first to be popular in England; and it is reasonable to conjecture that "Cock of Newcastle" was one of the valient men at arms who followed the standard of St. George in this famous expedition.

About 1620, one of the sons of Sir George Percy, brother of Henry, Earl of Northumberland, married a daughter of Sir Thomas Cocke of the County of Glouchester, England. The Cockes, at this time were very prominent in England. Richard Cocke, leading merchant of London, England, was a large stockholder in the Virginia Company sponsor of the Settlement at Jamestown. Several members of the English Cocke family were connected with the Royal household in the reigns of Henry 8th, Mary, Elizabeth and James 1st. The family was connected by marriage with the Wests, Percys, Lord Chandos, the Berkeleys, Sir Hugh Poynty, Sir Robert Oxenbridge, Sir Edward Percy, Lord Summers and Lord Wentworth.

RICHARD COCKE, FIRST VIRGINIA ANCESTOR 1600-1665

Richard Cocke, born in England about 1600, came to Virginia when Capt. Francis West, brother of Lord de la Warr, was in charge of the Colony. This was in the year 1627. He patented 100 acres of land in Elizabeth City County in 1628, and in the same year, William Cox patented 100 acres in the same County. It is likely that Richard Cocke, William Cox, and Henry Southall all came to Virginia together and landed at Lynnhaven Bay, Elizabeth City County, (now Princess Anne County). In March 1636, Richard Cocke patented 3000 acres of land in Henrico County, adjoining the lands of Thomas Harris. The same year Thomas Harris patented 7000 acres adjoining his lands near the Bremoe Dividend. Bremo was the name of Richard Cocke's Manor, and this is the first time the name appears in Virginia. In England, the Cockes lived at Bremo house, and Richard Cocke followed the custom in naming his Virginia home after the home of his family across the sea.

In 1632 Richard Cocke was a member of the Virginia House of Burgesses from Weyanoke and in 1644 and 1654 he was Burgess from Henrico County. He was also, for a number of years, County Commandant, or Lieut. Colonel of Henrico County. According to the records of the Colony, his patent of 3000 acres, issued in 1636, was granted him for bringing over 60 persons who were expected to settle in the Colony. A list of these sixty persons is on record in the land office at Richmond.

In 1655, he was appointed Sheriff of Henrico County and resigned as a member of the House of Burgesses.

Richard Cocke was married twice. The name of his wife is not known, nor do we know the date of her death. She did live with him in Virginia though, for she was buried in the orchard of the plantation at Bremo. This fact is mentioned in his will. His second wife was Mary Ashton, daughter of Walter Ashton, who was a member of the House of Burgesses. She, after the death of Richard Cocke, married Colonel Edward Hill, of Charles City County.

Richard Cocke II, mentioned in his father's will as his eldest son, was undoubtedly a child of the first marriage. Thomas, the second son,may also have been born of the first wife, though there is evidence that he was the first child of the second marriage. The fact that Thomas was named to "look to the mill for the use of my other children when they come of age", instead of Richard the eldest son, seems to indicate that he was their own full brother. Thomas was mentioned first with Richard as co-executor with the wife, and Thomas was again named first, with Richard, as joint guardian, (should his wife die), "for all my younger children born of her until they come of age". The will clearly shows that Richard and Thomas were over twenty-one, when the will was written, and that Will, John, Richard the younger and Elizabeth followed in the order named. It is not clear whether or not Will was under age when the will was written, but I believe that John, Richard the younger and Elizabeth were all under twenty-one. It is certain that Elizabeth was under seventeen for his executor is directed to pay her one hundred pounds when "she reaches the age of seventeen or at the date of her marriage which shall happen first". Elizabeth was probably named for Richard Cocke's mother, or for the mother of Mary Ashton.

Mr. Southall, in his "Genealogy of the Cocke Family" states that Thomas Cocke was the eldest child of his father, but I doubt this, for, tho Thomas seems to have possessed the confidence of his father more than did Richard, the will expressly mentions Richard as the eldest son, and to Richard was given the home plantation of Bremo; "I give and bequeath the aforesaid excepted 640 acres, called Bremo, to my oldest son Richard Cocke and the male heirs of his body, lawfully begotten."

Bremo Manor in England was owned by the Cocke family, and the use of the name in Virginia is reasonably good proof that Richard Cocke of Virginia was a member of the Cocke family of England who lived at Bremo.

Richard Cocke was undoubtedly one of the "gentleman" colonists, for, tho he did not come to Virginia until 1628, he was a member of the House of Burgesses in 1632, and was prominent in the colony from the time of his landing in Virginia, until his death. He was a relative of the Wests' and the Percys' both of which families furnished early governors of the Colony, and came to Virginia while Capt. Francis West was acting as Governor. He was probably a relative of Richard Cocke, the London merchant, who was a large stockholder of the Virginia Company, founder of the Colony. It is possible that he was a son of this Richard Cocke.

He was a cousin of Daniel Jordan, whom he mentions in his will. It is supposed that this Daniel Jordan was the same man who was a member of the first legislative assembly of Virginia in 1619, and the owner of the Plantation, "Jordan's Journey", but if this is true, Daniel must have met reverses, for Richard Cocke's will indicates that he had no property in 1665. The will mentions him as follows:

"I give and bequeath to my cousin Daniell Jordan as much manured land as he and two hands shall be able and will maintain, during his life or abode in the country, provided he employ himself and own handwork, my sons finding teams & sees etc."

The will of Richard Cocke is on record in Henrico County Virginia, dated October 4, 1665. It was witnessed by Henry Randolph and Henry Isham. The will commences:

"In the name of GOD, Amen. I Richard Cocke, Senior, being at present in perfect health and memorie, for which I render hearty thanks to Almighty God, my Creator, yet considering the uncertainty of this transitory life, I have therefore for the peaceable settling of that little estate that God in his goodness hath given me, made and ordained this my last will and testament, hereby reversing all former wills at any time made by me. Imprimis, I beg to bequeath my soul to God, that gave it, trusting in the merits of my Redeemer to obtain a joyful Resurrection, and my bodie to the grave to be interred in my orchard near my first wife, decently, according to the usuall solemnities of the Church of England, and my estate I dispose of as followeth:

After my debts are paid, I give and bequeath the one third of my estate, whether in lands or chattels to my loving wife, Mary Cocke, the said third to be held by her during her natural life and no longer."

To oldest son, Richard, Plantation of Bremo, (640 acres).
To son Thomas, lands; supervision of the Mill
To sons Will & John Cocke; lands; to son, Richard, the younger, lands
To daughter Elizabeth, 100 pounds and rents
To cousin Daniel Jordan use of land and teams etc.
At death of wife, her interest to be divided.
Executors: Wife, Mary Cocke & sons Thomas and Richard.

Richard Cocke left about 4000 acres of land, in addition to lands already given to Thomas and Richard. He also mentions a Mill, and large holdings of cattle, hogs, tobacco etc., and two negroes, which he said never belonged to him, but to his "cousin Daniel Jordan, a gift from his mother". These negroes are evidently the "two hands" mentioned in the bequest to Jordan.

Mr. Southall gives 1665 as the date of Richard Cocke's death. The will is dated October 1665, but the copy I have does not give the date of probate. Noting that the preamble of the will states that he was, at the time of making his will, "in perfect health and memorie", it may be that he lived several years after the will was made. Five sons and one daughter were living, when the will was written.

Richard, the elder of Bremo
Thomas of Pickthorne Farm

Richard the younger
Elizabeth

I was very much surprised to note that he had two living sons named Richard, but apparently this was not unusual in that period, especially when there was more than one marriage.

As I am interested only in the direct line of descent, I have not attempted to gather information about any of the children except Thomas, our ancestor, however, I am told that the descendants of Richard Cocke of Bremo occupied the Plantation of Bremo until a few months ago. The house, it is said, was the original home of Richard Cocke, and, excepting repairs and alterations, still stands as it did 250 years ago. According to the newspapers, the furnishings and all other articles in the house were recently bought at public sale, by representatives of the Dupont family, who bid them in at the sale, paying largest prices.

THOMAS COCKE OF PICKTHORNE FARM 1638-1697

Thomas Cocke, second son of Richard Cocke 1st., (Southall says eldest) was born in the year 1638, in Henrico County, Virginia. He was probably born on the plantation called "Bremo", as his father apparently went there to live in 1636.

Thomas Cocke seems to have been prominent in the affairs of Henrico County for he held numerous offices in that County. In that day, holding office was evidence of the prominence of the man. At least it meant that he was of a class called gentleman, and stood out from among his fellows of that class.

Thomas Cocke was Justice of the County, 1678-80, and Sheriff and Coroner in 1680. In 1688, he was again Sheriff. The Henrico County records show that he was a member of the House of Burgesses in 1679, and it is probable that he was a member between 1680 and 1697. From 1660 to 1676 there was no election of Burgesses, and there is, of record, no list of Burgesses from 1660 to 1702. Thomas Cocke was called Captain, and it is supposed that he held that rank in the military establishment of his County.

In 1681, Thomas Cocke and his brother, Richard Cocke, owned the ferry and the "Ordinary" at the Varina Courthouse. In 1810 this ferry was still known as "Cocke's Ferry". He is mentioned in the Virginia records as living at Malvern Hills. His father had lived at Bremo, and his brother Richard inherited and made his home there. In 1689, Thomas Cocke deeded 625 acres (probably Turkey Island) to William Randolph. He was quite a wealthy man for his time and left a considerable estate, including the advancements made to his children, some five thousand acres of land, the home place, Malvern Hills, having on it a flour mill and two tanneries. This was, of course, the mill that had been owned by his father, prior to 1665, and was undoubtedly one of the first mills erected in the Colony. Besides the mill, he owned, as stated, two tanneries, and he mentions by name one of his tanners whom he bequeaths to his son James. He owned another mechanic, Jack Long, at the mill, whom he leaves " with all his tools" to his son Stephen.

Edward Jaquelin, the immigrant, was a son of John Jaquelin and Elizabeth Craddock, and came to Virginia in 1697. He was born in 1668 and died 1730. He was twice married, his second wife being Martha, daughter of William Cary of Warwick county, and granddaughter of Col. Miles Cary, who came to Virginia in 1645. An oil painting of the immigrant, bearing the above arms upon its frame, is in possession of his descendants.

INGLIS. Williamsburg.

Arms: Gules on a bend, three eagles displayed, between two (unidentified) charges. (Ludwell MS.)

A wax seal of arms is on a deed dated 1700, of Mungo Inglis. He was the first Grammar Master of William and Mary College, and one of the feofees of Williamburg.

GOODWIN. York county.

At Back Creek is the tomb of Rachel, born 1630, died 23 May, 1666, the first wife of Major James Goodwin. The arms engraven upon it are almost obliterated. The shield is impaled; the dexter is much defaced, but in the chief there is a lozenge. In the sinister, which is divided quarterly, there is, 1st and 4th, a bend; 2nd and 3rd, three bars. It is possible that Rachel was a sister of John Porter, for whom Major James Goodwin obtained "head rights," the arms of Porter, Warwick, Eng., being "sable, three bars argent." In the Goodwin genealogy, compiled by Judge John S. Goodwin, the theory is advanced that Maj. James was a son of Peter Goodwin of London (Visitation of London, 1633). The arms of Peter Goodwin of London do not contain the lozenge and the latter is traceable on the dexter side of the arms of Rachel Goodwin. It may be that the arms on the dexter side are those of Goodwin of London, exemplified in 1640, viz.: "or a lion passant, guardant sable on a chief gules three lozenges vair." These are the only Goodwin arms containing a lozenge. The dexter side of the shield on the tomb being much worn, it is possible that the two other lozenges have been obliterated. The arms of Peter Goodwin of London are: "Per pale or and gules, a lion rampant between three fleur de lis counterchanged."

JERDONE. Louisa county.

Arms: Argent, a saltire and chief gules, the last charged with three mullets of the field.

Crest: A spur-rowel of six points argent.

Francis Jerdone of Louisa county, was born at Jedburgh, Scot., 30 Jan., 1720-1, married Sarah Macon of New Kent county, Va., 10 Feb., 1753. He was the son of John Jerdone, born 7 July, 1680, a Magistrate of Jedburgh, who was the son of Adam Jerdone. [8] An interesting "Memorandum" (from a copy of the original kindly furnished by Hon. L. C. Draper, LL.D., Madison, Wisconsin,) of the escape of Anthony Trabue, and of the settlement at Manakin-town, prepared by his grandson, Daniel Trabue, son of John James and Olymphia (Dupuy) Trabue, was published by the present writer in the Richmond Standard, May 10–17, 1879. Daniel Trabue writes: "My grandfather, Anthony Trabue, fled from France in the year of our Lord, 1687, at the time of a bloody persecution against the dissenters by the Roman Catholics. The law against the dissenters was very rigid at that time. Whoever was known to be one, or even suspected, if he would not swear to visit the priest, his life and estate were forfeited, and [he was] put to the most shameful and cruel torture and death. And worse than all, they would not let any move from the kingdom. Guards and troops were stationed all over the kingdom to stop and catch any that might run away. At every place where they would expect those persons might pass, there were guards fixed and companies of inquisitors, and patrols going on every road, and every other place, hunting for those heretics, as they called them; and where there was one who made his escape, perhaps there were hundreds put to the most shameful torture and death. * * When the decree was first passed, a number of the people thought it would not be put in execution so very hastily; but the priests, friars and inquisitors were very intent for their estates, and they rushed quick. * * I understand that my grandfather, Anthony Trabue, had an estate, but concluded he would leave it if he could possibly make his escape. He was a very young man, and he and another young man took a cart and loaded it with wine, and went on to sell it to the farthermost guard; and when night came they left their horses and cart, and made their escape to an English ship, which took them on board, and they went over to England, leaving their estates, native country, relations, and everything for the sake of Jesus who died for them."

Mr. A. E. Trabue, Hannibal, Missouri, is in possession of the original certificate on vellum given his ancestor by the ministers and civil officers of Lausanne. He communicates the following extract: "We commend him to the care of Divine Providence, and to a cordial reception from our Brethren. Done at Lausanne this 15th day of the seventh month, A. D. 1687."

Anthony Trabue died in Manakin-town, Virginia, January, 1724, aged 56 or 57 years, leaving three sons: Anthony, Jacob and John James Trabue, who married Olymphia, daughter of John James and Susanna (Lavillon) Dupuy. Their issue, as given in the "Memorandum" of Daniel Trabue, differs somewhat in order and name from the Dupuy "trees." He gives: James, John, William, Daniel, Edward, Stephen, Samuel, Magdalene, Phœbe, Jane, Mary, Martha, Eliza, Judith, Susan.

[9] His descendants in several generations followed the calling of Land Surveyor. They embrace many highly respected names, including that of Dibrell, formerly Du Breuil. Peter Le Grand was the Burgess from Prince Edward county, 1758-1765.

embrace the new faith in the early days of the French Reformation. He became its most earnest supporter, "consumed with zeal for the cause of religion," and his descendants inherited the same devotion. His three sons fought in the Huguenot armies under Henry IV, and his grandson, David, Marquis de la Muce, presided over the political assembly of the Protestants held in La Rochelle in the year 1621. For his attendance upon that assembly, contrary to the King's commands, he was condemned to be drawn and quartered, a sentence which was executed upon him in effigy, whilst his beautiful castle was actually demolished and razed to the ground. Cæsar, his son, and Olivier, his grandson, were elders in the Reformed Church of Nantes. Under the provisions of the Edict of Nantes the Seigneurs de la Muce claimed the right of holding religious services in their own house, and besides supporting this worship they contributed generously to the funds of the "temple" in the adjoining village of Sucé. Soon after the Revocation Olivier de la Muce fled from his home and was arrested on the island of Ré, while waiting for an opportunity to make his escape to England. Imprisoned for two years, first in La Rochelle, and afterwards in the Castle of Nantes, he resisted every effort to persuade him to deny his faith. At length an order was given for the expulsion of the Marquis de la Muce from the kingdom as an obstinate heretic. Accordingly, he was placed on board a foreign ship, the captain of which received orders to land him in England, but carefully to conceal from him the fact that he was about to be set free.

Twelve years later, he headed the expedition to Virginia and became the founder of the Manakin-town settlement. He was a man of recognized excellence of character. Baird's Huguenot Emigration to America, II, 87-89.

INHABITANTS OF KING WILLIAM PARISH, IN MANACAN TOWN, VIRGINIA, TO MR. NEARNE.[107]

[Extract.]

Rev'd Sir:

Your near departure out of this country obliges us, the Church Wardens and Vestries of King William's Parish, with humble submission, to beg your Assistance when, please God, you are arrived in London. We are very sorry that we can no longer enjoy the pleasure of your good presence and Education.

We thought ourselves happy in our late settlement with your Reverence.

We had above 110 or 120 tithables, but at present our number is 130. You see, therefore, the impossibility for us to raise a sum sufficient to keep our own Minister, and since we are conformed to the Laws and Disciplines of the Church of England, and that our Parish is a Royal Gift to us French Refugees, we think we ought not to consent to be dissolved and incorporated into another Parish.

Many of our Parishioners understand no English; but for the sake of our Children and the English Families settled amongst us, we should be heartily Glad to have the Common Prayers and Sermons in English as well as French.

Land Lotteries 1803-1806-1819 1821-1827-1832

EXPLANATORY

The land given out in this lottery was obtained from the Creek Indians in a treaty at Fort Wilkinson, June 16, 1802, and included "the Territory south of the Oconee and Altamaha rivers". This land was divided into three counties, Wayne, Wilkinson and Baldwin. The lots in Wayne consisted of 490 acres each, those in Baldwin and Wilkinson 202½ acres each, three thousand two hundred and forty acres reserved for a town to be called Milledgeville.

Those entitled to draw were every free white male twenty-one years and upwards, and an inhabitant of the state twelv months immediately preceding the passage of this act, who had paid tax, one draw; every free white male having a wife and one or more legitimate children, two draws; all widows having legitimate child or children, two draws; all families of orphans having no parents living, two draws.

No mention is made of military service in this act, and no provision is made for soldiers of any war.

Georgia, Wilkes Co. We the Justices of the Inferior Court viz: Benjamin Porter, James Anthony, Thomas Mounger and Richard Worshani having met the 13th day of June 1803 at the court house agreeable to the Governors Proclamation for the purpose of receiving the names of the inhabitants of the county and the draws to which they are entitled by an Act of the General Assembly passed May 11, last, Do hereby certify that the persons hereinafter named are entitled to the number of draws designated by the figures one and two opposite their names, viz:

THE JORDAN FAMILY OF SURRY COUNTY, VIRGINIA

IN the early years of the Colony of Virginia there were three unrelated Jordan families living on the south side of the James River.

The first to arrive was Samuel Jordan who patented four hundred and fifty acres in Charles City (later Prince George) County at Jordan's Point; the place was first called Beggar's Bush and later Jordan's Journey. He had been in the colony doubtless a few years before making this patent in 1619 and that same year was a member of the first general assembly at Jamestown. He died a few years after this and left no male heirs; but a large estate to his widow.

The second to arrive was Thomas Jordan: he first lived in James City County but soon settled in Isle of Wight, was in the House of Burgesses and a Quaker, in fact his family were among the leaders of the movement in Isle of Wight County. He left one son.

The Jordans of Surry County were the last to come to the Colony; there were five brothers and sisters who came at various times. What their background in England was, I do not know, nor where they lived before coming to Virginia. But it is evident from the position they attained in Virginia that they were of good stock and culture; they became allied by marriage with the families of the largest south-side plantations.

1. George Jordan arrived in Virginia in 1635 and attained great prominence; he was a friend of Colonel Henry Browne of Four Mile Tree Plantation and lived near there; he was a member of the House of Burgesses from Surry Co. over a period of thirty years though not constantly; Lieutenant Colonel; Justice and later, 1670, Attorney General. He first married Alice Miles who died in 1650, buried at Four Mile Tree Plantation her headstone is the oldest decipherable tomb in Virginia. He married second, Elizabeth Coats. His only child to live to maturity was Fortune, who married Thomas Hunt and predeceased her father. His advice and legal aid were sought by and given to his family (see the Flood Family), He died in 1678; his Will was signed Feb. 25th (Surry Will Book, 1671–90 page 191) and his estate was left to his nephews and nieces. In it he reveals his religion, but also there is a sadness about it. He required that a sermon on immortality be preached each year and if the anniversary of his daughter's death fall on a Sunday, Holy Communion be had. He ends his Will with "Bless this poor Colony and this county especially wherein I have now lived above forty-three years". He names "my two Goddaughters, children of Col. Thomas Swann, Sarah Sowerby, George Norwood and George Briggs, being also my God-children; Mary Browne my Godchild. My seven nephews, Edward Bayley, Chris ffoster, Walter fflood, George Jordan, James Jordan, River Jordan and Thomas Jordan; and my one niece Elizabeth Jordan."

1. Fortune Jordan married as his second wife, Colonel John Flood of Surry County. For her family see the Flood Family. She married second, James Mills.

1. Mary Jordan married first, Arthur Bayley and had a son, Edward; she married second, Christopher Foster and had a son named for his father. Both of these sons were remembered in Col. George's Jordan's Will.

1. William Jordan of whom little is known; he was the first of his generation to die in 1664.

1. Arthur Jordan born in England 1627, married Elizabeth Bavin, April 22, 1654; they were of Southwark Parish, Surry County. He signed his Will Sept. 24, 1698 and it was proved Jan. 3, 1699 by the three witnesses, Nathaniel Harrison, Thomas Flood and Walter Flood (Surry Co. Book 2, page 160). His son, River Jordan, was made executor. He named three children:

2. George Jordan, to whom he left all his land (and with his brother River "the remainder of my estate in Virginia and elsewhere"), married Mary, daughter of Colonel William Browne of Four Mile Tree Plantation.

2. River Jordan, married Elizabeth.

3. Elizabeth, named in her grandfather's Will.

3. River, married Priscilla daughter of Col. Wm. Browne who married second, Thomas Blunt son of Richard and Mary (Flood) Blunt.

2. Thomas Jordan (not named in his father's Will), married Jane, daughter of Col. William Browne.

2. Elizabeth Jordan, born ca. 1663, died in 1735, married Richard Washington 1660–1725, named in Arthur Jordan's Will as "my son and daughter Washington" and he also names "grandson Arthur Washington".

Richard and Elizabeth (Jordan) Washington were cousins: Richard's father John Washington married Mary, daughter of Col. John Flood and his second wife Fortune Jordan, sister of Elizabeth's father Arthur Jordan.

Richard and Elizabeth had twelve children all of whom but one son left families. For their family see the Washington Family. My line from Richard and Elizabeth Washington.

3. Elizabeth Washington, married Sampson Lanier.
4. Elizabeth Lanier, married second, Thomas Croft.
5. Elizabeth Lanier Croft, married first, Moses Ingram.
6. Elizabeth Gray Ingram, married first, Jesse Westmoreland.
7. Susan Ingram Westmoreland, married first, John Brookes.
8. John Jesse Westmoreland Brookes, married Olive Elizabeth Kennedy.
9. Mary Sue Brookes, married James Josephus Douglass.
10. Hiram Kennedy Douglass.

THE GARLAND FAMILY

OF NEW KENT AND HANOVER COUNTIES

By William W. Reynolds
Cary, North Carolina

Several years ago the writer traced his Garland ancestors to James Garland (*ca.*1722-1812) of Albemarle County who moved to that county from Hanover County.[1] Upon researching further, it was found that there are few extant records of Hanover and its parent, New Kent County, and that furthermore there exist a number of published accounts of this family during their residence in New Kent and Hanover,[2] some containing errors or inconsistencies. Evidently, many accounts have been copied from the early ones, and errors in the latter have been perpetuated. When numerous inquiries failed to locate the source of information used in the early accounts, the writer decided to research further and to see if the family's structure could be clearly defined. The objective of the following narrative is to describe the New Kent-Hanover branch of the Garland family prior to about 1750, based on primary sources insofar as possible. Some family members are followed past 1750 in the interest of continuity. Since much has been published on the family, some comparisons with and commentary on published material is in order; this is provided in footnotes.

Of course, the writer has a personal interest in the Garlands, but the family is perhaps of wider interest because of its many descendants and because of the prominence attained by some of its sons. Two notable descendants of the Hanover Garlands were Landon C. Garland, successively president of Randolph-Macon College and the University of Alabama and first Chancellor of Vanderbilt University,[3] and Confederate Brig.Gen. Samuel Garland, who was killed leading his brigade at South Mountain, Md., 14 Sept. 1862;[4] these are but two of many distinguished Garland descendants. It is hoped, therefore, that this account will be of interest to many who can trace their lineage to the Garlands of early New Kent and Hanover counties.

THE IMMIGRANT

No records have yet been located which identify categorically the immigrant ancestor of Edward, the first Garland family member to live in New Kent County. However, published accounts contain conflicting statements about the immigrant ancestor of Edward Garland, so a review of "candidates" is in order. The only extensive record of immigrants to Virginia is the Virginia State Library's set of land patents which give the name of the patentee and the names of those people whose passage to Virginia was paid by the patentee. Even these extremely valuable records are certainly not complete, many patents never having been recorded. These records do not list any Garlands as patentees of land prior to 1700, but they list several as persons transported to the colony before 1700. The latter provide at least a partial list of candidates for the immigrant ancestor of the New Kent-Hanover Garlands, and each is explored further.

In a patent dated 7 Nov. 1650,[5] Peter Garland is listed as being transported to Virginia; i.e., he had been transported prior to that date. Similarly, a Peter Garland is listed in a patent dated 4 June 1656[6] and a third is listed in a patent of 6 Oct. 1656.[7] An inspection of the names of people transported in these three patents shows eight of the names, including Peter Garland's, given in the first patent are identical to the eight listed in the other two patents. This means land was granted to three different people for transporting these same eight people to Virginia. This was, of course, illegal, but was probably difficult to detect given the nature of 17th Century recordkeeping.[8] The significant conclusion is that only one Peter Garland was transported to Virginia in the 1650s, and he was in the colony by 7 Nov. 1650. It is quite possible that he is the Peter Garland who married Joan Wilson in Isle of Wight County in 1655[9] and who apparently remained in that county to his death, which occurred some time after 6 Sept. 1694[10] when he made his will there. He left these children who are mentioned in the will: Samuel, John, Sarah and Debora.[11]

Francis Garland also arrived in the 1650s, being mentioned in a patent of 10 May 1652.[12] Nothing further has been learned of him or of Robert Garland who arrived by 6 Oct. 1655.[13] The same is true of James Garland who arrived by 14 Sept. 1667, Hump. Garland who arrived by 23 May 1671, and William Garland who came by 11 Nov. 1672.[14]

Nathaniel Garland of Cople Parish, Westmoreland County, had located in that county by 1675 and apparently lived there until his death in 1703.[15] His will mentions surviving sons Samuel and Jeremiah, and deceased sons John and Nathaniel, as well as a brother, Thomas.

Lastly, one Peter Garland who already settled in Virginia on 29 Sept. 1680[16] when "Peter Garland's plantation" is mentioned in a patent by Maj. Lewis Burwell in Gloucester County. This plantation was in the vicinity of Carter's Creek and Timberneck Creek, or near the present town of White Marsh in Gloucester County. This was in Abingdon Parish and, while that parish's vestry book has not survived, a copy of the parish register for 1678-1761 is in existence. The index to that volume shows no Garlands, thus giving no clue as to the children of this Peter Garland.

11 Bell, op. cit., p. 215, states that "the Peter Garland who came in 1650 came to York County ..." This is evidently based on the fact that the 1650 patent (Virginia Patents, Bk. 2, p. 270) was for land in York County. That, however, does not mean that the people who were transported also came to the county in which the patentee received land.

There may well have been other male Garland immigrants to Virginia in the pre-1700 era, but these are all who have been identified thus far. From those named above, no connection with Edward Garland of New Kent County can be proved on the basis of the scant surviving records. Some articles[17] state that Peter Garland, who arrived by 1650, was the father of Edward, while others[18] say that Edward was himself an immigrant. Perhaps some yet-undiscovered document will surface, identifying for certain the immigrant of the New Kent branch of the family; for now, it must be stated that Edward Garland's ancestors cannot be positively identified. However, in spite of the paucity of early New Kent and Hanover records, much can be learned about Edward Garland and his descendants in those counties.

THE GARLAND FAMILY IN NEW KENT COUNTY

Edward Garland (who will be called Edward Garland, Sr., in the following paragraphs) first appears in New Kent County records when his son, Edward, was born 26 May 1700.[19] On the basis of this, it is estimated that Edward, Sr., was born by 1680; as will be indicated later by his sons' probably birth dates, the 1670-75 period is more likely. The 1704 Quit Rent Roll for New Kent County[20] shows that he owned 2600 acres. Yet the 1689 processioning record of St. Peter's Parish, New Kent County,[21] mentions no Garlands in the parish at that time. In 1689, St. Peter's Parish embraced what in 1704 were St. Peter's and St. Paul's parishes, so it is concluded that not only did Edward Garland move to New Kent between 1689 and 1700, but that he was rather prosperous when he located there, or became so shortly thereafter (in the 1704 Quit Rent Roll for New Kent, only seven of the 491 people listed owned more land).

21 Chamberlayne, op. cit., pp. 20-22.

Edward Garland, Sr., was a prominent citizen of New Kent County since he served on the vestry of St. Paul's Parish from 1706[22] until about 1720, and was church warden from 1705-08 and from 1719-20.[23] He lived in that portion of the parish "above Machump's Creek" in 1711;[24] more specifically, his land undoubtedly included the little "neck" just north of the point where Mechumps Creek enters Pamunkey River (northeast of today's Hanover Court House). This is indicated by the act to dock the entail of his grandson, David's, land in 1752[25] which mentions a 680 acre tract which was "the plantation whereon he [i.e., Edward Garland, Sr.] then lived ... up to the head of the little neck." In 1722, there was a ferry "From Mrs. Garland's, in the County of Hanover, over the river, to Mrs. Littlepage's land, in the County of King William"[26] and in 1751 this is called the ferry "From Taylor's in King William, to Garland's in Hanover".[27] As late as the Civil War, this was referred to as Taylor's Ferry.[28] On the 1770 map

22 C. G. Chamberlayne, The Vestry Book of St. Paul's Parish, Hanover County, Virginia, 1706-1786 (Richmond, 1940), p. 2. He may have been on the vestry when the parish was formed in 1704, but this cannot be proven as the first several pages of the original vestry book are missing.

25 W. W. Hening, The Statutes at Large ... of Virginia v. 6 (Richmond, 1819), pp. 311-13.

26 Ibid., v. 4, p. 113. The next entry on this page is "... from David Anderson's in the county of King William, to Peter Garland's land, in the county of Hanover ..." with the ferry rate identical to that for the Garland-to-Littlepage ferry. This ferry was about 2 miles upstream of the one mentioned in the text, and directly north of Hanover Court House. The two ferries across Pamunkey near Hanover Court House are mentioned in an advertisement for the sale of land in The Virginia Gazette of 18 Aug. 1738, p. 4. The land was "within sight of Hanover Courthouse, and within one mile of Two Ferries ... one into King William County, and the other into Caroline County, the Roads meeting on the Land ..." Both ferries crossed into King William in 1722 since Caroline County was formed in 1728.

of Virginia by John Henry, this area is called "Garlands"[29]

In addition to the land he owned in 1704, Edward Garland obtained at least three more tracts during the 1714-17 period, all by patent, and may have purchased additional land by indenture, although the destruction of Hanover's eighteenth century deed books prevents determination of that. On 16 June 1714 he patented 1808 acres along the south side of the North Anna[30] (Tract A). Then on 16 Aug. 1715 he patented 1343 acres on the north side of Little River where Beaverdam Creek joins it[31] (Tract B), and on 1 April 1717 he patented 1513 acres on the south side of Taylor's Creek[32] (Tract C). These patents were obtained under the headright system which provided 50 acres of land for each person transported into the colony, with the land going to the person paying the passage. Thus, Edward Garland, Sr., obtained this land by paying the passage to Virginia of 95 people. This is further evidence of his prosperity, as well probably of his need for additional land for tobacco which quickly depleted the soil.

Edward Garland, Sr., lived in New Kent County[33] until his death which occurred between 3 July 1720 and 21 May 1721.[34] He was apparently in failing health during his 29 Some accounts, including The Times-Dispatch genealogical column of 26 July 1908, state that John Garland lived "at Garlands Neck, Hanover County, Virginia, more recently called Blackwell's Neck." However, the Garland family clearly lived at the neck described above, while Blackwell's Neck is the easternmost neck on the Pamunkey River in today's Hanover County. It was probably named for James Blackwell who lived there prior to 1717 (Hening, op. cit., v. 8, pp. 641-43) and who served on the St. Paul's Vestry with Edward Garland.

30 Virginia Land Patents, Bk. 10, p. 182. Appendix A summarizes this and all other Garland land patents. In that appendix, a location is given which is based on plotting the bounds of the original patents on current USGS maps of the area. Also, a tract designation is assigned and is used hereafter in the text for convenience of reference.

33 Hanover was formed by an Act of 26 Nov. 1720; Edward Garland, Sr., may have lived long enough to see the new county created, although the fact that his will was recorded in New Kent would indicate otherwise. It is not known how soon after the new county was formed the court records were begun.

34 Chamberlayne, The Vestry Book of St. Paul's Parish, pp. 89, 94.

last days since he was excused from serving his full term as church warden "being very Ailding".[35] He made his will 14 March 1719[36] and, although it has not been located in its entirety, it is known that it names "his son Edward Garland, and the heirs of his body lawfully begotten" and his wife Jane.[37] It goes on to direct that the neck of land should pass to Edward, his son (hereafter called Edward, Jr.) after Jane Garland's lifetime, "and so from heir to heir as long as any should appear, but failing of such heirs, to the other brother in the manner before directed by the said will, as in the said will proved and recorded in the court of the said county of New Kent more fully is contained."[38] The indication here is that Edward Garland, Jr., had at least one brother and perhaps several;[39] "other brother" here could refer to the case in which land willed to a son would pass to a brother if the son died without heirs, and similarly to a third brother if the second brother died without heirs, etc.

Evidently, Edward Garland, Sr., was the only person of this surname in his generation living in New Kent County from 1700 to 1720. This is concluded from the lack of mention[40] of another Garland in this period in the St. Paul's Parish Vestry Book, a record which is

35 Ibid., p. 89.

36 Hening, op. cit., v. 6, p. 311

37 Numerous accounts say this was Jane Jennings. No proof of this has been located thus far. A fellow vestryman of Edward Garland, Sr., in St. Paul's Parish was one Robert Jennings, and the Vestry Book contains many Jennings entries, but nothing which would indicate the maiden name of Jane Garland.

38 Hening, op. cit., v. 6, p. 312.

39 The writer's earlier chapter on the Garland family in Reynolds and McGuire Ancestors (Raleigh, N.C., 1978), p. 35, contains an error of interpretation of the account in Hening, op. cit., v. 6, pp. 311-12. It states that David Garland was the brother of Edward Garland, Jr., when in fact David was the son of Edward, Jr. However, as the act reads, Edward, Jr., did have another brother or brothers, who are not named. Also, the act does not state that Edward, Jr., was the oldest brother, nor is that meant to be implied. He is mentioned because of action requested by his son, David.

40 The only exception in Chamberlayne, The Vestry Book of St. Paul's Parish, p. 72, where Robt. Garland is mentioned on the vestry 2 Jan. 1715/6. However, close inspection indicates (on p. 73 where vestry members at the virtually complete from 1706 to 1786 and which contains processioning records for 1708, 1711, 1715 and 1719, listing landowners in each precinct. This is significant because, along with other circumstantial evidence, it leads to the conclusion that Edward Garland, Sr., was the father of a number of Garlands who next appear in the parish records.

The destruction of most of Edward Garland's will along with nearly all the other eighteenth century civil records of New Kent County requires the use of other types of records to determine his children. Already in this narrative, the parish vestry book has been used to provide information on this family. That vestry book, as noted in its introduction, contains at least ten processioning records for the 1706-55 period. These processioning records provide another clue to Edward Garland, Sr.'s, descendants, in the following manner. In 1711[41] Edward Garland's land was in the same precinct as that of Maj. Nicholas Meriwether, James Nuckles, Mr. Carr's orphans, Mann Page, Maj. Curtis and the Glebe.[42] Apparently this precinct's boundaries remained unchanged for over eight years since the 1715 returns[43] show precisely the same people in this precinct, as does the 1719 return.[44] The only exception in the latter is "Peter Garland in room of Edwd. Garland"; as noted above, Edward Garland, Sr., was ill about this time and Peter Garland had to go with others in the precinct to procession the land. The key record, however, is the next same meeting signed the record) that an error was introduced at some point since the vestryman should be Robt. Jennings, who had served on the vestry since 1 Jan. 1710/11. No other mention of a Robert Garland occurs in the vestry book. As the vestry book's introduction states, the book was transcribed at least once (1754).

41 Chamberlayne, The Vestry Book of St. Paul's Parish, p. 221. There is a 1708 processioning record, and Edward Garland's neighbors at that time were Renold Allen and Matthew Anderson. The former is last mentioned 28 Feb. 1709/10 while the latter is mentioned after 1708 in another precinct. It is not certain whether Edward Garland lived in the same location or perhaps moved between 1708 and 1711.

42 Further proof of the location of Edward Garland's land; the Glebe was to the southwest of present day Hanover Court House. This is the "upper church" of the vestry book of which, in 1707, Edward Garland was church warden.

43 Chamberlayne, The Vestry Book of St. Paul's Parish, p. 233.

44 Ibid., p. 256.

processioning return, that for 1727;[45] although the precinct in 1727 contained additional people, it clearly contained the land mentioned above in the 1711-19 returns. Edward Garland, Sr., is no longer mentioned, having died in 1720 or 1721, and in his place are the names Edward Garland, Jr., Capt. Peter Garland, and John Garland. Again in 1731[46] in this precinct, Peter Garland and John Garland are mentioned,[47] Edward Garland, Jr., not appearing in the record for that year.

At this point it appears that on the death of Edward Garland, Sr., the land he owned was divided among his sons (as the portion of his will mentioned earlier would indicate) Edward Jr., Peter and John. This is concluded on the bases of (a) Edward Garland, Sr., being the only Garland in New Kent County old enough to be their father, (b) the processioning records, and (c) the surviving fragment of his will.

There was probably a fourth son, possibly the youngest, James who in 1727[48] obtained land (Tract F) adjoining his father's 1714 patent (Tract A). This land was, in 1726, part of newly-formed St. Martin's Parish. St. Paul's Parish records do not mention him and it is concluded that he lived in St. Martin's Parish (whose vestry book has not survived) or perhaps moved elsewhere.[49]

To summarize what has been learned of Edward Garland, Sr., the first of his line in New Kent County, he was probably born prior to 1680, died 1720-21, was married to Jane ---- who survived him, and had sons Peter, John, Edward Jr., and James. He was owner of large tracts of land in New Kent County, the one on which he lived being on Pamunkey River just northeast of Hanover Court House. He was a prominent citizen, serving as vestryman 1706-20 and twice as church warden.

47 Making a table of processioning records, with columns for each year processioning was performed, is a great help in tracking a person through time in the New Kent/Hanover area. Such changes as boundaries, parish formations, deaths and removals are indicated from such a chart.

48 Virginia Land Patents, Bk. 13, pp. 209-10.

49 It would appear unlikely that this James is the one who moved to Albemarle County by 1761 since the latter died about 1812 (Albemarle Co., Va., Will Book 5, p. 205); if he patented land in 1727, he likely was born sometime between 1701 and 1706 and would have been well over 100 at death.

JERDONE FAMILY.

From the Family Bible at "Stirling," Charles City county, Va.

"This Bible belongs to Francis Jerdone,[1] of Louisa county in Virginia, who was born in Jedburgh in the Shire of Tiviotdale in North Britain, the 30th of January, 1720–'21. Sarah Macon, his wife, was born in New Kent county in Virginia, the 21st of February, 1731–'32.

They were married on the 10th of February, 1753 (new style). Their issue was as follows:

Mary Jerdone was born in New Kent the 17th of January, 1754. Died 20th of April, 1837.

Francis Jerdone was born in Louisa county the 9th of February, 1756, and died ½ after 1 o'clock A. M. the 29th of April, 1841.

Sarah Jerdone was born in Louisa county the 12th of September, 1757; died 1 April, 1793, at Bristol, N. B.

Elizabeth Jerdone was born in Louisa county the 7th of April, 1759; died at York 3d of February, 1830. [She married Alexander MaCaulay, of Yorktown.]

Isabella Jerdone was born in Louisa county the 30th of September, 1761; died 8th of April, 1825.

Anne Jerdone was born in Louisa county the 3rd of April, 1763; died 2d of October, 1794.

John Jerdone was born in Louisa county the 19th of September, 1764; died 15th of January, 1786, at Jed'g, N. B.

Martha Jerdone was born in Louisa county the 10th of June, 1767, and died September 12, 1767.

[1] Francis Jerdone's will was proved in Louisa county, Sept. 9, 1771. Names sons Francis, John, William. John to have plantation in Spotsylvania, and Francis and John 1000 £. apiece. Names nephew William Douglas. To sons John and William he gives "all his estates in the lands in New Kent county, iron works, grist mill, and everything purchased by him and held in partnership with Mr. William Holt." But William Holt and William Douglas to have "the particular management of my New Kent county property, and to account unto my wife for the profits thereof;" James Kerr to take care of his Albemarle property.

Saran Jerdone's will was dated March 20, 1813. It names son Francis and five daughters: Mary, widow of George Pottie, deceased, and now widow of Adam Toler, deceased; Elizabeth, now widow of Alexander MaCaulay, deceased; Isabella, wife of Thomas Mitchell; Sarah, now deceased, who was wife of George Braikenridge, supposed to be resident with his children in England; and Anne, now deceased, wife of Charles Thompson. Grandson George Pottie, Elizabeth and Sarah, daughters of daughter Mary Toler, grandson John Thompson.

John Fort and Elizabeth Jordan

JOHN FORT, son of Elias Fort and Phillis Champion, married Elizabeth Jordan, daughter of Richard Jordan of Surry County, Va. He was born about 1665 in Isle of Wight County, Va., and married Elizabeth about 1685. At various times he held lands on Johnchecohunk Swamp in Surry (given in various deeds as Johnshehawkin and Jonchwocon), and on Blackwater and Seacock Swamps, waterways still identifiable in Surry. His wife Elizabeth was evidently dead by the time he made his will on Oct. 21, 1724; he presumably died in early 1725 since his will was recorded on March 10, 1725. He and Elizabeth had these children:

1) WILLIAM FORT, probably the oldest son, born (roughly) 1685-1690 and definitely of age by 1721. William migrated to North Carolina shortly after his father died. He was in Bertie Precinct of Albemarle County (present-day Northampton and Hertford counties) by 1730 and was probably living somewhere in the Occoneechee Neck area of present-day Northampton in that year. In 1737 he acquired 640 acres of land on Keehukee Swamp in Edgecombe County (present-day Halifax County) and seems to have lived there until his death. He is thought to have been a member of the Church of England. William Fort is believed to have married Alice Foreman (who, after William's death, married Thomas Pope). She is thought to have been the daughter of Benjamin Foreman, Sr. William died intestate in early 1746 in Edgecombe County. He and Alice had at least five children:
   a) JACOB FORT, who died while still a minor sometime prior to 1761.
   b) WILLIAM FORT, who also died under-age prior to 1761.
   c) WINEFRED FORT, a daughter who died under-age before 1761.
   d) A daughter (name unknown) who married Major Walker before 1761. ("Major" was the man's name, not a military title.)
   e) SARAH FORT, who married Robert Pope sometime prior to 1761. Their descent is not known.

2) JOHN FORT, born sometime prior to 1702 in Surry County, Va., migrated to North Carolina prior to his father's death; he was in Bertie Precinct by November, 1723. He married a girl named Mary prior to 1719. In the years 1723-1730 he seems to have lived on "Looking Glass Swamp" on the south side of what is now called the Roanoke River. This was in present-day Halifax County. He sold this land in 1730 and moved to Tyrell County where he was living in 1740 (probably in an area now a part of Martin County). In 1741 he was granted land in Craven County but evidently continued his residence in Tyrell until 1744. In 1744 he moved to Craven County where his brothers Thomas and Richard (and probably Elias) were in residence. He died testate in Craven, making his will Aug. 6, 1745; his death occurred not long before his will was lieved to have been the parents of John Phillips (Jr.) who married Lucy, sister of Thomas Davis (above). Further descent of this Phillips family is not available.

About the Family

Richard Jordan, father of Elizabeth Jordan Fort, made his will in Surry County, Virginia September 24, 1695. Among other bequests in his will—for which John Fort was an executor—was a hog for "my daughter Elizabeth Fort."

If this bequest sounds unusual to modern ears—it was common in those days—take note of the flavorsome will of Lt. Col. George Jordan, made in Surry May 6, 1678. The will mentions his niece Elizabeth Jordan but not a brother Richard. Whether his niece was the same as Elizabeth Jordan Fort or not, the will deserves to be quoted in part:

"(My) body to be buried by my wife & children in Major Browne's orchard . . . Tobacco in hand due to children of William Jordan, long since deceased, which children I could never ffind; learned they lived in Yorkshire, now to be sent them . . . On 15th day of every October a sermon of Mortality to be had at my house, the day my daughter Fortune Hunt died. If the day come on Sunday, Holy Communion to be given. Whoever shall enjoy the land, be it one thousand generations, who Possess the Land shall perform both Sermon and Prayer . . . (bequests to various people including) Christopher Foster (see Section I), Water Flood, River Jordan . . . God bless the colony where I have lived forty-three years."

The present owner of the good colonel's property may or may not be aware that his title is clouded unless he personally delivers the "Sermon and Prayer" each October 15!

William Fort of Edgecombe County donated one acre of land to Society Parish of Edgecombe in February, 1738, located next to the chapel on "the east side of William Bryant's millpond." Probably given for cemetery purposes, the land donation doesn't necessarily indicate William was an Anglican but creates the surmise.

There are at least two other cases in the early records of the family in which gifts of one acre of land were made to churches.

Many in this branch of the Fort family either pronounced the name as "Foort" or wrote it that way or both. The 1745 will of John Fort in Craven uses this spelling as does that of his brother Richard. Descendants of another brother, Elias, frequently used "Foort." While others in the same branch used the more conventional "Fort" or "Fourt", the appearance of "Foort" on a document gives an initial though not unfailing clue to a John Fort descendant.

Clerks who copied the Fort and other documents into the permanent records of counties tried to duplicate the "marks" made by the illiterate. In about half the cases these were "X's", but in many others the man involved had at least learned to block-print his initials. These are frequently askew and have the painfully careful look of little children's printing. Very often "marks" were made next to the man's own seal; these are not reproduced vious marriage to Strother. Jesse's will mentions no sons. Perrin's book on Trigg and Christian counties shows Nathan's death, but the authors did not obtain a copy of his will or administration.

Jesse Pope and Mary Fort

MARY FORT, daughter of Elias of Halifax, married Jesse Pope of Halifax County, N.C. They subsequently moved to Georgia, presumably living first in Jones County, then in Hancock. Jesse and Mary, according to Jesse's will, had these children:

1) JESSE McKINNEY POPE, born about 1765 in Halifax County, died about 1824 in Jones County, Ga. About 1790 he married Sallie Trippe of Jones County. Descent is not known.
2) CULLEN POPE, born about 1767, was living in Jones County in 1805. He married Mary (or Matilda) Trippe, settled for a time in Macon, then moved on to Tallapoosa County, Ala. He and Mary had these children:
   a) CULLEN JACKSON POPE, born 1814, died at Eufala, Ala. in 1874. He married Jane Rebecca Clayton. Cullen became a medical doctor. (See Chart 2-36)
   b) CADESMAN POPE—nothing further known.
   c) COLUMBUS POPE—nothing further known.
   d) ELIZA COLLIER POPE—nothing further known.
   e) JANE POPE—nothing further known.
   f) LOU LOVE POPE—nothing further known.
   g) WALTER POPE—nothing further known.
3) HENRY POPE was, with Jesse, a pioneer settler in Jones County, His descent is not known.
4) SAMUEL POPE—nothing further known.
5) JOHN POPE—nothing further known.
6) ALLEN POPE—nothing further known.
7) MARY POPE married a Mr. Denton prior to her father's death.
8) ANNA POPE married a Mr. Long prior to her father's death.
9) SARAH POPE married a Mr. Trippe prior to her father's death.

About the Family

The Pope and Fort families not only intermarried in Halifax County but also had other warm associations. Thomas Pope was active in the Kehukee Baptist Association to which Elias of Edgecombe (Section 4) and other of the Forts belonged. Solomon and Jacob Pope were neighbors of Arthur and Drury Fort in Edgefield District, South Carolina. The rather sketchy information on the Popes in this volume hardly does justice to so long a friendship.

Dr. Cullen Jackson Pope served as acting mayor of Eufala during Federal occupation of the area following the Civil War. According to Mattie Thompson's "History of Barbour County, Alabama", he had the difficult task of somehow easing the occupation burdens while maintaining his position with the citizenry. He managed to persuade the troops' commanders to garrison themselves across the Chattahoochie rather than on the Alabama side. He and Mrs. Pope then entertained General Grierson and his staff at their home, offered other courtesies, and managed thus to save destruction of the antebellum homes in Eufala. However, the history says, Mrs. Pope "drove home (to the officers) some pointed facts relative to heart-breaking conditions brought about in the South by the War Between the States."

Dr. Pope's home on Broad Street has been marked by the local UDC chapter as the site of a color-presentation ceremony at the start of the war. Ella Pope presented the flag to General Alpheus Baker, commander of the First Volunteer Company, Eufala Rifles.

Authors' Notes

Acknowledgments. Col. Edward Macon Edmonson (U. S. Army, Retired) of Gainsville, Florida, kindly provided the authors with information on Dr. Pope and his descendants, of which Col. Edmonson is one. Other bits of information came from John Riley Malone of Homer, Louisiana, who in 1967 had a book under preparation on the Pope, Puryear, Barrow and other families. The authors thank them both.

Appleton W. Rossetter and Sarah Fort

SARAH FORT, daughter of Arthur Fort (II) and Susannah Tomlinson Whitehead, married Appleton Walcott Rossetter in Georgia. The Rossetters are known to have had these children:

1) ARTHUR ROSSETTER, born 1817 and died 1891, married Elizabeth Wadsworth in 1838. She was born 1822 and died 1898. They are known to have had at least one child: Mary Rossetter (1840-1900) who in 1860 married James Lawrence Wyche (1828-1868). The Wyches are known to have had Margaret Bryan Wyche, born in Madison County, Fla., who married Robert L. Groover.
2) SOPHIA ROSSETTER became the second wife of Charles Collins, a widower. They are known to have had Oscar Clayton Collins who married Mary Boon. Oscar and Mary are known to have had Sophia Collins, born at Macon, Ga., who married James Lewis Willis.

Captain that she would as soon marry Mr. Pooley as any one else; but would not marry so soon. As Mr. Brown (First Republic, 563) says, "This was all that a man in his mind ought to have asked;" but Pooley was impatient and went to see her himself. He reported to Captain Madison that Mrs. Jordan had contracted herself to him and desired Madison to go with him and be a witness to it. Madison did go and when Mr. Pooley desired a dram, Mrs. Jordan desired her servant to fetch it; but Pooley said he would have it of her fetching or not at all. Then she went into a room, Madison and Pooley followed her; and when Mr. Pooley was come to her he told her he should contract himself unto her—and spoke these words—"I Grivell Pooley take thee Sysley, to my wedded wife, to have & to hold till death us do part, and thereto I plight thee my troth." Then (holding her by the hand) he spoke these words, "I, Sysley take thee Grivell to my wedded husband, to have and to hold 'till death do us part." But Madison says he did not hear her say these words nor Pooley ask her if she would consent to them. Then Mr. Pooley and Mrs. Jordan drank to each other and he kissed her and said "I am thine and thou art mine 'till death us separate." Mrs. Jordan desired that it might not be known that she had bestowed her love so soon after her husband's death; but, though Pooley promised, he was too elated to keep the secret. Mrs. Jordan resented this, saying "He would have fared better if he had talked less," and immediately engaged herself to marry William Ferrar, another suitor. Mr. Pooley then brought the matter before the Governor and council and on June 14, sued her for breach of promise. The case was continied to Nov. 27, when, an account of the difficulty of deciding the question of contract the matter was referred to the Company in England with a request that the opinion of civil lawyers be obtained. The Governor and Council also issued a proclamation against women engaging themselves to "two several men at one time." The text of this proclamation is given in Brown's First Republic pp. 564, 565. The context would imply that it was issued in November; but an entry printed in this Magazine, XIX, 231, shows that it was on June 22d.

Before any opinoin could be obtained from England Mr. Pooley lost his case, not being able to prove his charges against William Ferrar, and soon made a formal renunciation of any claim he might have to Cicely Jordan. It is presumed that she married William Ferrar, or Farrar (who was long a member of the Council) as he had a granddaughter named Cicely.

JORDAN

BLWt. 11156-160-55) moved from Elbert to Madison County, where he was enumerated in 1820, and in 1827 he drew Lee County land granted Dec. 21, 1831. Robert G. was enumerated 1820 in Jasper County.

200. HURLEY: Polly was living on Mulberry Fork in 1807.

201. HURT: William was in Jackson County as early as April 10, 1801, when he witnessed a deed for Presley Scurlock to Aaron Woodward. William also was listed in the 1805 Jackson lottery. A man of that name was enumerated in 1820 in Hancock County; the family also was found that year in Oglethorpe, Warren and Putnam Counties, was earlier in Wilkes County.

202. HYDE: Robert was sheriff of Jackson County 1804-1805 and was listed in the 1805 lottery there. David was enumerated 1820 in Hall County and the family also is found in Jones County at this period.

203. ISELEY: Philip and others of the family were enumerated 1790 in Guilford County, N.C. A Revolutionary soldier (N.C., Mary, W 26149, BLWT. 84011-160-55), Philip Izely in Gwinnett County in 1827 drew Carroll County land which reverted. He was shown in the 1840 Gwinnett Cnesus, aged 91. John Iselly was enumerated 1790 in Newberry District, S.C. A somewhat similar name, Isler, is found in North Carolina, and in 1820, John Isler was enumerated in Madison County, Ga.; John and Nathan Isler in Wilkinson County, and Marah Ishley in Burke County.

204. JAMES: Abner obtained Jackson headright land in 1803; he and Joseph were in the Jackson lottery in 1805. The name Abner is found in Wilkes County in 1793 (also see pension papers of Abner, N.C., S7065). Charles, Joseph, Josiah, Stephen and William James were enumerated 1820 in Walton County; others of the family that year were in Elbert, Hall, Jasper, Oglethorpe and other counties. Some if not all of those in Georgia appear to have moved from the Orange and Caswell Counties, N.C., area by way of Greenville and Pendleton Districts, S.C.

205. JELTON: Joel was in the 1805 Jackson County lottery. None of the name is found in the 1820 Georgia census. Joel probably was of the North Carolina family found in Mecklenburg and Burke Counties in 1790 (rendered as Jetton). The family was in Florida in 1830 and in Walker County, Ala., by 1836 when Ephraim entered land. Ephraim was born in North Carolina in 1796 and his son Joseph Sylvester Jelton, who served in the Confederate Army, was born in Gadsden County, Fla., in 1830.

206. JOINER: John was in the 1805 Jackson lottery. In 1820, several members of the family were in Washington County, and others variously over the state.

207. JORDAN: Charles Jourdan was taxed on the Mulberry Fork (Burge's district) in 1801, Radford was in the 1805 lottery list in Jackson County and in 1807, Samuel was in Cochran's district on Mulberry in 1807. Elizabeth in this period married Stephen Key. A Charles Jordan was in Wilkes County as early as 1785. James Jordan was in Hamilton's District, Gwinnett County, in 1819 and in the 1820 census Samuel and Charles, each aged 26-45, and James, aged 16-25, were enumerated. In Jasper County, Ga., 1820, Fleming, Henry (2) and Benjamin were enumerated. (George R. Gilmer's Georgians, pps. 78, 90, 113, tells something of this family, mentioning among others Col. Fleming Jordan of Jasper, who married Ann, daughter of Tom Meriwether.) Perhaps a link to the family in Gwinnett County, James Jordan and James Hamilton were joint securities for Ann, widow of John Twitty and their son, William, in the administration of the elder Twitty's estate in Pendleton District, S.C., May 9, 1791 (Court Minutes 1790-1793, p. 7). The family mentioned by Gilmer had Henrico, Albermarle and Louisa Counties, Va., antecedents and in Wilkes and Oglethorpe Counties, Ga., were allied with the Harvies from Albemarle County, and the Hills from North Carolina. Among others enumerated in 1820 in Georgia, were Redin Jordin of Madison County; John C. Jordon of Walton County; James Jordon of Hall County; Archibald and Asa Jordon of Habersham County; James, Jarret and Josiah Jordan, and Edmond and Reubin Jordon of Oglethorpe County, in addition to many others over the state. Tempy Jordan was married to Henry Wade in Franklin County, Ga., Aug. 17, 1815.

208. JOYCE: Alexander, Binns, Clinton and James were in the 1805 Jackson lottery. In 1820, William was enumerated in Washington County, and others of the family were in Montgomery and Tattnall Counties. The name Alexander Joyce is found in Henry County, Va., in 1779 when he was paid from the estate of James Hicks, for whose children he was guardian in 1783-1787. Accounts in Henry County (Will Book 1, p.221) show payments to the orphans sworn to May 9, 1790, in Wilkes County, Ga., although Alexander is not found in the Wilkes records at that time. The family also was seated across the line from Henry County in Stokes and Rockingham Counties, N.C., in the 1790s, and Alexander being enumerated in Stokes County in 1790, along with George and Isaac. The Rockingham County, N.C., will (March 19, 1798/May, 1798) of Jenny Joyce speaks of her brother Alexander Joyce, her father James, as well as sisters Polly Joyce, Sarah Roberts, and brothers John and James Joyce. John, Alex., and Robert Joyce witnessed the will. Although Alexander of Henry County was the only one found in the Virginia tax lists c1782, the family had been in Southside Virginia from the 17th century. Clinton Joyce married Polly Cureton in Jackson County. (See pension papers of George, N.C., Va., S 30511).

209. KEIGLE: (usually Cagle): Roger Keigle of Jackson County bought June 11, 1799 of Micajah Benge and William Hopkins, a tract in Jackson. In 1790, Roger Cagle was enumerated in Moore County, N.C., along with Christian, David, Henry, Leonard, George (2), Jacob, John and William, and others were in Mecklenburg County, N.C. Charles Cagle was in the 1805 Jackson County Lottery. In 1820, George Cagle was enumerated in Clarke County; Henry in Jones County; and in Habersham County were George, Honor, Jacob, John and William. Leonard Keegle was in Henry County, Ga., in 1827.

210. KEITH: George was in the 1805 Jackson County lottery. On Sept. 3, 1801, George had bought of the heirs of Joseph Nail 287 1/2 acres on the Oconee River in Jackson County, and the following year he sold a small tract to Patrick Shields. The family is found in Jasper and Columbia Counties, Ga., in 1820. George of Jackson was perhaps of the family of Cornelius Keith of Pendleton District, S.C., who was born 1743, died June 13, 1820 in Pickens County, S.C. Cornelius moved to Pendleton about 1792 from Surry County, N.C. (See Stewart, 1800 Pendleton Census, p.11 et seq).

211. KELOUGH: In 1782 Southampton County, Va., were Samuel, William and Col. Richard Kelough (will of Richard Kello, 1789); in 1790, Jacob Kelloe was in Burke County, N.C., and Samuel Kelugh in Mecklenburg County, N.C.; Robert Kellough was in York District, S.C. (See pension papers of Samuel Killogh or Killough, N.C., Penn., S 7114; Samuel Killough, Ga., S.C., S 4475; William Kellow, Md., BLWt 1934-100). Ebenezer Keelough was dead in Wilkes County, Ga., by June 10, 1784 when John Keelough was appointed administrator. John Kellough was taxed in Wilkes County in 1785, his nearest neighbor being one James Hill, and Allen Kelough lived next to Abraham Hill in Capt. Autrey's district in Wilkes (now Oglethorpe) County (See Hill family #757, Part 1). In Oglethorpe County in 1795, David was on a jury, and Allen was surety for John Kelough in a suit brought by Francis Gordon. The will of Isaac Kelough (Oglethorpe County, Book A, p.15, part of which is missing, June 20, 1795/ Nov. 15, 1795) named.... Isaac, James, Jane, Mary, David Kelough (also Killough); wife and son Allen and John Walker (Wallace?) were named executors. On Nov. 2, 1795, letters testamentary were granted Mary (evidently his widow), Allen and John Wallace (Walker?). Allen was enumerated in Oglethorpe in 1820 (Kellgore in one publication--the name probably is confused at times with Kilgore in some old records).

and constitute an attraction in themselves.

Benjamin Lane and wife did not live long to enjoy the new home. He died Dec. 20, 1860, at the age of 63, and she died a few months later, in 1861. Both were buried in the family burying-ground on the home-place where the son Alexander had been buried. The other deceased son, Abraham S. Lane, was buried at old Forest Grove Cemetery.

Mr. Lane left a will dated Dec. 18, 1859, probated Dec. 24, 1860, naming his sons-in-law, Mesrs Smith, Tillman and Coachman as executors, but only Mr. Smith qualified and he administered the estate alone. A certified copy of the will had been obtained by the family and in this way the record was not completely lost when the Ordinary's records in Valdosta were burned about 1872-3. The certified copy was recorded on the present records. The will mentions the 1400 acres that comprised the plantation lands with the home-place thereon, consisting of land lots Nos. 117, 114, 71, 16th district Lowndes County; also Lot 116, 16th district, and Lots 113, 115, 116, 117,118 and part of Lot 112, all in the 15th District of Lowndes County, which seemed to be wild lands at the time; making a total of nearly 5000 acres owned by Mr. Lane at his death.

Mr. Lane served as Justice of Peace of the 49th District, Emanuel County, 1832-33. He served as Justice of the Inferior Court of Lowndes County, 1844-47.

LANE, Thomas 1824-1896 WARE

THOMAS LANE was born in 1824 in Tattnall County, a son of Abraham Lane and grandson of Abraham S. Lane, R.S. of that county.. About 1835 he moved with his parents to Ware County, where they settled in the present Manor District, on Suwannee Creek. Thomas Lane was married in Ware County in 1847 to Miss Hannah Thomas, born 1830 in Ware County, a daughter of James J. Thomas of the same district (Manor). To them were born:

1. Mary	b. 1849, m. John Craven. Died, age 83.
2. Hulda	b. 1851, m. Joseph Jordan. No issue.
3. Thomas	b. 1853, died in boyhood.
4. Dorcas	b. 1854, m. John Jordan, bro. to Jos.
5. Bryant	b. 1855, m. Lydia Walker, Aug. 25, 1881.
6. Sarah	b. 1857, died in girlhood.
7. James	b. 1859, m. Eminiza Griffin, dau. of Wm. B.
8. Nancy	b. 1863, m. James Hendrix of Ware Co.
9. Rebecca	b. 1865, m. Seaborn Douglas of Ware Co.
10. Elizabeth	b. 1866, m. John Griffin, son of W. B., Aug. 17, 1882.

11. Margaret	b. 1869, m. B. F. Evans, Jan. 29, 1885.
12. Edward	b. 1871, m. Mary Walker.

Thomas Lane and his wife were members of Providence Primitive Baptist Church for forty years prior to his death Jan. 14, 1896. Mrs. Lane died at the age of 81 years, in 1902, and was buried by her husband at Providence Church.

Joseph, Daniel and Abraham Lane who lived in Ware and Clinch counties, were brothers of Thomas Lane. They had one sister who was never married. Their mother was a widow lady, a Mrs. Hornsby, who married Abraham Lane about 1810. She had a son, Albert Hornsby, who died in the present Argyle District of Clinch County.

LASTINGER, John 1740?-1803 EFFINGHAM-BULLOCH

JOHN LASTINGER, a Revolutionary soldier, was a German emigrant and was born about 1740 in Germany. He came to this country about 1761 and landed at Charleston, S. C. Afterwards, he came to Georgia and the first mention of him here was in Colonial records in December, 1765, when he applied for a grant of 100 acres in what was then St. Phillips Parish (territory now in Effingham and Chatham counties). He was married in St. Phillips Parish to Anna Barbara, but her maiden name has not been ascertained as yet. She was a native of Holland and was one of the Salzburger emigrants. John Lastinger was of the same faith. To John and Anna Barbara were born:

1. Hannah	b. 1768, m. John Groover, R.S.
2. Sarah	b. 1770, m. Wm. Parker.
3. David	b. 1772, m. Mary Diana ———.
4. Abner	b. 1774, m. Ann Beasley. Four children.
5. George	b. 1775, m. Lessie Sapp.
6. Tobitha	b. 1776, m. ——— Bullard.
7. Andrew (twin)	b. 1778 m. Mary Parker.
8. Elizabeth (twin)	b. 1778, m. ——— Miller.
9. Mary	b. 1780, m. ——— Weaver.
10. Barbara	b. 1782, m. James English. Moved to Lowndes Co.
11. Millie	b. 1784, m. William Driggers.

In his petition for the land above referred to, John Lastinger says he had "lately come into the province and had no land." His petition was granted July 1, 1766. In December, 1768, he filed another application for land and said he had been in the province three years and had a wife and one child. He asked for additional land on Black Creek. It was granted July, 1769. He afterwards acquired other lands by purchase, also granted 200 acres more on Dec. 6, 1790 and 250 acres on Jan. 17, 1797. Record is found of deeds of gift in Bulloch County from him to his son, David, dated

Dear Mrs. Jordan:

I pronounce the name JORDAN as it is spelled but mine is the first generation to do so. My father always said JOURDAN.

Am terribly sorry, but I do not have any of the names you mentioned and have not heard of any on my family in Pike County, Ga. at any time.

Just as a shot in the dark though, there was a Benjamin Jordan III that may have been the one you mentioned and he fits into the record this way:

Benjanin Jordan born 18 July 1674, died Dec. 1714 in Virginia, the son of Thomas Jordan and Margaret Brashere of Nansemond County, married Sarah Robinson and had issue Benj. Jr. who married Lydia Pleasants in 1741 and died 25 Feb. 1778. Ben Jr had sisters Margaret and Sarah and a brother, Thomas.

Ben Jr. and Lydia Pleasants of Henrico County, Va. had issue, Robert, Benjamin III and Thomas Pleasants Jordan. Don't have dates on any of them but Ben Jr. died in 1778. This may be worth checking into and if it can be established that these two Benjanins are the same and that he was the father of your John, then your line would descend from Samuel Jourdan, Ancient Planter of Jamestown Va. c. 1610.

Am afraid that this is not much help with all the missing dates but if you can tie into that line it will put you back to Wiltshire England c. 1575.

With best wishes

John

Dear Mr. Jordan:

Do you pronouce your last name..Jourdan???as my husband does??

Dr. Arthur Allee has given me your address and insists that I write in hopes that you might have something on 'my' Jordan line.

Joshua does not run in the family, so you see I'm just hoping that in your miscellaneous Jordan file, you might have some tidbits on this line:

John Thomas Jordan b 1861 Pike Co.,GA m 1884 to Nancy Lee Hooten.
John Pope Jordan (father of John Thomas) b 1836 Pike Co.,GA m 1855 Nancy Matilda Barker. He died in Richmond, VA.
John T.(never found it written out as Thomas) b 1806 GA m1828 to Mary J. Holmes, dau/James C.

If you have been contacted in past years by Mildred Watkins or N.O.Thomas then nothing new has been added. Until her death, just last month I believe, Mildred, hired by N.O.Thomas has tried her best for many years to clear up our Jordan line.

We find our John Jourdan in Pike Co.,GA in 1850 with a Benjamin, 74 yrs no place of birth. We believe, of course, that this is the father, but absolutely no proof seems to be found to prove this.

Do you have anything on this line? It would be just wonderful if you do! We all feel that somewhere, in private papers, there is a journal, or letters or some evidence that Benjamin is John T.'s father and a little more about him and where they came from. All 'family stories' say the Carolinas.

I enclose a SASE for your convenience.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Allee:

Thank you so very much for the Wm. P. Johnson material you sent. It strengthens my case again since it states that Joshua Jordan, born in Va. c 1706 had a son named Joshua also. My Joshua in N. C. named a son Joshua in his will (rather one was named in the estate settlement).

I am more convinced than ever that this is my correct line. I do not plan to publish a book, of course, but I do want to put my papers in an orderly written form and place them in a couple of libraries.

Have had some good fortune tracing other lines on the family along with my wife's family and it may help someone in the future.

I am deeply in your debt for all this help.

Sincerely

John

Ganttrees

Newsletter of the Gant(t) Families of America

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

This issue of Ganttrees marks the end of two years of the publication of genealogical information on the several Gant families in America with emphasis on the ancestry of John[1] Gant who settled in an area in the north central part of North Carolina (which now lies in Franklin County) in or before the year of 1739.

The goal of Ganttrees continues to be the publication of information researched by and sent to the editors in order to expand and correct that contained in the book John Gant ca 1713-1783 of Virginia and North Carolina; His Life, Ancestry and Descendants with Information on Other Early Gant Families in America and Europe.

While little has been added to the ancestry of John[1] Gant or the other Gants of early America, other than to bolster the probability that the father of John[1] Gant was John Gent of Isle of Wight Co., VA, much has been collected on his descendants and those of the others in early America of the surname of Gant or its several variations. The most important goal of the editors is to identify the surname ancestor of John[1] Gant who first set his foot upon the soil of North America. With this information, perhaps we can discover his origins and then proceed back in time.

So long as we continue to find and receive information from others on the other early Gant families in America, we will continue to publish it in Ganttrees. So far, we have been quite successful in this part of our research and have several subscribers who are descendants of these families.

These families include, but are not limited to, those founded by Peter Gaunt who settled in MA c1637; Thomas Gaunt who settled in MD c1654; John Gaunt of Berryville, Frederick Co., VA; Joseph Gant of King & Queen and Essex counties of VA and the Gaunt/Gant /Gent families of the Northern Neck of VA.

We must point out to our readers that what we publish here may not be fact and we may not always so advise you in the text. Fact may not always be available when we deal with records made several centuries ago. These records were often written by or transcribed by persons not properly trained to record them or concerned about their accuracy.

As we all know, non-factual information tends to become "fact" when it appears in print over time. We hope you will keep this in mind when reading this publication. As in the case of the International Genealogical Index and other information available at the Family History Centers of The Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints, we publish information sent to us by others which is often not backed up by a proper source and not verified by us.

We, as they do, publish such information so that our readers may evaluate it and accept it if it seems to fit in with information they might already have. As in putting together a jigsaw puzzle; if the part fits, put it in place but if it doesn't, set it aside as it might fit elsewhere.

Also keep in mind that, if the gathering of genealogical information was reduced to only that which has been proven to be fact beyond some doubt, there would be little of such information gathered and little gained in tracing our ancestry. This is true because, as indicated above, many of the underlying records are either not factual or they do not fit into your family lines.

Included in this issue is a subscription form for 1996. We urge each of you to continue your subscription to Ganttrees so that we may continue to add to and correct information about our family lines.

We thank you for your support in the past and may 1996 be a happy year for all of you.

Cliff Gant — Ben Gantt

FAMOUS GANT(T)S

It is with great pleasure that we feature a famous Gant who was not only a descendant of John[1] Gant but a subscriber as well. He was recruited by his cousin, Roger[7] Gant, Jr. of Burlington, NC, a subscriber and contributor to this publication.

In the 14th issue of Who's Who in the West and the 4th issue of Who's Who in American Politics, Joseph Erwin Gant, Jr. was described as a chemist and State Senator of New Mexico. In our book [page 119], his line is John[2], Isham[3], Jesse[4], John Quintin Anderson[5], Joseph Erwin, Sr.[6], Joseph Erwin[7] Gant, Jr. The following is taken from the above sources and from information in articles from newspapers in Carlsbad, NM and Burlington, NC sent to us by Roger[7] and a book written by another cousin, Margaret Elizabeth[7] Gant, entitled The Raven's Story which was published in 1979.

Joseph Erwin[7] Gant, Jr. was born 4 Feb 1912 at Altamahaw, Alamance Co., NC to Joseph Erwin, Sr.[6] and Mary Gilmer Banner Gant. He received his B.S. degree in chemistry at the University of North Carolina in 1934, moved to Carlsbad, NM where he became a chemist for the U.S. Potash Corporation. He married first, Opal Rowvia Martin on 11 Feb 1938 with who he had Joseph Erwin[8] Gant, III and Mary Martin[8] Gant and, secondly, he married Margaret (Minter) Doss in 1985.

Joseph Erwin[7] Gant was elected to the New Mexico State Senate in 1969 where he served for 16 years and was credited with bringing the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant to Carlsbad (described as one possible solution to the nation's critical nuclear waste storage problems). He was a former mayor of Carlsbad and, in 1954, became a member of the Board of Directors of Glen Raven Mills at Glen Raven, NC (a family textile business began by John Q.[5] Gant in 1900) on which he served until his death on 18 July 1994.

On a personal note (Cliff Gant): when Senator Gant received a copy of my book, he wrote me a note of thanks saying "you have done us all a great work". That was a gracious thing to say and now I see that it was a common thing for him to do. We are proud to honor him in this publication.

Another famous Gantt ; many people have heard of a Gantt Chart which is still used today to separate a project into its various tasks and determine how long and when each task should becompleted in order to complete the project in an efficient and timely manner. The Gantt Chart made possible the development of Henry Ford's assembly line method of producing automobiles and is the forerunner of today's much more sophisticated, computer-based planning systems.

Few people, however, know that the man who developed the chart was Henry Lawrence Gantt, a descendant of the Maryland Gantts [book, pages 315/17]. Henry Lawrence[8] Gantt's line, according to Colonial Families of the United States was Thomas[1], Edward[2], Thomas[3], Capt. Edward[4], Rev. Edward[5], Dr. Thomas Compton[6], Virgil[7]. He was born 20 May 1861 in Calvert Co., MD, married Mary E. Snow on 29 Nov 1893 and died in 1919.

Now that we have honored a descendant of John[1] Gant and Thomas Gantt, we now present a famous Gantt who was a descendant of Peter Gaunt. He was Daniel Gantt, 1814-1878, also a judge. In our book, his line is Peter[1], Hannaniah[2], Hannaniah, II[3], Joseph[4], Joseph, II[5], Daniel[6] Gantt.

In Vol. 13, NatCAB, the statement is made that "for personal reasons, he changed the spelling of his name from Gaunt to Gantt". He was born in Perry Co., PA and became a lawyer and judge while residing in Nebraska City, NE. On page 53 of The National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections, MS 76-442, we are advised that his personal journal for the years of 1830-1878 is in the Manuscript Division of State Archives, Nebraska State Historical Society at Lincoln, NE.

We welcome write ups of Famous or Infamous Gants from our subscribers or others. Please send them to Cliff Gant and give your source(s) of information. While we prefer write ups on descendants of John[1] Gant, we are also interested in those of the other families we research. As in the case of any material sent us, we won't guarantee we will publish it and also reserve the right to edit it.

A good source for famous Gant(t)s and Gaunts is in the volumes of the various Who's Who of America which can be found in many public libraries in America. Most such libraries also have indices to these and other similar publications. Two such are the Biographical Dictionaries Master Index and Historical Bibliographical Dictionaries Master Index. Who knows; one of these famous or infamous Gants might be an unknown ancestor.

Chapter Two, John[1] Gant, c1713-1783, His Ancestry

Was John Gent of Isle of Wight Co., VA or his father born on the island of Barbados? The following information sent to us by Tommie Uselton of Marshall, TX, might indicate that possibility.

The island of Barbados in the West Indies brings to mind a romantic tropical paradise with a warm climate and tall palm trees swaying in a gentle breeze. But does it bring to mind the possibility that this was the first home in North America of the "immigrant" ancestor of John[1] Gant?

My Encyclopedia Britannica informs me that the climate of Barbados is generally pleasant as it rarely rises above 86 degrees F. or below 72 degrees F.; however, it gets wet with an average rainfall of 60 inches and can get very windy as it lies along the southern border of the Caribbean hurricane zone. The island is only 21 miles long and 15 miles wide with its highest point, Mt. Hillaby, at 1,115 feet.

The first settlers of Barbados were thought to be Arawak Indians and the first Europeans were the Spanish Conquistadores seeking slaves for their settlement at Hispaniola in the early 1500s; however, by the mid 1500s, no Indians remained and the Spanish claims to the territory had elapsed.

While there were landings by the English early in the 1600s, it wasn't until 1627 that a party of settlers, under the leadership of Henry Powell, began the occupation and control of this island by England under James I. During the early 1640s, the population consisted of 2,500 whites and 1,000 blacks. Among these whites was Robert Gent and his sons, Marvin and Robert, Jr.

From the thoroughness and alertness of research by Tommie Uselton, one of our more productive Research Contributors, we have learned that, at least as early as 1650, Ensign Robert Gent was in Barbados because he was mentioned as a friend of William Greene in Greene's will dated in that year. This is from Barbados Records, Wills and Administrations, Vol. 1, 1639-1680 by Sanders.

Same source indicates that Lt. Robert Gent was the executor of the will of Phillip Costello (Cotellon) dated 12 May 1654. In the will of Gideon Golding (Goldring) of St.Lucy's Parish dated 20 Mar 1677, Capt. Robert Gent was mentioned as his friend.

In Vol. II, 1681-1700, of the same work, Marvin Gent was a shown as a witness to the will of John Coburne of St. Lucy's Parish dated 2 Oct 1682. In the will of Phillip Reade of St.Lucy's Parish dated 28 Aug 1682, witnesses included Robert Gent, Lt. Robert Gent, Jr. and Marvin Gent. Robert Gent and Martin (Marvin?) Gent were witnesses of the will of Robert Turneham, Sr. of St. George's Parish dated 9 May 1683. The executors of the will of Samuel Jordan, Jr., dated 8 Jun 1700, included his son, Gent Jordan and Marvin Gent.

In Vol. III of the same work, the will of Marvin Gent dated 26 Aug 1717 mentioned Alice Homeyard; Gent Jordan; the children of Edward and Alice Archer; Robert and Benjamin How; grand daughter, Eliza Gent, wife, Margaret and son, Thomas Gent, with Samuel Bowen and John Curll as witnesses. William Jordan, in his will dated 17 Sep 1717, named Marvin Gent as his son-in-law.

Surnames of other persons mentioned in the above transcripts by Sanders (which may be of significance as such names appeared later in VA with Gent surnames) were Symonds, Holland, Hunt , Daniell and Lovell (1655); Seawell (1670); Butler (1657); Blades (1660); Corbin (1667); Davis (Davies) (1682); Turner and Strode (1686); Barnes (1716); Barrow (1703); Jones (Peter, 1717).

In Barbados Records of Marriages in St John Parish, 1643-1800, Vol. I by Sanders, we note a James Gant married Mary Pierce on 20 Oct 1667. It may also be significant that Capt. Philip Kirton married Mary Applewhaite there on 16 Mar 1668.

It is apparent from a review of the above transcripts that the Gents and Jordans were very close in Barbados in the mid-1600s. It may also be significant that there was no record of a will, estate administration or other record for Robert Gent, Sr., Robert Gent, Jr. or Thomas Gent, the son of Marvin (Martin) Gent because of the fact that the names of Thomas and Robert Gent appeared in Virginia in the 1690s, some 10 years after the latest record for Robert Gent in Barbados.

We know that John Washington (the father of Richard Washington who sold John Gent 300 acres of land in Isle of Wight Co., VA in 1717), was in Barbados before migrating to Surry Co., VA and that other Washingtons lived there in the early 1700s. The earliest appearance of John Washington in Surry County records was in 1658 when he entered a contract of marriage with the widow, Mary Blunt Ford. Also, that Richard Washington married Elizabeth Jordan, daughter of Arthur Jordan of Isle of Wight Co., VA.

From articles about John Washington of Surry Co., VA in the numerous volumes of the Genealogies of Virginia Families by Tyler, we learned that John Washington, the son of Sir John Washington of England, was in Barbados in 1654 for that was the year when Theodore Pargiter, brother of Dorothy Pargiter who married Sir John Washington, wrote that "cozen John Washington" was in Barbados. There is good evidence that this John Washington was the John Washington of Surry County.

From another article in the above source, a Richard Washington of St Michael's Parish in Barbados left a will dated 21 Apr 1734 naming his wife, Elizabeth. Her maiden name was Rumbold and in her will dated 4 Mar 1744, she named her children as Richard, Mary, Eliza, George, John and Eleanor. Their son, Robert, had died in 1736 at age 10. These given names appear to tie the Washingtons of Barbados into the Washington families of Virginia.

Why all of this discussion about the Gents, Jordans and Washingtons of Barbados? Because the possibility is pretty good that these families migrated from Barbados to Virginia sometime during the 1600s. Did Robert Gent, Sr. or Robert Gent, Jr. or a son of one of them (or all of them) migrate with John Washington to Surry County? Was the Robert Gent of Henrico Co., VA (Mr. Richard Kennon was surety for his estate) related to Robert Gent of Barbados? Was Robert Gent, Sr. of Barbados the "immigrant" ancestor of Thomas Gent of Charles City Co., VA who died there in 1689 and of William Gent of Henrico/Prince George/Brunswick and John Gent and Richard Gent of Isle of Wight? Possibility is pretty good!

Chapter Three, William^{2} Gant, c1732-1809

Page 68. (4) Francis Marion^{5} Gant; we believe his daughter (a) Harriett Susan^{6}, born 1 Jun 1850 was the Harriet L.^{6}, born 1 Jun 1850 we attributed to his brother, Evan Samuel^{5} Gant (see correction, below).

(8) Evan Samuel^{5}, born 11 May 1837. Page 6, Vol. 2, No. 1 of Ganttrees incorrectly reported that Evan^{5} married a first wife and had (a) Harriet L.^{6}, born 1 Jun 1850 whom, we now believe, was a daughter of his brother Francis Marion^{5} (see correction above) and (b) Nancy Ellen^{6}, born 16 Dec 1865, whom we now believe, was Nancy Ellen^{6}, born 15 Dec 1865, the daughter of his third cousin, Elihue^{5} (book page 152 and added to by Ganttrees Vol. 1, No. 5, page 9). We owe these corrections and our thanks to Wanda Gantt of New London, NC, one of our Research Contributors.

Also correct the dates of death of the daughters of Evan Samuel^{5} of (c) [now (a)] Mittie Ann^{6} from 22 Mar 1994 to 22 Mar 1944 and (d) Mary M.^{6} from 1961 to 1951. Just dumb typos.

Page 76. (3) Mary Ann^{5} (George W.^{4}, Britain^{3}), please delete (c) Ulyssus^{6}, born c1866; (d) Edward^{6}, born c1868; (e) Ella, born c1872 and (f) Claud^{6}, born Sep 1876 as children of (3) Mary Ann^{5} and Lewis Thomas as indicated in Ganttrees Vol. 1, No. 4. These children are listed in the IGI compiled from various sources by the LDS Church; however, Marilyn Lewis of Orem, UT has not found them in census records of the Lewis Thomas family.

Page 85. Tyre^{3}, Cador^{4}, Newton^{5}.

Evelyn Fey Slater wrote us on 28 May 1995 to point out some errors in Ganttrees Vol. 2, No. 1 which we shall correct in this issue. First of all, we need to go back to our book to correctly report that the children of Newton^{5} Gant and his first wife, Nancy Ann Cragan (Cragun) were (a) Jasper^{6} and (b) Emma^{6} (they did not have a son named Joseph^{6} as incorrectly reported in the above issue of Ganttrees).

Newton^{5} lived a long life full of events which both saddened and pleased him. He was born on the old family homestead in Bartholomew Co., IN where his mother died when he was 9 and his father died when he was 15. He worked for local farmers and later taught school (how he found time to become that educated is a wonder!). He married Nancy Ann Cragan (Cragun) on 15 Sep 1849. On 18 Oct 1863, he enlisted in the 123rd Indiana Infantry, Volunteers, of the United States Army and served until 25 Aug 1865 when he was honorably discharged at Lexington, NC near "Gant" country where his ancestors lived and many descendants of John^{1} Gant yet live.

In his Declaration for a Pension, he was described as 5' 5" tall with a dark complexion, gray eyes and dark hair. While he was fighting for his country, his first wife, Nancy Ann, became stressed out by the absence of her husband and the work of farming and caring for her two young children, lost her mind and had to be institutionalized. She died on 23 Mar 1901 without recovering her senses.

On 1 Mar 1866, Newton^5 married the widow, Eliza Ann (Lefter) Enyart (Inyart) (Ingard), whose first husband, John, was killed during the Civil War. John and Eliza Ann Lefter had been married on 2 July 1862 and had 2 children who died as infants. After the death of Eliza Ann on 16 Oct 1905, Newton^5 married her widowed sister, Lura Jane, on 4 Dec 1909 and died 26 Apr 1910 at the age of nearly 85.

Jasper^6, born 1 Sep 1858, married Angelina Cupp on 22 Feb 1882 with whom he had Wilna,^{7}, born 1883 and Vern^7, born 1885. Jasper^6 deserted his family before 1900 and never returned. Angelina was listed in the 1900 census in Posey Township of Franklin Co., IN as married with their 2 children. In his will dated 16 Aug 1901, Newton^5 left everything to his then wife, Eliza Ann, but provided that, after her death, each of his five children (Chester had died in 1888, unmarried) receive 1/5th of the remainder of his estate; however, his son, Jasper^6, was to get $1 and Jasper^6's 1/5th was to be equally divided between Jasper^6's children, Wilna^7 and Vern^7).

Emma^6, born 6 Jan 1861, married John M. "Jake" Senour on 21 Feb 1884, had 2 children by him and died 22 Feb 1937 in Shelbyville, Shelby Co., IN. Newton^5 provided that his daughter, Emma^6, get a full share of the remainder of his estate.

Evelyn wrote that Jasper^6 and Emma^6, above, were not the children of Newton^5's second wife, Eliza Ann, and her first husband who were adopted by Newton^5 (as incorrectly reported in Ganttrees Vol. 2, No. 1). This is supported by Marilyn Croft Lewis of Orem, UT who found that Jasper^6 Gant was listed with Newton^5 and Nancy Ann Gant on page 68 of the 1860 census of Butler Township of Franklin Co., IN and that Jasper^6, Emma^6 and Chester^6 were listed with Newton^5 and Eliza Ann Gant on page 2 of the 1870 census of the Laurel Township of Franklin Co., IN.

Evelyn Fey Slater wrote that "Grandmother Gant was so devastated when son Chester died, particularly since she had buried two sons who died in infancy (that she) planted a peony on Chester's grave at Wesley Chapel Cemetery - Indiana - in 1888 - that same peony lives and blooms each Memorial Day - today - 1995".

Evelyn sent us a photo of Chester^6's gravestone and that of Newton^5 and Eliza Ann (Lefter) Gant and Jacob and Eunice (Ryckman) Lefter, parents of Eliza Ann and Lura Jane. If anyone reading this has any knowledge of the information contained in the bible of the Ryckman family that once belonged to Eunice (Ryckman) Lefter, please let us know so that we can pass the information along to Joan L. Nichols of Greenwood, IN.

We are also advised that the name of Newton^5's third wife, the sister of Eliza Ann, was Lura (not Laura) Jane (Lefter) Elwell; they had no children.

Chapter Four, John^2 Gant, c1734-1801

Pages 102/03, Benjamin Thomas^5 Gant, (c) James Abram^6. The correct full name of his wife was Soviah (not Sophia) Elizabeth Rippy. We thank Joye King of San Diego, CA who sent us a photo of Soviah's tombstone to prove what she has been telling us for quite some time. Joye is a subscriber, longtime correspondent and cousin of Tommie Uselton of Marshall, TX, a Research Contributor; both are descendants of this couple buried at the Plano Mutual Cemetery in Plano, Collins Co., TX.

Pages 104/05. More information on the descendants of certain "Missouri" Gants from a wonderful collection of the papers of John Q.^{5} Gant sent to us by his grandson, Roger^7 Gant, Jr. of Burlington, NC. This collection is labeled Copies of Correspondence between John Q. Gant and Various Cousins outside of North Carolina, 1903-1930. Included are copies of letters from such prominent descendants of John^1 Gant as Ernest S. Gantt, Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Missouri (Ganttrees, Vol. 2, No. 1) and William J, Ghent, author (Ganttrees Vol. 2, No. 3).

This collection, with certain clarifications and footnotes by Roger, reveals a surprising amount of good genealogical material on some descendants of John^2 Gant gathered from 65 to nearly 100 years ago. It is a thrill to read letters from descendants of John^1 Gant who lived that long ago.

Isn't it always strange that when you start to write up a family, you get correspondence from others on the same family? This happened when Ben Gantt received information from a new cousin, Robert Waller Gant of Peachtree City, GA after Robert had posted a query on the Genealogy Bulletin Board (on Prodigy) about his GGGF Capt. James H. Gant. Robert can be reached online at PNHU13A@Prodigy.com and can be reached on the blood line at John[2], William[3], James H.[4], Duncan Dow[5], Robert Kelly.[6], Robert Young[7] Gant, Robert Waller[8] Gant.

Just after that, a letter was received by Cliff Gant from Delores Luedke of Atwood, Rawlings Co., KS in response to a letter sent to the Atwood Public Library in Atwood seeking any more research material by Jesse Samuel Gaunt, deceased, who wrote The Gaunt Family, a Genealogy (see page 14 of Vol. 2, No. 1 of Ganttrees on Gants in the Northern Neck of Virginia).

Delores is not a Gant descendant but was given the letter because, she wrote, she is the only researcher in Rawlings County and had run across Gants in Ray Co., MO as her ancestors lived there as well. She supplied copies of some of the same material received from Robert but also a letter written by Wilbur Allen of Fountain Valley, CA in 1980 to Jessie (Gaunt) Palmer (now deceased) of Virginia Beach, VA about the Missouri Gants (a letter to him inquiring about his Gant ancestry is in the mail; we believe he is a descendant of the William Allen who married James H.[4] Gant's daughter, Eliza Ann[5] (see below).

There may be some misinterpretation of the information from the records of Guilford Co., NC concerning the identity of the wife of James H.[4] Gant and of their son, Samuel S.[5] Gant (see below), because of the similarity of names. The information contained in my book that James H.[4]'s wife was Mary A. Stuart, daughter of Samuel Stuart, came from an article on D.D.[5] Gant that appeared on page 349 in a book entitled History of Clay, Ray, Carrol and Charlton Counties of Missouri.

The original source of confusion may have been the marriage records of Guilford Co., NC wherein a James Gant married Jane Stewart on 8 Mar 1830 (note that this date is long after the birth dates of many of the children of James H.[4]). From Guilford County (NC) Abstracts, 1771-1784 by Irene B. Webster, a Jane Gant was identified as a daughter of Samuel Stewart in his will dated 9 Apr 1833.

To add to the confusion, Samuel Stewart had a daughter named Mary Stewart and a grandson named Samuel S. Gant. Further, James and Jane Gant of Guilford Co. had a son named James H. Gant!. We believe that the James Gant who married Jane Stewart was a completely different person from our James H.[4] Gant for the following reasons:

(1) There was a James Gant in the 1840 census of Guilford Co., NC and in the 1850 census of that county, he was listed as age 47 (born c1803) with a female named Jane, age 50 (apparently his wife, nee Jane Stewart). In the census of the same place, a Henry Gant, age 68, born in VA was listed with Catherine, age 70 and Samuel, age 19 (born 1831). (See page 304 of the book and page 11 of Vol. 1, No. 5 of Ganttrees)

(2) In the will of Henry Gant dated 18 Apr 1857 and recorded in the Nov term 1863 of Guilford Co., NC court, he left property to his grandson, Samuel S. Gant (I have a copy of this will).

(3) In the will of Samuel S. Gant dated 6 Apr 1888 and recorded 13 Apr 1895, he left his home place to Nancy Gordon (including that part of the William Gant place that he owned) during her natural life and at her death, such property to go to Sallie Phibbs, wife of James Phibbs during her natural life and at her death, to go to her children in fee simple forever (I also have a copy of this will). We suspect that Nancy and Sallie were sisters of Samuel and that Samuel died without issue.

Because of the significance of the "William Gant place" designation and the further information from the 1830 census of Guilford Co., NC, that (a) there was a William Gant listed in the 30-39 age bracket (born 1791-1800) along with a Henry Gant in the 50-59 age bracket (born 1771-1780; apparently the wrong age bracket); (b) that the above Henry Gant was listed in the 1840 census of Guilford Co., NC with a male in the 5-9 age bracket (born 1831-1835) and (c) there was no William Gant in the proper age bracket in the 1840 census of Guilford Co., NC, it appears that Samuel S. Gant may have been the son of William Gant who died in the 1830s.

The James Gant who married Jane Stewart in Guilford Co., NC was a member of what we have termed the "Guilford Gants". Henry Gant moved to Guilford Co., NC before 1810 when he appeared in the census of that year in that county. There was also a John Gant, Sr. in the 1840 census of Guilford Co., NC who was probably a brother to Henry Gant as he was also listed as having been born 1781-1790.

They may have been of German extraction as they married into families with German surnames. We have a large file of information on these Gants and Dottie (Saylers) Riggs, who is descended from one of them, is also actively researching the "Guilford Gants". At this point, unless we assume that there were two different Samuel Stuarts (Stewarts), we must question the surname of the wife of James H.[4] Gant as it appears in the book.

Now, back to the information furnished by Roger, Robert and Delores.

Pages 104/05. More information on the children of James H.[4] and Mary Ann (?) Gant:

(1) Eliza Ann[5], born 1816, married William Allen on 9 July 1840 in Ray Co., MO; however, as she was listed in her father's household in the 1850 census of Ray Co., MO with (a) Anne[6] Allen, age 9, her husband must have died early in the 1840s. If Wilbur Allen (see above) was a descendant of this couple, they must have had a least one additional child - a son.

(2) Spencer L.[5], born c1818 married Frances A. Yancy had:
(a) John Y. (probably Yancy)[6], born in MO, married Rebecca Ellen Doom on 7 Dec 1872 in Gage Co., NE; no known children.

(3) Elizabeth Jane[5], born c1820. Wilbur Allen (see above) did not list this child; however, in the above cited article on D.D.[5] Gant in Clay, Ray, Carrol and Charlton Counties of Missouri, his brothers and sisters included an Elizabeth Jane and an Eliza A. This is confusing and needs clarification because my notes on the marriage records of Ray Co., MO shows 2 marriages for Elizabeth Ann Jane; the first to William Allen on 9 July 1840 (see Eliza, above) and the next to Duke Reeves on 7 Oct 1841.

(4) Jackson D.[5], born 17 Jun 1822, married Sarah A. Creason [not Carson, as in the book], the daughter of Goodwin and Sarah Creason, died c1898 in MO. According to the History of Ray County, Missouri....published by the Missouri Historical Company in 1881, he was a graduate of St. Louis Medical College in 1854, became a pioneer physician and surgeon in the Knoxville, Ray Co., MO area and settled in Cowgill, MO upon his retirement c1890. Jackson D.[5] and Sarah had:
(a) Marietta[6], born 7 Oct 1857, died 12 Mar 1871;
(b) Carrie F.[6], born 13 Sep 1859;
(c) Ida F.[6], born 25 Jan 1861;
(d) William F.[5], born 12 May 1863 and
(e) Samuel Goodwin[6], born 9 May 1866, married (1) Susan Rankin Barret of Henderson, KY on 20 Apr 1898 and (2) Mrs. O.G. Young. No known children. He was a physician and surgeon (see page 2, Vol. 2, No. 1 of Ganttrees).

(5) William F.[5], born Oct 1826; nothing new.

(6) Samuel S.[5], born Sep 1829; nothing new.

(7) Wallace Henry[5], born c1830; nothing new.

(8) Duncan Dow.[5], born 14 May 1842, died 1 Nov 1893. His children with Louisa Elizabeth "Ludie" Grimes were:
(a) Mary Y.[6], born 1871, married William Bathgate, died 26 Oct ?; nothing further known.
(b) Robert Kelly[6] (known as Kelly Guy), born 29 Jan 1879 at Knoxville, Ray Co., MO, married Katherine Hillyer Waller on 16 Nov 1910 in Dockery, Ray Co., MO;
(c) Daisy D.[6], born 1875, died 1877.

(9) Julia A.[5], born c1835; nothing further known.

(10) Daniel C.[5], born Nov 1836, married Julia ? ; nothing further known.

(11) John O'Kelly[5], MD, born c1838. Wilbur Allen showed a first wife named Hattie Simpson and a second wife, Lizzie Corner; Robert W. Gant shows Elizabeth Ganner [book erroneously speculated that his wife, Mrs. John Gant, might have been the widow of his second cousin, John[6] Gant (Benjamin[4], Doniphan[5])]. Their only child was:
(a) Bessie[6]. She wrote John Q.[5] Gant on 30 Jan 1929 that "I have in my possession, an Old English cut glass wine bottle, which has been in the possession of our branch of the Gant family for over 100 years, it is very beautiful and valuable and I would starve before I would part with it". Wonder where it is now, almost 200 years old?

(12) Anna J.[5]; nothing new.

(13) Isabella[5]; nothing new.

Page 106, more information on the descendants of Joshua R.[4] and Winnifred Ann D. (Reeves) Gant.

(2) Thomas Reeves[5], born 31 Mar 1836, died 1924. Articles about him were included on pages 296 and 672 in the History of Ray County previously cited.

Thomas R.^{5} followed his brother, Cyrus D.^{5} Gant, by enlisting in the company C of the Third Missouri volunteer infantry on 23 Feb 1863 and participated in many of the battles with him and was also captured at Franklin, TN and held captive at Camp Chase, OH (see below). After the war, he engaged in farming and stock raising until about the year 1872 when he commenced merchandising and operated a large store in Vibbard, MO with his brothers under the title of T.R. Gant & Bros. They also operated the telephone and hack line between Vibbard and Excelsior Springs. The children of Thomas R.^{5} and Anne E. (Hughes) Green were:

(a) Ada F.^{6}, born 6 Dec 1869, married Leo Madden;
(b) John N.^{6}, born 25 Jun 1871. He was alive on 31 Mar 1938 when he wrote Mr. J.A. Hunter of Elon College, Alamance Co., NC as the proprietor of the John R. Gant Cigar Company in Kansas City, MO. Hunter was assisting the above John Q.^{5} Gant in his genealogical endeavors and John R.^{6}'s father (not named but thought to be Thomas R.^{5}, above) had written to John Q.^{5} several years before.
(c) Annie Lee^6, born 4 Apr 1873, died in infancy;
(d) Thomas E.^{6}, born 23 Aug 1876, lived in Kansas City, MO and
(e) Anna P.^{6}, born 6 Oct 1879, dead by 1881.

(4) Cyrus D.^{5}, born 10 Sep 1839, married Ella M. Hughes, daughter of John and Deborah Hughes on 17 Sep 1866 in Ray Co., MO. According to pages 296, 657 and 658 of the History of Ray County, MO, he enlisted in company C, Third Missouri Confederate cavalry in Sep 1861 and re-enlisted in the Third Missouri volunteer infantry in Dec 1861. He participated in the battles of Lexington, Pea Ridge, first and second Iuka, Corinth, Vicksburg, Grand Gulf, Black River, Atlanta, Kennesaw Mountain [see book, page 203; it would appear that he fought in the "Battle of Kolb's Farm", the farm of Peter Valentine, Jr. and Eliza^4 (Gant) Kolb] and Franklin or Stone's River.

At the last battle, he was wounded five times and, being left on the field, fell into the hands of the Union troops. He was kept at Franklin for two months, sent to the hospital at Nashville, next to Camp Chase in Ohio where he was released on the same day that President Lincoln was assassinated. He walked to St. Louis, MO where he met a friend who gave him money enough to take a steamboat upriver so that he could go home. He later became a prominent trader and dealer of livestock.

The children of Cyrus D.^{5} and Ella (Hughes) Gant were:
(a) William^6, born 2 Sep 1867;
(b) James N.^{6}, born 17 Nov 1868;
(c) Leila^6, born 1 Mar 1874;
(d) Ora L.^{6}, born 10 Jan 1876;
(e) Maud^6, born 3 Sep 1878 and
(f) Ella^6, born 13 Mar 1881.

(8) Joshua Butler^5, born 15 Apr 1848 in Ray Co., MO, married Isabel Ralph in Ray Co., MO.

(9) Joseph (Josephus?) P.^{5}, born 7 Nov 1851 in Ray Co., MO where he lived all of his life. He was engaged in the mercantile business with his brothers in Vibbard, MO, conducted a stage line between Vibbard and Excelsior Springs and was employed by Royal Insurance Co. in Columbia, MO. An article about him was included on page 673 of the above cited History of Ray County, MO.

More information on Benjamin^4 Gant and his family from Helen (Farrar) Slater of San Marcos, CA to add to that of last quarter's issue and from Frank I.^{8} Rogers of Redlands, CA (John^2, William^3, Benjamin^4, Frances Jane^5 m. Emsley Willard Craven, William^6, Rothwell Fannon^7, Irving Francis^8 Rogers). Frank took his stepfather's surname and legally changed his name from Irving Francis Craven to Frank Irving Rogers.

First of all, Helen advises us that she uncovered a long guarded family secret that Benjamin^4 Gant had not married Margaret (Garrison) Simpson and that their children were thus illegitimate. She found this information in the Swafford family bible which was in the possession of her grandmother, Fleta Pearl^7 Swafford (John^2, William^3, Benjamin^4, Henry D.^{5}, Eliza Ann^6 m. James Jasper Swafford). When Helen confronted her grandmother with what she had found, her grandmother reluctantly confessed that it was true. Since this information is more than just family "legend", we must accept it. Today, it is no "big deal". Family members, however, disagree on whether or not, Margaret accompanied Benjamin^4 to MO.

Secondly, Frank has been chasing the identity of the father of his Frances Jane^5 Gant for several years and is now satisfied that he was Benjamin^4 Gant, a brother of James H.^{4} Gant and Joshua R.^{4} Gant who also appeared in the 1840 and 1850 censuses of Ray Co., MO. He recently sent for and received a copy of the death certificate of Frances Jane Craven which shows that her father's name was Benjamin Gant.

His principal problem in confirming this fact was in the 1850 census of Ray Co., MO wherein a female named Frances[5] Gant, age 8, was listed in the family of Benjamin[4] Gant while his Frances Jane[5] Gant was living with her husband, Emsley Craven, in Ray Co., MO whom she had married there on 13 May 1847.

We can only deduce that the name in the 1850 census was incorrect as we can't imagine that the same given name would be given to two living members of the same family. A look at the 1860 census might reveal the correct name of this daughter.

Unfortunately, the information contained on the death certificate for Frances Jane[5] which had been furnished by her daughter, Mary[6] (Craven) Black, did not name the mother of Frances Jane[5]. However, Frank found that the LDS/IGI lists the father of Mary Fletcher[5] Gant as Benjamin Gant and her mother as Barbara Atkinson, a completely new name to us all! This information probably came from Wilbur Allen as he wrote in the above cited letter that Benjamin[4] Gant first married Mary J. (Barbara) Atkinson without quoting his source of information.

Since no source was given, we are reluctant to accept Barbara Atkinson as the first wife of Benjamin[4] Gant and the mother of all of his children born before his marriage to Sarah Pruitt. We tend to believe that she was Margaret (Garrison) Simpson whose secreted name was contained in the Swafford bible (as indicated above) because family secrets are hard not to accept!

With information furnished by both Helen and Frank and an analysis of the censuses of Orange Co., NC (210001-11101) and the 1850 census of Ray Co., MO, we think it is appropriate to restate the names and birth years of Benjamin[4]'s children as follows:

Children with Margaret (Simpson) Garrison with their approximate birth years taken from the 1830 census of Orange Co., NC and 1850 census of Ray Co., MO:

(1) Margaret[4], born c1820 (female, 10-15; might be the child of Margaret and her Simpson husband).

(2) Henry Doniphan[4], born c1822 (male, 5-9).

(3) Amanda[4], born c1824 (female, 5-9).

(4) William F.[4], born c1827 (1 of 2 males under 5).

(5) Benjamin[5], born c1828 (1 of the 2 males under 5; died early?).

(6) Frances Jane[5], born 30 Jan 1830 (female under 5), married Emsley Willard Craven (brother of Nancy Craven who married Frances Jane[5]'s brother, Lorenzo D.[5] Gant, below) on 13 May 1847 and died 15 Mar 1910 in Clay Co., MO. Emsley was the son of Jeremiah and Martha (Rains) Craven from Randolph Co., NC and the great grandson of Peter Craven who was born c1712 in the western area of colonial NJ.

The children of Emsley and Frances Jane[5] (Gant) Craven, all events in Ray Co., MO, except as indicated, were (a) Barbara Ellen[6], born 14 Mar 1849, died 30 Aug 1851; (b) Calvin Lafayette[6], born 17 Mar 1851, died 27 Feb 1935; (c) Frances Izora[6], born 5 Mar 1853; (d) Oliver Shannon[6], born 6 Feb 1856, died 12 Oct 1930; (e) William Cullen[6], born 31 Mar 1859 in Lathrop, Clinton Co., MO, married Flora Temple Arnold on 11 Oct 1885 in Buckner, Jackson Co., MO and died there 17 Nov 1929; (f) Ella Ann[6], born 18 Sep 1860, married Thomas Holt and died 1 Feb 1883; (g) Josephine[6], born 2 Dec 1862, married James Harvey Levi and died 30 Apr 1924 in Liberty, Clay Co., MO; (h) Mary Lou[6], born 8 Oct 1865, married Robert Black and died 1951 in Clay Co., MO; (i) Minnie May[6], born 20 Mar 1868, married Franklin Newton and died 5 May 1948; (j) Walter Scott[6], born 17 Apr 1871 at Independence, Jackson Co., MO, married Margaret Lumpkin and died Nov 1927 and (k) Buena Belle[6], born 21 May 1874, died 10 Jun 1875.

(7) Mary Fletcher[5], born 1 Oct 1835 (age 15), married Joseph Christian Whitmer (not James C. Whitmer).

(8) Lorenzo Dow.[5], born c1838 (age 12), married Nancy Craven (sister of Emsley Craven who married Lorenzo[5]'s sister, Frances Jane[5], above) and their children were (a) Benjamin[6]; (b) Susan[6]; Malvina[6]; Rossy E.[6]; George[6] and Gurdy[6], born Jan 1890.

(9) Frances(?)[5], born c1842 (age 8).

(10) Sarah Ann (Sally)[5], born c1844 (age 6).

Child by Sarah Pruitt, married 31 Aug 1838 with birth year taken from the 1850 census of Ray Co., MO:

(11) Elizabeth[5], born c1849 (age 1), married James H. Morgan in 1869.

Also in the 1850 census of Ray Co., MO was Christina Pruitt, born c1846 (age 4), the daughter of the widow, Sarah Pruitt, and Mr. Pruitt.

Page 117/18, more information on the descendants of Josiah (Joseph)[4] and Nancy (Faucett) Gant from the papers of John Q.[5] Gant:

(8) Tabitha H.[5] married Francis Creason, a lawyer, lived in Kansas City, MO but, after his death, moved to Wyoming where she was with her daughter, Sallie[6], on 1 May 1921, see below. The children of Tabitha[5] and Francis Creason were:
(a) Son (given name unknown)[6] who became a lawyer in Kansas City, MO;
(b) Frank[6] lived in Tulsa, OK;
(c) Meda[6], married Mr. Kirkland and, after his death, was living in Wyoming with her sister, Sallie, and her mother as early as 1 May 1921 and
(d) Sallie[6], apparently never married, bought and lived on a ranch in Wyoming because of a lung condition.

Page 120, more information about the descendants of Thomas R.[4] Gant from Frances (Shock)[8] Henry of College Station, TX (John[2], Isham[3], Josiah[4], Martha Ellen[5] m. James Henry Shock, Henry Lee[6], James William[7]) and the papers of John Q.[5] Gant.

(1) The children of Edmond Green[5] and Lydia M. (Shock) Gant were;
(a) Lou Ada[6], born 16 Jun 1863;
(b) Henry T.[6], born 26 Jul 1867, married Minnie Conklin, had 9 children, was 6'2", weighed 325 lbs, worked as a livestock broker in Omaha, NE;
(c) Ella Wilmuth[6];
(d) Mettie Rae[6];
(e) Lena May[6];
(f) Eddie[6], born 9 Sep 1875, married Espie Davis &
(g) William E.[6], born 14 Jan 1880, married Mary Owens, operated the W.E. (Bill) Gant Commission Company at National Stockyards, IL.

(7) Sarah Belle[5] (Gant) Black raised the children of her sister, Mollie[5] who were of the ages of two, four and six (see (10) Mary Eliza[5], below). She and Mr. Black had:
(a) Stella[6] married J.A. Braden and lived in Edinburg, TX.

(10) Mary Eliza[5]. Believe she was called "Mollie" and she married William L. Barnett and had the following children who were raised by her sister, Belle Black, above, when she died c1892:
(a) Child (name unknown)[6], born c1886;
(b) Child (name unknown)[6], born c1888 and
(c) Daughter[6], born c1890, married Jesse Martin and had two sons. Jesse was a co-owner of Martin Bros. Economy Store in Mexico, Audrain Co., MO.

Chapter Eight, Edward[2] Gant, c1746-1783

Page 174/75. From the Hatcher brothers, William Alexander (William in TX, Alex in TN)[8] of Ft. Worth, TX and Robert Marlin (Bob)[8] of Nashville (see their lines, below), we have obtained more information on Benjamin Rainey[4] Gant (Edward[2], John[3]) and his descendants. In exchange, Ben Gantt gave them new information on the ancestors of Benjamin Rainey[4] Gant. Contact with the Hatcher brothers came through a subscriber who "surfs the net", Melody A. Sanchez of Corona, CA (of the "Maryland Gantts"), and we thank each of them.

Bob Hatcher's family data base now contains 3,461 names while Ben Gantt's Gant(t) family data base now contains more than 8,000 names and about 2,000 more of other Gant(t) families. Bob Hatcher has a lot of information on the descendants of Benjamin Rainey[4] Gant after the sixth generation to which we restricted the book and restrict Ganttrees for lack of time and space.

Bob also advised us that another brother, Harold Cotton (Speedy)[8] Hatcher of Nashville, TN, has a copy of The Battle Book published by the Paragon Press in 1930 which may contain additional Gant information; that Freeman Pillow (Bill) Jordan of Nashville, TN, a second cousin, is one of the most knowledgeable Gant sources in the Nashville area and that both would be happy to share Gant information with us.

The great grandparents of the Hatcher brothers and Bill Jordan were John Smith and Martha Elizabeth[5] (Gant) Battle. We welcome the Hatchers and Bill Jordan to Ganttrees in which we will publish any new information obtained from them. Here is what they gave us so far:

(1) Martha Elizabeth[5] Gant was born 24 July 1835 in Williamson Co., TN, married John Smith Battle on 28 Mar 1855 and died 29 Feb 1916. Their children were:
(a) Susan Alice[6], born 14 Feb 1856, married N.F. Glaze on 3 Sep 1890 and died 8 May 1934;
(b) Mary Adelaide[6], born 9 Jun 1857, married George Haynes on 7 Dec 1876 and died 16 May 1949. They had 12 children including Frances Brittain[7] who married Freeman P. Jordan, Sr., the father of Bill[8] Jordan, above;
(c) Willie Mayo[6], born 8 Dec 1858, married John Milton Hatcher on 31 Jul 1884 and died 24 Sep 1917. They are the grandparents of Bill[8], Bob[8] and Harold[8] Hatcher, above.
(d) John S., Jr.[6] (twin), born 14 Jan 1861, married Lillian Roberts in 1883 and died 12 Jan 1885;
(e) Mattie Gant[6] (twin), born 14 Jan 1861 and died 20 Nov 1861;
(f) Benjamin Gant[6], born 14 Feb 1863, married Tolbertha Betty on 31 Jan 1888 & died 24 Jul 1893;
(g) Jesse Angeline[6], born 22 Sep 1865, married W.J. Putnam on 31 Oct 1895 and died 22 Jan 1913;
(h) James Hinton[6], born 13 Apr 1868, married Floy Fitzhugh on 14 Mar 1893 and died 19 Mar 1947;
(i) Jane Washington[6], born 9 Nov 1871 and died 23 Oct 1926 and
(j) Allen Hunter[6], born 21 Mar 1876 and died 1 Nov 1878.

(2) Benjamin Allen[5], born 22 Apr 1838 and died 14 Feb 1845.

(3) Mary Esther[5], born 21 Jun 1840, married Benjamin Lanier in 1892.

(4) William G. (J.?)[5], born 16 Mar 1843.

(5) James Henry[5], born 16 Aug 1845.

(6) Jesse Smith[5], born 13 Apr 1848, married (1) Anna May (?) and (2) (?) and died 14 Aug 1914. Children with Anna May were:
(a) Kate[6] married Ira Waddy;
(b) Julia[6] married James Dee Jordan and had 5 children and
(c) Benjamin Rainey[6] married Eva Mabry and had 3 children.

(7) Angelina Augustine[5], born 13 Apr 1851, married John M. Davis and died in 1924. Their children were:
(a) Minnie May[6], born 22 May 1877 and died 1 Dec 1898 and
(b) Benjamin[6]

(8) Benjamin Rainey, Jr.[5], born 11 Mar 1853.

From a publication of the Methodist Church entitled Tennessee Conference, 1853, the following has been taken about Benjamin R.[4] Gant. "Benjamin R. Gant was born in the state of North Carolina on 28 Oct 1812, was licensed to preach in 1840, admitted on trial in the Tennessee Conference in 1841 and appointed to the Centreville Circuit. He subsequently labored in Nashville, Mt. Pleasant, Stone's River, Mill Creek and Spring Hill circuits and in 1852 was appointed presiding elder of Lebanon District where he died on 4 Mar 1853. He was a fervent preacher, a powerful exhorter, greatly gifted in prayer, a diligent pastor, a faithful presiding elder and eminently successful in his ministry. Dying, he said "tell the preachers that I find the doctrines I have preached, will do to die by - I die at my post - it is a glorious privilege to die!" and he fell asleep in Jesus." There were many preachers among the descendants of John[1] Gant but, undoubtedly, Benjamin Rainey[4] Gant was one of the most dedicated and devoted.

Appendix Two, Unidentified Gants

This is a continuation of our updated list of those persons with the surname of Gant (or acceptable variation of such surname) found in our research who may, because of the spelling of their given name, year of birth, place of birth or residence and other factors, be descendants of or be related to John[1] Gant.

If you can identify any of these persons, please advise Cliff Gant or Ben Gantt.

Henry Gant, per the index of the 1850 census of TN, was in Lincoln Co., TN (ref. 60-214), born c1821 in TN with Mary, born c1823 in SC; Samuel, born c1841; William, born c1845; Sarah, born c1849 and Sarah Gant, born c1790 (probably Henry's mother). Marriage records of TN do not list a marriage for Henry Gant and Mary.
Research by Deanna Flint shows Samuel; William T.; Sarah A. and adds M.E. (no sex noted), born c1850; M.J. (no sex noted), born c1852; John W., born c1855; C.H. (male), born c1858 and M.S. (no sex noted), born c1863. Also a marriage year of 1839 but no source noted).

Henry C. Gant in the 1870 census of Gibson Co., TN, born c1845 TN, married Mary L. McKenzie 11 Oct 1864 in Gibson Co., TN. Probably a son of one of the 2 unidentified sons, born 1825/29, of William^3 (Charles^2) of Gibson Co., TN [book, page 199].

James Gant, listed in the index of the 1840 census of TN, living in Coffee Co. (adjoins Bedford Co. on the east). Detail of census film was not examined.

James Gant, born 10 Sep 1820 (place unknown), died 11 Feb 1873. Married Annie, lived in IN in the 1840s. Their daughter, Nancy Jane, born 28 Sep 1844 m. Abner Crasdel Bartlett; first son, William Francis, born 8 May 1865 in Wabash, IN.
Clues from Cliff Gant. We don't believe this man was a descendant of John^1 Gant but offer the following information. There was a James Gant in the 1840 IN census index in Kosciusko Co. along with John Gant and Strawder Gant (latter born in Scotland). In the 1850 census index of IN, there was a James Gant in Miami Co and a Stroher Gant in Kosciusko Co. (note that Wabash Co. lies to the south of Kosciusko Co. and east of Miami Co., IN).

Jane Gant who may have married John Robinson c1777 as his 2nd wife. According to Ethel Updike's research, John Robinson was born in NC in 1749 and married Jane (thought to be Jane Gant) as his 2nd wife who was born 1764 in NC (apparently year and place of birth from the 1850 census of Anderson Co., SC where she was listed with the family of her daughter, Adeline, and her son-in-law, Meredith H. Brock). They lived in Abbeville Co., SC and two of John's children married children of Giles^3 Gant [book, pages 41/42]. We believe she may have been a daughter of John^1 Gant but have no proof.

Joe Gant, born 10 May 1866, died 16 Nov 1905 and buried at the Hillis Cemetery in Weakley Co., TN. Others buried there are William Gant, 1870-1931; Coody Gant, 4 Jun 1878-23 Jun 1930; Lucy M., 1880-1969, Jessie Lee, 2 Apr 1898-27 Mar 1901; Lou Vinnie, 1902-1922; Lettie Vinine, 23 Nov 1905-16 Apr 1908 and Elzada, died 2 years, 11 months and 2 days. See also Daniel P. Gantt and Earnest C. Gant in last month issue who are buried in other cemeteries in this county. All are probably descendants of Jesse Bobo3 (Lewis2) Gant who had children in Weakley Co., TN.

Joel Gant, born 1775-1794 per the Williamson Co., TN census of 1820 and listed as 100010-20111 but not in any later census. Married Sarah Phillips on 27 May 1816 in Williamson/Franklin Co., TN per LDS/IGI. Was he a son of the John Gant who was in the 1850 census of Williamson Co., TN?

John (Jack) Lee Gantt, c1855-1923, born GA?, married Lydia Pierce in Randleman, NC; widow in 1940 phone book in Atlanta, GA. They had 7 children; oldest was John (Jack) Lee Gantt, Jr., born SC in 1905, lived in San Diego, CA, called "Pegleg Jack".

John Gant, born before 1775 per the 1800 census of Mecklenburg Co., NC (adjoins Gaston, Lincoln, Catawba and Iredell). Neighbors included William Gaines, Samuel Johnston, George Williams, William Goforth, James Alexander and John Irwin.

John Gant, born before 1775 per the 1800 census of Stokes Co., NC (in the north central part of NC not far from Guilford, Orange counties). Neighbors included John Hill, Wesley Gans, John Perkins and Elizabeth Thompson.

John Gant, a buyer of personal property of Charles^2 Gant in the court records of Franklin Co., NC in 1816. We have found no one named John Gant in the records of Franklin Co. in the early or mid 1800s. Was he a Gant from another part of NC?

John Gannt of the Lincoln Co., NC census of 1820 who was with a Samuel Gant. John3 (William2) was listed separately in Lincoln Co. in the 1820 census. Need the census numbers.

John Gant in 1820 census Telfair Co., GA; 1 M over 45, 1 M under 10, 1 F 26-45. Neighbors John Ellis, Norman Shaw, John Powell, John Raney, Richard Thomas, Thomas Self, Alex. Williams, Noah Griffin, Jesse Carlile. The 1830 census Telfair Co., GA lists a Delilah Gant, 1 F 30-40, 2 F 5-10, 1 M 20-30, 1 M 10-15, 1 M 5-10. Nearby Sarah Lee, Joseph Barrow, William Parker, William and Robert H. Ashley, Aaron Brantley, Henry Simons, Sr./Jr. 1840 census Telfair Co., GA; Delilah Gant, neighbors Narcissa and Nathaniel Ashley, William and Terusa Ellis. 1850 census Telfair Co., GA, lists a Jason and a John Gant .
Children James ? (m. Elizabeth); John B. (m. Mary Collins); Rev. Jason (m. Elizabeth); Delilah (m. Shadrack Young), Sarah Virginia (m. James N. Green).
Could this John Gant be the man below of Bullock

Co., GA? Note that Bulloch, Tatnall and Telfair are not far apart in southern GA.

John Gant of Bulloch Co., GA who appointed Joab Collins of Tatnall Co., GA on 3 Oct 1810 to collect monies due him from the estate of Jesse Barzimores of Bertie Co., NC.
In 37,000 Georgia Marriages, there was a license for Allen Jones to marry Elizabeth Gant (a daughter?) on 2 Mar 1812 in Bulloch Co., GA. Source NCGSJ V.3, #1.

John Gant, Prvt, Second Troop of the GA Rangers, 1766/1767. Captain James Edward Powell; other officers, Noble Wyberly, Jones, Edward/William Barnard, Mungo Graham, Thomas Waters, William Johnson. Privates were Joseph Baillie, Zachary Fann, John/Morris Hickie, Will Tapeley, Charles Wilds, William Love, Peter/James Guidre/Grundree, Timothy Conner, John Anderson.
The Georgia Rangers were a group of English and Irish soldiers who were originally organized by James Ogelthorpe, the founder of Georgia, to fight the Spanish and Indians. Did this John Gant remain in Georgia to found latter day Georgia Gants?

John G. Gant of Randolph Co., AR (adjoins Lawrence Co., which, in turn, adjoins Craighead where James Wesley^4 Gant's father, John^3 Gant (Edward^2) of Williamson Co., TN, settled. A bio of James W.^{4} Gant indicated that he was one of 18 children!
James W.^{4} had a son named J. G.^{5}; however, he was born c1853. James W.^{4} had a brother named John Hardin^4 Gant, born in 1808, who moved to farm in TX. In the 1850 census of Shelby Co., TN, John Hardin^4 was with a woman named Martha.
John G. Gant married Jane Hardin in Lawrence Co., AR 9 Feb 1854, daughter of Jonathan and Peggy (Green) Hardin (widow of Robert Moore?), and, reportedly, moved to TX.

John Riley Gantt, born c1892, perhaps in AR, married Beatrice Ella Hughes 20 Feb 1920 in Wichita Falls, TX. They had one child, Quinton Glen Gantt. By a previous wife, may have had Fred Gantt. We have a John Riley^6 Gant (James S.^{5}, Newton^4, Tyre^3, Wm.^{2}), born Bartholomew Co., IN 12 May 1852; father, James S.^{5} moved to Pike Co., IL in 1859 and died in Nebo, IL in 1890 [page 87]. Also have William Jasper^5. Gant (William C.^{4}, Jeremiah^3, Charles^2), born c1834 and in the 1860 census of Pope Co., AR [page 190].
Other Gants also in AR included T.C.H.^{4} Gant (William^3, Isham^2) [page 137]; descendants of Jordan^3 Gant (Charles^2) [page 201] and various "Maryland" Gantts.

More information on other unidentified Gant(t)s:

Page 307, Rebecca Gant, 1746; Joseph Gant, 1758 and Rachael Gant, 1754 of the Orangeburg District of SC. These names and years noted were from William Montgomery Clemens' North and South Carolina Mariage Records from the Earliest Colonial Days to the Civil War and the County Records of Orangeburg which appeared in Vol. XIII of The Carolina Genealogist.

On page 100 of the former source, we find that Rebecca Gant married William Hickey in Orangeburg Co., SC in 1746. This marriage is also listed on page 12 of the latter source. Also on page 41 of the latter source, we find that on 10 Sep 1754, a son, William, was born to William and Rachel Hickey and the sureties were Thomas Bamrick, Caspar Brown and Rachel Gant.

We believe the name Rachel Hickey should have been Rebecca Hickey because of the above marriage record and because, on page 51 of the latter source, a daughter, Rachel, was born on 28 Oct 1758 to William and Rebecca Hickey. Sureties of this birth were Joseph Gant, Anne, wife of Robert Gossling, and Rachel, wife of Randal McCarthey.

We believe the above indicates that Rebecca Gant was the sister of Rachel (Gant) McCarthey and that Joseph was either their brother or father. A review of the names of others on the pages quoted above did not yield any clues as to the ancestry of the above Gants. The only observation made was that many of the surnames were of either Irish or German origin.

Since descendants of Peter Gaunt or Thomas Gaunt or of John^1 Gant /Gent/Gaunt were not in SC in the 1740s (as far as we know), the above Gants were probably from another family. Best guess is that they were descendants of the Charles Gent/Ghent who received a patent of land on the north side of the Wateree River in the Camden District in 1754 [book, page 307]. Was Charles a son of Anthony Gant [page 25 and Ganttrees, Vol. 2, No. 2]? Was Brittian Gant [page 327/30] a descendant of Anthony Gant, Charles Gent or Joseph Gant? Or were these Gants from a completely different line who came into SC directly from Europe?

Appendix Three, Other Gant Families

Pages 331/32, John Gaut of Tennessee. Descendants of this man are eligible to receive a First Families of Tennessee Certificate from the East Tennessee Historical Society as are any others who can prove their descendancy from a Tennessee resident of 1796 or before. You do not have to be a TN resident; deadline is 31 Dec 1996. Your editors will furnish more details to anyone interested. As far as we know, no descendants of John[1] Gant are eligible as the earliest of his descendants in TN was William[3] (Isham[2]) who moved to TN c1807.

Patsy Walker of Liberty, TX is eligible as her ancestor was our subject, John Gaut. She sent us an ancestry chart showing her descent from John Gaut via Matthew [page 332] and his daughter, Elizabeth, who married Jacob Bennett on 9 May 1843 in Harrison Co., Republic of Tex. Patsy, a new subscriber, wrote that Matthew Gaut moved from TN to AL and to TX between 1840 and 1850.

From John Morgan Wooten's compilation of Leaves From the Family Tree of John Gaut, we learn that Matthew's brother Robert, moved to IL and another brother, Benjamin, moved to MO where the latter and his sons appeared in the census of Buchanan Co. with the surname, Gant. In the case of Benjamin, he was mistaken by some Gant family researchers as Benjamin[4] (William[3], John[2]) since Buchanan Co. was just a hoot and a holler away from Clay, Ray and Clinton Counties where Benjamin[4] and other descendants of John[1] Gant lived.

QUERIES

1. Seek parents, ancestry of Richard Gantt who was written up on page 532 of the Encyclopedia of Frontier Biography as having mustered in on 19 August 1868 as one of the First Independent Company of the Kansas State Militia, an informal organization at Hays City, Kansas but quickly left, however, to join George A. Forsythe and his 50 scouts and plainsmen seeing action at the battle of Beecher Island beginning in mid-September on the Arickaree fork of the Republican River, eastern Colorado where he was severely wounded early in the fight with hostile Cheyennes and other Indians.

Apparently, this information was taken from Blaine Burkey, Custer, Come at Once!, Hays, Kan., Thomas More prep, 1976 and Harper's New Monthly Magazine, Vol. XCI, No. DXLI (June 1895), George A. Forsyth, A Frontier Fight. Contact Cliff Gant.

On the same page of the same source, John Gantt, 1790 - Feb. 14, 1849 was written up as a fur trader born at Queen Anne, Maryland, and taken by his parents to Kentucky where he was commissioned in the Army. This was the John Gantt (about whom we wrote on page 2 of Vol. 1, No. 5 of this publication), the son of Rev./Dr. Edward Gantt. Edward was curate of Queen Anne's Parish (Prince George), MD during the years of 1780-1795 (son, John, was born there in 1790), settled in KY in 1808 and died in Louisville, KY in 1837.

2. Seek parents of Laura Belle Gant who was born 1860/70, mother's maiden name was Wales and married a man with the surname of Fowler in St. Louis, MO. She might have been a descendant of Jeremiah[4] Gant [book, page 111/12], Josiah[4] Gant [page 117] or Thomas Rippy[4] Gant [page 120/21]; the latter two lived in Mexico, Audrain Co., MO. Jeremiah[4] Gant had 3 daughters who married men surnamed Wales and a son, Henry Chappus[5], born 1844, about whom we know little but who was of the right age to be the father of Laura Belle Gant. At least one of the children of Jeremiah[4] Gant, Frances Minerva[5] (Gant) Wales, moved to Mexico, Audrain Co., MO located less than 100 miles from St. Louis, MO. Laura Belle (Gant) Fowler had a son named Gant Fowler, the father of my good friend and fellow golfer, Stewart Fowler, of Incline Village, NV. Contact Cliff Gant.

3. Can anyone reading this query identify the parents and ancestry of Alice Gent who married Alexander Mills, Sr. c1740? Alexander was born c1720 to Gilbert and Margaret (Ashmore) Mills and died 26 Sep 1777 in Wilkes Co., GA. The children of Alexander and Alice (Gent) Mills included John Mills, born 22 Apr 1742 in Augusta Co., VA; Gilbert Mills, born c1749 in Augusta Co., VA and died at Little River, Abbeville Co., SC c1790 and David Alexander Mills, born 25 Nov 1775 in Wilkes Co., GA, married Mary "Polly" Summers and died in Posey Co., IN on 10 Dec 1838. Cliff Gant's note: the mention of Augusta Co., VA and Abbeville Co., SC, leads me to believe that Alice Gent was related to John Gent or George Gent of Culpeper/Prince William counties of VA (not far from Augusta Co.) because the latter's son, John, migrated to Abbeville Co., SC [book, page 322/23 and Ganttrees, V2, N1]. Contact Dr. B.G. Foster, 1104 Dominik Dr., College Station, TX 77840; phone (409) 693-7545.

4. The birth certificate of my ancestor, Fred Willis Gant, indicates that he was born 4 Oct 1908 to Vern and Wilma (Raham) Gant in the Laurel Township of Franklin County, Indiana and died Sep 1993. Have not identified the parents of Fred's father, Vern Gant, but his mother, Wilma, was born c1888 to Charles and Margaret (Herman) Raham and died 1950. Fred took his stepfather's surname of Cole when his mother remarried. Please contact Luanne Clevenger, Worthington, OH, LQAQ51B @ Prodigy.com or Ben Gantt.

5. Seek full name of the wife of Hugh Gaunt/Gant who was age 28 living with a wife, Amanda and 2 children in Bedford, Montezuma Township of Pike Co., IL per the 1860 census. In the 1870 census, H.R. Gant was age 30 living with wife, Emma, and more children in Monument, Spring Creek Township of Pike Co., IL and the same place in the 1880 census as Hugh Gauntt, age 43, with wife, Emma, and more children. Ben and Cliff have identified Hugh Gaunt as the son of Elias Gaunt, a descendant of Peter Gaunt of MA. Please contact Naomi A. Wood at 1352 Eastmont Ave, #11, East Wenatchee, WA 98802 (through us, she became acquainted with our subscribers, Dale E. Gant and Clayton L. Pierce who live close by). Her husband, William Wood (his Wood ancestor migrated from Scotland in the early 1900s), is a descendant of Hugh and Amanda/Emma (?) Gaunt.

6. Need identity of the parents of Rebecca Gent, born 5 Apr 1821 in Ohio, married John Abner Barnes on 8 Feb 1844 in Henry Co., IN and died 11 Aug 1899 in Fulton Co., IN. Their children were Rhoda m. Smith;, Adam, James, Savilda Jane m. Onstott, Isaac J. m. Emma Jane Kuhn, William, Jesse and Mary m. Wideman. Contact Beverly Przybylski at 3315 Ford Dr., Medford, OR 97504-4964

More answers to previous Ganttrees queries:

In Ganttrees, Vol. 1, No. 3, Rosie Gant of Balch Springs, TX inquired if antone could identify William Montgomery Gantt, born 1863 and his wife, Sarah (Watson) Gantt, born 1867, died 1931 who are buried at a cemetery in Paris, Lamar County, TX. Ms. Lisa Crawford of Midland, TX posted a notice on the Gantt family on Prodigy (# is TJWC94B@Prodigy.com) to which both Rosie Gant and Ben Gantt responded.

Subsequent correspondence (including "snail mail" which is the rather appropriate moniker for that of our regular U.S. Postal Service) revealed that Lisa's mother, Sarah (Gantt) Wilson, was accepted as a DAR by submitting information that her ancestor, Captain Hugh McGuire, was a soldier during the Revolutionary War and that Sarah (Gantt) Wilson was the daughter of Harry Talma Gantt who, in turn, was the son of William and Sarah (Watson) Gantt.

The identity of the parents of William Montgomery Gantt and his wife, Sarah Watson, were not revealed in the DAR application or by Lisa Crawford; however, we have the following clues from Lisa:
(1) William Gantt was born in Tupelo, MS on 19 Jan 1863; (2) Sarah Watson was born in Union Co., AR on 8 Jul 1867; (3) Sarah's ancestor's (perhaps her parents also) were born in Chestor Co., SC and (4) her Gantt family had roots in SC and NC.

Here are some further clues from Cliff Gant:
(1) William Montgomery Gantt may be descended from William Henry^4 Gant (Charles^2, William^3) [book, pages 197/98] because he lived in Tate Co., MS (was formed from Marshall Co. in 1873) which is not far from Tupelo in Lee Co., MS; (2) William Henry^4 Gant had a son named William W.^{5}, born c1843 about whom we know little and who, because of his age, is a good candidate for William Montgomery Gantt, born 20 years later and (3) other Gant descendants of John^1 Gant lived in Lee County and other counties near Lee County such as Pontotoc County.

We are pleased to advise you that an article entitled William GANT (ca. 1732-1809), an Abbeville County, SC Pioneer appeared in the Sep 1995 issue of The Carolina Herald and Newsletter, the quarterly official publication of the South Carolina Genealogical Society. The article was written by Ben Gantt as an expansion and revision of the information from Chapter Three of Cliff Gant's book with significant assistance from a subscriber, Wilma C. Kirkland of Greenwood, SC. We hope this will gain the attention of additional "cousins" who are descendants of William^2 Gant and his wife, Anna Wood, who might send us additions and corrections to this article or the book or become subscribers to Ganttrees. If this occurs, we will pass their information on to you in this publication. Our congratulations to both Ben and Wilma for "getting published"!

Jordan Family Traces Line to Elizabeth Fleming of Va., Thence Back

By MRS. HARVIE JORDAN

There was a time, and that not so very long ago, when the female of the species was of so much less importance than the male that in records or in wills the females of a family were often mentioned as "a daughter" or "a wife," with no other identification.

So it happened that on the family tree of the Flemings, of Virginia, among the children of Charles and Susanna Tarleton Fleming, appears "A daughter married ..... Jordan." This record particularly relates to this daughter, who is now known to have been Elizabeth Fleming, who married Samuel Jordan.

For generations tradition has made this Elizabeth the daughter instead of the sister of Colonel John Fleming, who married Mary Bolling, and so included her and her descendants in the Pocahontas-Fleming ancestry, which is well known. Many authorities have claimed this. In his "Georgians," Governor Gilmer says of Elizabeth's grandson, "Reuben Jordan's tastes followed his Indian blood, etc."

Quaker Records

Among the old Quaker records that are included in The Valentine Papers recently published, is found the proof of Elizabeth Fleming's identity which is unique. Vol. 2, p. 754. Henrico County Monthly Meeting of Friends. Record Book, 1699-1756.

"Samuel Jordan and Elizabeth Fleming published their intention of marrying for the first time, said Jordan producing his certificate from Chuckatuck, the Meeting where he belonged. 'This is to Certify The Truth to All people whom it may concern, That Samuel Jordan be a young man of an honest conversation and a clear man from all women as far forth as we know.' (Signed by 14 witnesses.) 8 day, 8 mo., 1703."

1 Page 31. "Samuel Jordan and Elizabeth Fleming published their intentions the second time. 12 day, 9 mo., 1703."

Page 31. "Samuel Jordan, of Nansemond Co., marriage to Elizabeth Fleming, daughter of Charles and Susannah Fleming, of New Kent Co., (numerous witnesses.) 10 day, 10 mo., 1703."

From this union there were two sons, Samuel and Matthew.

Interesting Lineages

For centuries the name Fleming has been honored in England, Ireland and Scotland, and the three branches of this family in America have many interesting lineages and many worthy descendants.

Lines can be traced to the time of the Norman invasion in 1066.

Our heroine, Elizabeth, and most of the Virginia branch of Flemings, are of Scotch origin and claim descent from the Earls of Wigton. The following is from a record of the southern branch of the Flemings written by Frances Cowles, of Virginia.

"The name is Flemish, being derived from Stephen Fleming, who first assumed the name of 'Flanders' or 'Fleming' to indicate the nationality of his forefathers. William the Conqueror married Matilda of Flanders and the Flemings who were with him in the Battle of Hastings were perhaps kinsmen.

"From Stephen Fleming the ancestry descends through his younger son, William, who died in 1199. His son was Sir Malcolm Fleming, who died in 1246. Sir Malcolm's son, Robert Fleming, was the well-known supporter of Robert Bruce, and he had Malcolm, who was made Earl of Wigton, and Patrick.

"Malcolm, Earl of Wigton, died in 1362, leaving his titles and estates to his son, Thomas, who sold them in 1371.

"Sir Patrick Fleming married a daughter of Sir Simon Fraser and had Sir Malcolm Fleming, who had two sons, David and Patrick. Sir David had a son, Malcolm, who married Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke of Albany, and had Lord Robert Fleming, who married Margaret Lindsay. Their son, Malcolm, third Lord Fleming, born about 1494, married Euphemia Chrighton, and had Lord John, who married Janet Stewart, daughter of King James IV and Isabel Stewart.

Fifth Lord Fleming

"John, fifth Lord Fleming, died in 1524, leaving a son, Malcolm, who was made Earl of Wigton under a second creation.

"Malcolm, the First Earl of Wigton, under this new creation, had two sons, James, who succeeded to his father's honors, and was Lord High Chancellor to Queen Mary; and Lord John Fleming who, after his brother's death, succeeded to the Earldom.

"John, Sixth Lord Fleming, was created Earl of Wigton by patent dated at Whitehall, 19 Mch., 1606. He died in 1619. His Lordship married Lady Lillias (Lillian) Graham, the only daughter of John, Third Earl of Montrose. Their two sons were John and Sir Thomas.

"Sir Thomas Fleming married Miss Tarleton, emigrated to Virginia in 1616 and became the founders of the southern branch of the Fleming family.

"It is claimed that Sir Thomas and his wife had three sons—Tarleton, John and Charles.

"Tarleton Fleming had a daughter, Judith, who married in 1730, Thomas Williamson, of New Kent County, and they had John (1733-1806), who married Sarah Price; Dr. John Galt Williamson (1806-1861); and Gabriel Galt Williamson (1803-1853).

"Charles Fleming, of St. Peter's Parish, New Kent County, Virginia, patented land in that county in 1683 and also possessed landed estates in Henrico and King and Queen Counties. He died between 1717 and 1720. By his wife, Susanna Tarleton, he had John (1697-1758), married 1727, Mary, daughter of Major John Bolling and granddaughter of Pocahontas.

Holdings of Land

"Tarleton Fleming; 3. Judith, who married first Thomas Randolph, of Tuckahoe, second Nicholas Davies; 4. Susannah married John Bates; 5. Elizabeth married Samuel Jordan and had Samuel Jordan, of 'Seven Islands,' Buckingham County, and Matthew (1716-1769). Samuel Jordan (1714-1789) married first Ruth Meridith and second (Widow) Judith Scott Ware.

"Matthew Jordan married Judith or Julia Scott, who was the daughter of Samuel's wife. (Judith Scott was the widow of Peter Ware and the aunt of General Charles Scott, afterwards Governor of Kentucky).

6. "A daughter who married Mr. Hughes. 7. A daughter who married Bowler Cocke.

JORDAN ARMS.

Bolling Fleming, lived in Cumberland County, Virginia, at 'Maiden's Adventure.' He died in 1767. By his wife Susannah, he had John who was killed at the battle of Princeton in 1777; Mary, who married Warner Lewis; Susannah, who married Addison Lewis.

Landon Bell, in "The Old Free State," gives a Fleming line reversed, going backward from Sir Thomas, the emigrant.

Line Reversed

Sir Thomas Fleming, of New Kent County, Virginia, was the son of John, fifth Lord Fleming, who was son of John fifth Lord Fleming, and Lord Chamberlain, who was the son of Sir Malcolm Fleming of Monacabo, who was the son of Sir Robert, Lord Fleming, who married Lady Janet Douglas, who was the daughter of James Douglas, Earl of Evandale, who was the son of Alexander, fourth Earl of Douglas, who was the son of Archibald the Grim, third Earl of Douglas, died 1401, who was the son of Good Sir James, or "The Black Douglas," who died in 1330.

The Princess Margaret, who married Archibald, Earl of Douglas, was the daughter of Robert III, King of Scotland (b. 1340, d. 1406) and his wife Annabel. King Robert III was the son of Robert II, King of Scotland (b. 1316, d. 1390), founder of the Stuart dynasty, and his wife, Elizabeth Mure; he was the son of Lord Walter Stuart and his wife, Marjory.

Marjory was the daughter of Robert de Bruce (b. 1210, d. 1295), fifth Lord of Annandale, who was the son of Robert, fourth Lord of Annandale (d. 1243) and his wife Isabel, who was the daughter of David, Earl of Huntington, a younger brother of King William the Lion-Hearted.

Robert, fourth Lord of Annandale was the grandson of Robert, second Lord of Annandale, who was the son of Robert, first Lord of Annandale (d. 1141), who was the son of Adam of Yorkshire, who was the son of Robert de Bruis (or De Brusi), Norman knight who came to England with William the Conqueror in 1066.

Robert de Bruis was a descendant of Sigurd or Siegfried, the famous Norse hero.

tion, as the negotiations of such draughts between individuals have been without a view to interest.

That similar draughts, excluding interest, were issued to the lines of Virginia and North Carolina, and though attended with a delay of payment, were afterwards taken up without allowance of interest; as is also daily the case in respect to warrants issued by the late Board of Treasury, for which an appropriation was made during the last session.

That, from the foregoing facts and considerations, the Secretary is of opinion that the claim of the memorialists to interest ought not to be admitted. The past situation of public affairs has unavoidably given too much occasion for complaints of individual hardship; but, in most instances, they are rather to be regretted than redressed. Confusion would ensue from a departure from former decisions and established usages, where the cases are not very peculiar and very clearly distinguishable as such.

All which is humbly submitted.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON, Secretary of the Treasury.

1st Congress.] No. 4. [2d Session.

APPLICATION OF THE OFFICERS OF THE REGIMENT OF ARTILLERY ARTIFICERS FOR HALF-PAY, OR THE COMMUTATION THEREOF.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MARCH 19, 1790.

WAR OFFICE, March 19, 1790.

The SECRETARY FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF WAR, to whom was referred the petition of Alexander Power and others, late officers of the regiment of artillery artificers, reports:

That the claim of the late officers of the regiment of artillery artificers for half-pay, or the commutation thereof, granted to the officers of the late army, was several times submitted to the United States in Congress assembled, and received their decision on the 19th day of October, 1785.

That the principles whereon the said decision was founded will fully appear by the reports of the late commissioner of army accounts and a committee of Congress, both of which are herewith submitted. (Nos. 1 and 2.)

That the said decision being against the claim of the said officers of artillery artificers, the same was referred the commissioners of army accounts to take order.

That the said decision appears to the Secretary of War to have been conformable to the several previous resolves of Congress relative to the object of half-pay, and that the same ought to be final.

That the petitioners again brought forward their claim to Congress in the year 1788, which was referred to the subscriber, whose report is herewith submitted, (No. 3,) but which was never acted upon.

The Secretary of War embraces this occasion respectfully to observe, that it is of high importance to adhere generally to the decisions of the late Congress on the subject of claims against the United States.

That he conceives no judgment of this nature should be reversed but on the most ample proof that the same was formed on a misrepresentation of facts; but that, while such judgments are reversed with great caution, constructive judgments made on previous resolves of Congress ought to remain fully established.

That if a contrary conduct should be admitted, the accounts hitherto settled by the United States, and by the respective States, with individuals, would be liable to revision and unlimited confusion.

That when the abilities, integrity, and liberality of the former Congresses be considered, it may be justly presumed that individuals experienced the fairest investigation of their claims, and that upright decisions were formed thereon.

That, with respect to the present petition, the Secretary of War is unable to perceive any new facts or circumstances of such a nature as to require a repeal of the former decision of Congress on the subject; he therefore reports the following resolve:

Resolved, That the petition of the late officers of the artillery artificers for the commutation of the half-pay cannot be granted, the United States in Congress assembled having decided against the same on the 19th of October, 1785.

All which is humbly submitted to the House of Representatives.

H. KNOX, Secretary of War.

[Papers referred to in the foregoing report.]

No. 1.

NEW YORK, August 9, 1785.

The commissioner for settling the army accounts, to whom was referred the petition of John Jordan and Thomas Willey, late captains in the Pennsylvania corps of artillery artificers, begs leave to report:

That there are no existing resolutions of Congress, in his opinion, on which the petitioners can found a claim for commutation in lieu of half-pay for life; and, therefore, if such a grant should be made, it will be necessary to adopt a new principle respecting the corps of artificers.

...Claim numbered 1, designated as Cat Island, contains 2,678.01 acres, most of which are unfit for cultivation. The permit on which this claim is founded calls for the whole island. From the long and continued inhabitation and cultivation it would claimant ought to be entitled to the whole island if the laws, usages, and customs of the Spanish government would warrant such an opinion.

American State Papers Vol. IX

The principles on which Captains Jordan and Willey appear to found their claim of commutation in lieu of half-pay, are, 1st, That Congress have considered them in sundry resolutions, as on the establishment of the army, and as part of the quota of the several States. 2d. That on the 11th of February, 1778, they had granted them the same pay, clothing, and benefits as the artillery; and on the 9th of February, 1780, were directed to be provided for, deemed and treated in the same manner as the several State lines. 3d. That on the 3d of October, 1780, Congress directed the artificers to be formed into one corps, and promised to the supernumeraries half-pay for seven years, and on the 21st of the same month extended the half-pay for life to the reduced officers and those who continued in service to the end of the war. As the former resolutions included the corps in express terms, it may be supposed it was intended to be comprehended in the latter. 4th. That they had been obliged to receive for their services the same kind of certificates with the military officers; being subjected, therefore, to their disadvantages, it is no more than reasonable that they should also have their privileges.

It may be necessary to premise, that it appears to be the intention of Congress to retain the allowance of commutation as much as possible; and, of course, where the clear intention of an act is not to be discovered in its words, the grant is not to be made by implication.

The commissioner, therefore, having founded his opinion on the following reasons, humbly submits the same to the consideration of Congress:

1st. That the assigning these corps as part of the State's quota was to determine the numbers of men who were to be furnished by each State, and to give their officers and men the advantages of the lines deserved immediately from the States, but cannot be construed to extend to any demands the military officers, as such, may have upon the Union.

2d. That the resolution of February 11, 1778, and February 9, 1780, ought not to extend to this allowance, because the words "benefits or emoluments" appear reasonably to include the usual pay, subsistence, forage, and servants of an officer only; more especially as at the time of passing these acts the grant of half-pay for life was not in existence, and as the last-mentioned resolution has included the exceptions that had heretofore been made respecting the artificers, which undoubtedly refers to the special exception in the resolve of November 16, 1779.

3d. That the resolve of October 3, 1780, granting the seven years' half-pay to the officers then deranged, having never been put into execution in respect to this corps, there can arise no question whether the officers are entitled to its benefits; but that the one of the 21st of October should be construed as comprehending the corps is very doubtful, as Congress, in their first promise of half-pay, confined it to military officers only, and have granted commissions to the artificers for the sole purpose of rank in their own corps, and to hold courts-martial; and Congress have also expressly, in a resolution recommending this corps to their States, excepted the allowance of half-pay; and when Colonel Baldwin's corps was reduced in 1781, the officers retired without a promise of it, which would have been necessary to have entitled even the military to such an allowance. It therefore appears to be the uniform intention of Congress, through their several acts before and after October, 1780, to exclude this corps from the half-pay; which furnishes sufficient foundation, with the nature of this promise, to conclude that the general term of the officers in the act of October 21, 1780, comprehends the military only.

4th. Whether it may be proper and reasonable to grant the commutation to these officers, in consideration of their being paid in the securities of the United States, or whether it will be just, in consideration that they are not entitled to the commutation, to pay them for the years 1782 and 1783, in specie, are questions that the commissioner cannot determine.

Resolves of Congress referred to in the foregoing.

A.—Resolve of February 11 and June 26, 1784.
B.—Resolve of February 11, 1784.
C.—Resolve of May 15, 1788.
D.—Resolve of February 11, 1788, and November 12, 1799.
E.—Resolve of November 11, 1779.
F.—Resolve of March 29, 1781.

No. 2.

Copy of a report of a committee of Congress of the 19th October, 1785, sent to the commissioner of army accounts to take order, it respecting the claims of Captains Jordan and Willey, and other officers of the corps of artificers, for commutation, of which committee Mr. Ellery was chairman.

The committee, consisting of Mr. Ellery, Mr. Gardner, and Mr. Williamson, to whom were referred the memorials of several officers of the late corps of artificers, praying that, in settling their accounts, they be allowed the commutation of half-pay, as founded on justice, or on the acts of Congress, beg leave to report:

That the claims of those officers do not appear to be founded on the usage of nations, nor in equity; they believe that half-pay has been allowed to military officers, partly to a regard to the hardships and personal dangers to which they were exposed, but chiefly from a consideration that, by a long continuance in the military line, they may have lost those habits by which they had formerly been enabled to provide for themselves or families, which reasons do not apply so fully to the officers of artificers.

Your committee are of opinion that their sole rule on the occasion must be the acts of Congress respecting the officers in the corps of artificers, and they do not find any resolution by which they are entitled to half-pay or commutation, on the contrary, they seem to be expressly cut off from any such claim.

The original act of Congress of May 15, 1778, by which half-pay was promised for seven years, confines the same to military officers, which certainly did not include the artificers; and your committee are of opinion that in all subsequent acts, which relate to the half-pay, the same denomination of officers must be intended, unless where other officers are expressly mentioned. Surely the act of October 2, 1780, promising half-pay to officers who might be deranged, never could be construed as giving pay to any class of officers who had no claim to half-pay, had they continued in service to the end of the war. If any doubts could have arisen whether the artificers were included in the promise of half-pay, it must be fully removed by the act of the 16th November, 1779. It was then

Who was the father of Edmund Jordan, born ca. 1761, died ca. 1836, m. Polly Ridley Pope, daughter of Lewis Pope? Edmund Jordan is listed in the DAR Patriot Index as having Revolutionary War service from Virginia.

John Jordan (mentioned earlier), Washington County, Georgia, was born 8 May 1756 in Greensville County, Va., the son of Burwell and Amy Curtis Dupree (widow). He was married 19 Feb. 1786, in Northampton County, N. C. to Winifred Jordan, daughter of George Jordan who was married to 1. Patience Warren and 2. Hannah Smith.

The Revolutionary Pension File, W29726, of JOHN JORDAN contains a statement by Ann Howell of Northampton County, N. C. that her father, Christopher Foster, and John Jordan were related by marriage. She further stated John Jordan's plantation and Christopher Foster's plantation joined. Furthermore, she testified her mother (Miranda Jordan Foster) was the sister of Edmund Jordan who died in Oglethorpe, Ga. in 1836.

Marriage records of Greensville County, Va. show a marriage license issued to Christopher Foster and Mirander Jordan, 24 Nov. 1785. Jeremiah DuPree and R____ DuPree were securities.

Greensville County Wills, 1781-1806 include the will of John DuPree written 28 Jan. 1788, and proven 24 Oct. 1788. In addition to the DuPree heirs named, John DuPree mentions Edmund Jordan, Merinda Foster and Thomas Jordan. However, the relationship is not stated.

A MUN JORDAN appears on only the 1783 Greensville County, Va. tax list as one tithable. Edmund Jordan appears on only the 1784 personal property list as one tithable. Neither name appears on the Greensville County tax list more than one year.

MUN JORDAN and Lawrence Smith were witnesses to the 1781 will of Mary Hart filed in March Court 1782, Northampton County, N. C. (Grimes, Will 167, p. 246).

of the Truth as professed by Friends. This brought upon him great trials and sufferings. His father turned him out of his house, and disinherited him. Finding himself thus cut off from the means of obtaining such a livelihood as from his birth, and family wealth, he might have expected to have had, he placed himself with a smith, which trade he learned, intending thereby to earn an honest, laborious livelihood for himself.

When about twenty-five years of age, in the year 1681, he removed to West Jersey, and settled in the city of Burlington, at which place he married a valuable young Friend, Abigail Perkins, on the 13th of the Ninth month, 1690. John Smith says of him, "He kept an open house for the entertainment of travelling Friends; was several years an overseer of the Particular Meeting he belonged to, and active in services of both church and state. He died on the 31st of Fifth month, 1715, in the fifty-ninth year of his age, leaving a good character." John adds of his wife, "Abigail Raper was daughter of William and Mary Perkins, of Selby, in Leicestershire, (which said William was son of Thomas Perkins, a Baptist preacher, in the same town.) Her parents were convinced when young, and brought their children with them on shipboard for America, in 1677. Her father died at sea, and her mother, in a few years, after settling the family at Burlington. Abigail survived her husband thirty-five years in reputable widowhood; was many years an appointed elder, an humble, charitable woman, and much beloved. She retained her memory and understanding clear to the last, and departed this life on the 18th of Tenth month, 1752, in the eighty-eighth year of her age."

CALEB RAPER.

Of this Friend, the son of Thomas and Abigail Raper, who was born at Burlington, Twelfth mo. 1st, 1693, and who, in the year 1719, married Mary, a daughter of Marmaduke and Ann Coate, both useful and worthy Friends of Springfield, West Jersey, I shall add in addition to the account formerly given of him, John Smith's brief testimony. "He was for some years a careful overseer and elder in the church, and of remarkable plainness and integrity in all his conduct. Beside the journeys he went with Robert Jordan, he frequently accompanied public Friends in their visits to neighbouring meetings, and as he was tender towards those who were rightly concerned in that weighty service, he showed it, by free and kind remarks, either verbally or in writing, upon any mistakes which such happened to make, either as to matter or manner; and was sharp in reproof to those, who were forward therein, or attempted to impose upon Friends without proper call or qualification. His last illness was the dropsy, of which he died on the 5th of Sixth month, 1745. Some of his last sensible expressions were a repetition of those beautiful words, in Isaiah. 'Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned, for she hath received of the Lord's hand double for all her sins.'"

Mary, the wife and widow of Caleb, and daughter of Marmaduke Coate, was for many years an esteemed elder of Burlington Monthly Meeting. She was married, in the year 1747, to Joseph Noble, of Philadelphia, who removed to reside with her at Burlington. "She was a pious woman, of a neighbourly and kind disposition, and died in good esteem." Ninth mo. 22d, 1764.

THE JORDAN FAMILY.

It is a consolatory observation, that where parents have been unusually subject to the Truth in themselves, that we often find in some of their descendants, marks of the distinguishing favours of the Most High. Although it does not always happen, that those who have been faithful in their day to the Lord's requirings, leave behind them descendants bound to uphold the doctrines and testimonies which were so dear to them, yet, nevertheless, it is often so remarkably the case, that we can therein see the gracious fulfilment of the character the Lord Almighty gave of himself as "showing mercy unto children's children of such as love me, and keep my commandments."

THOMAS AND MARGARET JORDAN.

Thomas and Margaret Jordan, of Nancemond county, Virginia, were two valuable Friends, who felt bound to endeavour, as the Lord gave them strength, to bring up their children in his fear. Their labours of love in this good cause were abundantly blessed, and they were permitted to see the wholesome restraints parental discipline had imposed, superseded by the more effectual and heart-reaching influences of the Lord's good Spirit, controlling and directing their steps through life. Of the time of the decease of these early labourers in the Lord's vineyard, we are not informed; but it was not until after they had seen of the fruit of their earnest labour on behalf of their children, and being satisfied thereby. Some of the children at least were valuable members of religious Society, and earnestly concerned in the love of Christ, that poor sinners should be invited to that fold of peace and true spiritual rest, which their dear parents had so earnestly loved, before these parents were removed to receive the reward of faithful dedication to the Lord's service.

ROBERT JORDAN THE FIRST.

Robert Jordan, son of the above Friends, was born in Virginia, Seventh month 11th, 1668; he was, says a memorial concerning him, "carefully educated in the way of Truth, by his worthy parents, who lived to see the religion of his education become that of his choice and practice in his mature years. In this he was preserved to the last, without wavering; in great peace with the Lord, and unity of his brethren. In the time of his illness, which continued about two weeks, he seemed to be very patient and resigned to the will of God, and much concerned for the everlasting welfare of his children. This he expressed in sweet and sensible exhortations, setting forth the benefit that would thereby accrue, in words of living experience. He often, in fervent prayer, desired that they might be preserved from the vanities and corruptions of this world, and that they might love and fear the Lord in their youth. At one time he said, 'O Lord! preserve my flock!—let them never go astray, nor forget thee, nor one another! O my God! hold them in thy arms, that none of them be lost! Let not the enemy prevail over them.'"

He was favoured to be humbly thankful for the mercies shown him by his dear Saviour from youth up, and blessed God that he had supported him under every dispensation of his Providence, even until that very time.

"He was," says a memorial of him, "a man given to hospitality, very ready to entertain strangers, especially the Lord's messengers, whom he treated with great respect and affection, honouring them for their work's sake. He was also charitable to the poor, and had frequent opportunities of doing them service in free cost, in the practice of physic. As a man of trade and commerce, he had obtained a good reputation in the world, and he declared he had never wronged any man knowingly in his life. In short, he was a loving husband, a tender father, a kind neighbour, and a good master. He departed this life the 3d of Eighth month, 1728." Before Robert was removed from works to rewards, he had the satisfaction of seeing two of his sons eminent ministers of the gospel. His son Robert, at the time of his death, had just left on a religious visit to Europe, and his son Joseph had just returned from a similar engagement.

BENJAMIN JORDAN.

Benjamin Jordan was also a son of Thomas and Margaret Jordan, and was born at Nancemond, Seventh month 18th, 1674. His pious parents, who had suffered in support of the Truth, which they professed, had endeavoured carefully to restrain him from evil, and to educate him in the belief of the same blessed doctrines and testimonies which they themselves held. Their godly example, restraining influence, seasonable advice and exhortations, were sanctified, through the all effectual influence of Divine grace, to him as well as several others of their large family of children. Benjamin, after that he had, through the teachings of the Holy Spirit, attained to some experience in the work of religion, gave up much of his time, and devoted his talents to waiting upon God, and performing services for his church and people.

He was much employed in the discipline, was clerk of both Monthly and Yearly Meetings, and was not only a believer in word, but in deed and in truth, being a good example of piety and charity, holding fast his integrity to the last. The day before his close, several of his neighbours came to visit him in his sick chamber. To one of them, who was in a prosperous condition as to worldly matters, and to whom, in his self-exalted state, the way of Truth seemed low and despicable, he said, "Rejoice, oh, young man, in thy youth, and let thy heart cheer thee in the ways of thy heart, and in the sight of thine eyes, but know thou for all these things, God will bring thee to judgment." To another one of his visitors, who had been under serious impressions, but had not been obedient to the requirings of duty, he said, "Blessed are they that hear the word of God, and do it." Another one, who, he believed, was more anxious to obtain the honour of this world, than the honour which the Lord gives to his faithful little ones, he told, he "looked too big to enter in at the strait gate."

During the days of his health, he had borne a testimony against making the time of a funeral a season of feasting, and now in the prospect of his own speedy departure, he gave directions, that no more than sufficient provision should be made. One of his brothers then asked him, "How is it with thee?" He replied, "As to my eternal state, nothing but well." He soon afterwards held up his hands, and said, "Lord Jesus, into thy hands I commit my spirit! Lord, help me at this time." He then, in great quietness, passed away, Twelfth month 12th, 1716, aged about forty-two years.

About the year 1707 or 1708, Benjamin Jordan married Sarah Robinson, an exemplary young woman, who, with her mother and step-father, that eminent minister of the gospel, Joseph Glaister, had shortly before settled in Virginia. After the decease of Benjamin Jordan, who left her with three children, she married James Bates, a valuable minister. By him she had two children, who lived to maturity. He also deceased whilst her offspring were young in years, leaving them to her care. It is recorded of her, that "she discharged the duty of a mother, and governess of a numerous family in a becoming, steady and exemplary manner." She survived her last husband more than thirty years, "and was a woman endowed with a truly quiet and christian disposition, which seems to have made good and lasting impressions on her children. She departed this life the 9th of Twelfth month, 1756, aged nearly seventy years, and left a good name behind her."

THE JORDAN FAMILY.—JOSEPH JORDAN.

Joseph Jordan, the third son of Robert Jordan, was born in Nancemond county, Virginia, in the year 1695. He was, says a memorial concerning him, one of "the third generation who have walked in this dispensation of Truth;" his parents and grand-parents having, through the Lord's sustaining virtue, borne the cross of Christ, and walked in the narrow way which leads to everlasting life. He was of a sprightly turn of mind, of an affable disposition, and of a pleasant, even temper, which made his company generally acceptable, and opened the way for his associating with many, esteemed of the better sort. But whilst he walked in his own will, and had not taken up the cross of Christ, all his natural gifts and talents, which made him popular amongst men, were but in his way as to the one thing needful, the salvation of his soul. About the year 1717, when he was twenty-two years of age, Lydia Lancaster and Elizabeth Crewlinson, ministers of the gospel from England, visiting Virginia, were made the instruments of good to him and his younger brother Robert. His memorial says, "It pleased the propitious Goodness to give him a signal call, which he, like Zaccheus, ingenuously made haste and with joy embraced, both the message and messenger of salvation." Having, with all earnestness and with full purpose of heart, given up to the Divine visitation, he rapidly grew in the Truth, and very soon after, both he and his brother received a gift in the ministry of the gospel of Christ.

He had an excellent gift, and waiting in fervent exercise upon the Lord, his alone Qualifier for service, he became a workman who needed not to be ashamed. His manner was grave and modest, his matter well adapted to those amongst whom he laboured, so that he had great place amongst men of different denominations. "Many have been the short systems of divinity which he declared in apostolic language." Although he was not a scholar, as to human acquirements, yet had he truly the tongue of the learned. He was "both correct and concise in speaking the word in season, insomuch that sundry persons of note and good judgment, have confessed to the Truth, and embraced the doctrine he preached."

He suffered persecution, but "being patient in tribulation, he had the joy of hope which affords content and solace of mind." In the year 1724, he went to Europe on a religious visit, which occupied him more than three years. In that time he laboured in most parts of England, in Ireland, and some places in Holland. His memorial says, "At his return, which was attended with peace, he found his presence necessary, even in a temporal respect, for upon the death of his aged father, [Eighth mo. 3d, 1728,] he was constituted father of the family, his brother Robert being then absent, which trust he discharged with good judgment and moderation. He was a steady friend, a kind neighbour, and good economist. He often intimated that he should not continue long, wherefore he used diligence to set his house in order. Some small time before his death, he visited the meetings of Friends in Virginia and North Carolina, and edified them with his gift."

In the early part of the week before his death, although very feeble in body, he attended the Quarterly Meeting to which he belonged, and at his return expressed the great satisfaction it had been to him, and said he believed it would be the last meeting of the kind he should ever be at. It proved to be according to his impression. He never left his home afterwards, except once to attend a week-day meeting held near his residence. The day before his death, to some young ministers, he said, "Mind your gifts, and the Lord will bless you, and you will be a blessing to the church. Be humble and obedient. Obedience brings sweet peace. When you are at meeting together, if the Lord should favour one of you with the word of life to preach in an extraordinary manner, let not either of the rest murmur at it, or be discouraged, but rather [endeavour inwardly to] labour, [to assist] him or her, who is so favoured. It may be this is not thy time to speak. As thou keeps humbly waiting on the Lord, he will, in his own time, bring thee forth in an eminent manner. So thou wilt have peace in thyself, and grow in his grace from one degree to another. Be not very desirous of speaking much at a time. Some who are small in their beginning, the Lord makes mighty in his own time. I have a great desire there might be a right ministry continued in the church. There are many, not strictly of this fold, which in due time the Lord will bring in. As you come to have an experience of the work of Truth, in your own hearts, you will be able to confute them, who persuade themselves there is no living without sin in this world. I say you will be able, from your own experience, to confute them; then you will be made, in measure, like the stone which the prophet Daniel saw, cut out of the mountain, without hands, which was able to break in pieces all things contrary thereto. I am not in a condition to speak much, neither is it, I hope, very needful. As you are taught of the Lord, you will have cause to rejoice in him in whom you have believed."

So having completed his exhortations, and, as we believe, finished his short day's work, he, in much resignation of mind, in the enjoyment of sweet peace with the Lord, departed this life on the 26th day of the First month, 1735, being forty years of age.

Of Robert Jordan, the second, the brother of the above Joseph, an extended biography has already appeared in these biographical sketches. Of Samuel Jordan, probably a younger brother, I find but little to record, save that he was eminent as a minister, and several times visited Friends in the Middle and Northern provinces. One of the sisters of Robert and Joseph married Thomas Pleasants, who was a valuable minister, as we shall see hereafter.

JOHN AND JANE PLEASANTS.

John Pleasants, the first settler, bearing that name, in Virginia, was born in the city of Norwich, old England, some years previously to 1650. When he had arrived at man's estate, he was sent over to America as a factor for a merchant, and after some time took up his abode at Curles, in Henrico county, Virginia. His education had, without doubt, been in the established church, but he was convinced of the Truth as held by Friends, and became an honest, humble walker therein, and suffered in support of the Truth he professed. About the year 1670, he was married to Jane, the widow of Captain Samuel Tucker, from Bristol. There was, at that time, no Monthly Meeting of Friends, in the neighbourhood of Curles, and probably not in Virginia. Being unable, therefore, to lay their intentions before a meeting of that sort, they convened a company of Friends and others, in his own store-house, before whom they made public that they intended marriage with each other. Having thus given opportunity for any who thought they had cause to object to come forward, and none appearing, they some time afterwards went to a public meeting of Friends held in York county, where the marriage was solemnized. By this connection, John obtained a valuable help-meet, as respects time and eternity. She was an earnest advocate for the Truth, a practical living example thereof in her own conduct and conversation, and was endowed with a gift in the ministry of the gospel of Christ. A testimony concerning him says, "They lived together many years in a comfortable and exemplary manner, agreeable to the principles of Truth, and were diligent in attending meetings, as well those at a distance as that at Curles, in the settlement whereof they were the principal instruments in the hand of Providence. He was a man so generally respected amongst his neighbours, that without his solicitation he was twice chosen representative for the county." The office, however, he never filled, as he was conscientiously restrained from taking the customary oaths. After a life of usefulness in the community, and of faithful dedication in the church militant, he was called to the recompense of reward, about the year 1698. His memorial adds, "As he was much beloved, so he was much missed by his neighbours, friends and family."

Of his widow, a memorial says, she "was zealous for the cause of Truth, and had a gift in the ministry which was very acceptable to Friends, and particularly serviceable at that early time in a wilderness country, the good effect whereof was very visible in the place where she lived for a long time." She survived her beloved husband, and, although advanced in age, was very diligent in the attendance of religious meetings, and earnest in fulfilling her social duties. As long as her bodily strength enabled her, she rode on horseback by herself; but becoming feeble, several years before her death, she rode behind one of her servants; "and so," adds her memorial, "continued to visit Friends, and attend meetings, to near the last period of her time." She "departed this life in a good old age, in the year 1708."

JOHN PLEASANTS, THE SECOND.

John Pleasants, eldest son of John and Jane Pleasants, was born at Curles, in the year 1671. He was early visited by the Lord's Holy Spirit, through submission to which he became convinced of the Truth, and, in the words of a memorial concerning him, "was in a good degree faithful to the measure of Grace, he had received, which enabled him to suffer persecution for the cause of Truth, and to be serviceable in his day and station." He married Dorothy Cairey, daughter of Thomas Cairey, of the county of Warwick. She proved a valuable and exemplary wife. They were concerned to govern their family of six children in the fear of the Lord, and his grace accompanying it, caused their labours to be blessed. Says his memorial, "He was a good neighbour, a loving husband, a kind master, and a tender father, whom it pleased the Lord to call from works to rewards in the prime of life." He died in the year 1713, aged about forty-two years.

THOMAS PLEASANTS.

Thomas, the eldest son of the last named Friends, John and Dorothy Pleasants, was born Ninth mo. 3d, 1695. He was blest with a good natural understanding, and his father procured for him the advantage of a good literary education, whilst endeavouring to bring him up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. The advantages he derived from the care and religious oversight of his parents, were manifest, and although still in his minority at the time of his father's death, and deprived thereby of his advice in that critical period of life, yet he was preserved in outward innocence amongst men, and in a good degree of holy stability and faithfulness before the Lord.

As he increased in age, he married Mary, a daughter of Robert Jordan, and a sister of Robert, the eminent minister of that name, and thereby being furnished with a companion, of a religious character, he still grew in grace, and gave proof of increased dedication to the Lord's will. In the twenty-ninth year of his age, [1724,] he was called to the work of the ministry. He accompanied his brother-in-law, Robert Jordan, in 1725, on a religious visit to Friends of Maryland. Robert styles him "a hopeful minister."

His memorial says, "He laboured both amongst Friends and other people, where no meetings had been before, much to the satisfaction of all." His labours were "much confined to his own country, where there was much need of faithful labourers. He was not discouraged at the smallness of the number from endeavouring to discharge his duty, as well amongst Friends belonging to the adjacent meetings, as those at a distance, and was instrumental in the convincement of several in the upper parts of the colony, as well as in the settlement of two or three meetings. He wrote an epistle a few years before his death, directed to Friends in every station, but more particularly the ministers, which tends to confirm that his diligence and labours proceeded from an earnest concern for the promotion of Truth and a right gospel ministry. Indeed he was a man much devoted to the service of Truth, and was a considerable sufferer for bearing his testimony against priest's wages, and was once imprisoned on that account." * * He "left a pretty numerous offspring, some of them young, for whose eternal welfare, we have great reason to believe, he was particularly solicitous. Being once very ill, while on a visit to Friends at some distance from home, he seemed most ardently to desire that he might finish his course among his dear children, in order that he might have an opportunity at that awful period to enforce his advices, and promote the cause of God, to which he was much devoted to the last."

His death took place at his own dwelling, Eleventh mo. 24th, 1744.

MARGARET PLEASANTS.

Margaret, a daughter of Robert Jordan, of Nancemond county, Virginia, was one who not only had heard the call of her dear Saviour, but had submitted thereto. She was endowed with a good understanding, and manifested a good degree of piety and humility, and was conspicuous for her plainness and christian example. She was married to John Pleasants, the third of that name, who had walked in the truth, and becoming a mother, she was anxious, by precept and example, to bring up her children in the path of self-denial and dedication to the Lord's will. In the language of her memorial, "Though of a more than common tender and indulgent disposition towards them in other respects, she was very careful to restrain them from every hurtful or unprofitable thing."

She was one of exemplary patience under suffering, some remarkable instances of which fell to her lot. Soon after the birth of her first child, the sheriff of the county came to her husband's house, and on account of demands for priest's wages, which for conscience' sake they could not pay, seized the very bed she was on. These trials and difficulties did not shake her faith. She was concerned to attend religious meetings whenever able, and was an example of humble waiting therein. She was diligent in the perusal of the Holy Scriptures, and very glad of the company of Friends. Her economy and diligence in her family concerns were remarkable, and her household always appeared with a becoming decency. She avoided superfluities in her house, and on her table, even when, through the blessing of the Lord on their industry, they were favoured with an affluence. She was a kind and charitable neighbour, a loving dutiful wife and a good mistress. One of her sons being absent in Philadelphia, she wrote to him, as follows, viz: "Oh! the goodness of the Almighty is very great every way; for which we have cause to bless his great and worthy name. We have as much need as ever, dear child, to look unto the Lord for help and strength every moment; for all our time is a time of need. I trust in the Lord that he is and will be with thee. The desire and prayer of thy tender mother is, that thou may

Dear Mrs. Hemingway:

I hope that this is a currant address for you. I have seen your query in Family Puzzlers and wished to see if you would like to exchange any information on the Jordan line.

I have run across an Absalom Jourdan and perhaps have some records on that line in my files. It is not my husband's line for I am researching a Benjamin Jordan.

Since your Absalom has a brother named Benjamin I was curious if you had any miscellaneous (to you) information on Benjamin that might help me.

Dear Vivian: Absalom Jourdan of Bedford county, Va. is a brother to my ancestor. Absalom had a brother named Benjamin. There are a number of Absalom Jordans in Goochland and Henrico. I am not researching the siblings, so I have nothing much on Absalom or Benjamin.

My straight line of Jourdans never settled in Georgia. I'm trying to find where Turner E. Jordan and Felix Lawson Jordan died in Texas. As Texas has 255 counties I dont know where to start, this would be after 1880.

PREFACE

In one of the public buildings in our city, Dr. Jordan's little history had been placed in a bin years ago and, with innumerable other papers, had been forgotten. It was quite by accident, about forty years later, one of our members came upon the booklet while attempting to bring order out of chaos in this bin. We wonder how many more significant documents are unknown and/or forgotten that would bring much needed light on the past of our city and county?

The booklet was brought to the attention of the Society's Executive Board. Upon reviewing the history, it was thought to be of such interest that it warranted being our first publication. The Society voted to undertake its printing.

Investigation brought to light the fact that William Wellington Jones was a grandson of Dr. Jordan. After Mr. Jones consulted with the other descendants of Dr. Jordan, permission was granted to publish the history as written.

During his lifetime Dr. Jordan had someone type several copies of the booklet, and our publication is an exact duplicate.

Your committee wishes to thank Roy Jones and his son, William Wellington Jones, for keying the present farms and their owners on the map of Sleepy Hole District. William T. Watson's drawing of the subject area is most meaningful and in our opinion, adds much to the publication. Our thanks to Harrell R. Pratt and Linwood H. Duck, Jr., for their hours of assistance in the compilation. And to Mrs. Judith Matteson we are indebted for her helpful suggestions in the formation of the booklet and serving as our typist in this endeavor.

INTRODUCTION

Little did the author of this small volume ever expect that the hours he whiled away in his old age by writing the contents hereof would produce a work of sufficient interest to warrant publication. It was written, as the author says, "thinking it would probably interest my children and grandchildren to learn who were the owners of the farms I shall mention for one hundred years and more down to the present." Many of these farms have long since been replaced by housing developments, but the interest of the author's descendants has spread to many of those who now occupy the land, as well as to others who treasure the simplicity of style, the numerous anecdotes of early life in America, and the facts of local history which this small book contains and which have produced the demand for its publication.

Beginning in 1907, Dr. Jordan, whose ancestors landed at Jamestown and who served the people of the Driver community as their friend and family physician for more than fifty years, recorded, as time would permit, both local history as he knew it and as it was told to him by those much older. Thus he covers a period from the Revolutionary War to World War I. He completed his writing just as America entered that first great conflict, which he lived to see successfully concluded, as well as to see the beginning of the many changes in life which it brought about.

INTRODUCTION

Little did the author of this small volume ever expect that his hours be walled away in his old age by writing the contents herein would produce a work of sufficient interest to warrant publication. It was written as the author says, "thinking it would probably interest my children and grandchildren to learn who were the owners of the farms I shall mention for one hundred years and more down to the present." Many of these farms have long since been replaced by housing developments, but the ancestor of the author's descendants has spared to many of those who now occupy the land, as well as to others who treasure the simplicity of style, the numerous anecdotes of early life in America, and the facts of local history which this small book contains and which have produced the demand for its publication.

Beginning in 1607, Dr. Jordan, whose ancestors landed at Jamestown and who served the people of the Indian Department as their friend and family physician for more than fifty years, recorded, as this would permit, both local history as he knew it and as it was told to him by those much older. Thus he covers a period from the Revolutionary War to World War I. He completed his writing just as America entered that first great conflict which he lived to see successfully concluded, as well as to see the beginning of the many changes in life which it brought about.

Dr. Jordan concludes the writing of his recollections by saying, "There is a vast difference in this neighborhood." It is because of this vast difference that his work now takes on added meaning for us.

The author's grandchildren and great-grandchildren, of whom I am one, are grateful to the Suffolk-Nansemond Historical Society for the publication of this book; for in this way it will reach those who possess the interest and will perhaps also aid an organization dedicated to a better future through a keener appreciation of the past. This undoubtedly is a fulfillment of the fondest dreams of the author.

Driver, Virginia,

two farms; the lower part on the main Bennett's Creek belonged to a man by the name of King; the upper portion to Dr. Thos. Jordan and Wm. Jordan, known as "Hell Cat Bill". Mr. Joseph Wright bought both, or rather all three, interests and lived to be an old man, retaining all of this farm until he died; after his death his son William J. became the owner of the whole tract. He was married three times and had quite a large family, mostly boys. After he died all of his real estate was sold. The lower part became the property of his son, Dr. T. Judson Wright. The upper portion was bought by Henry Kirn and J. T. Griffin and Dr. W. E. Kemble. The portion bought by Kirn and Griffin now belongs to Jno. Eberwine.

The next place adjoining the last mentioned was originally owned by a man by the name of Handy. When he died it was bought by a man whose name was Bains Roberson. He put down some "rats-bane" (arsenic) for rats and accidentally got a dose of the same and died. After his death, Mr. W. J. Wright became the owner; and after Mr. Wright's death Dr. Kimble and Dr Wright purchased it; and at Kimble's death it fell into the hands of Kelly of Richmond.

Just across the little creek and to the south, we come to the farm of Dr. Elverton Browne, who was the original owner as far as I have ever heard. He was a brother of Dr. Samuel Browne, mentioned before. Dr. E. Browne owned and lived on this farm until his death. He had only one child a daughter, Adethe negro baptists of that section by purchase of the white baptists. (It was a shame that the white baptists should have thrown the "old mother" aside, but it was done by the baptists in the neighborhood of "Sycamore", her eldest "daughter.")

West and adjoining this old baptist ground is the farm given to the wife of Dr. A. W. Wilson by her father Ezekiel Powell, and where the doctor and she resided. She died early in life leaving one child, Alpheus. The doctor remained a widower until he died, when Alpheus his son came in possession of all the above mentioned farms. He soon married, became addicted to the habits of his ancestors and died early in life. After his death W. and J. Parker of Portsmouth became owners of the whole estate, and they hold it at this day.

I will now carry you back to a section that I purposely left out in order to be a little systematic. We will travel down "Quaker Neck" road to the west, and after leaving the west boundary of E. K. Raby's farm, we come to a small farm now held by a negro, Jacob Goodman, that was a hundred years back owned by Wm. Jordan (called Old Field Billy); it descended to his daughter Lovey, who lived to a good old age; married twice, the last time to Jno. Gomer. She remained the owner as long as she lived; and at death, left it to her son Jno. Gomer, Jr. He became dissatisfied and sold to a liquor man in Portsmouth, Plummer, who sold it to above mentioned negro, Jacob Goodman.

Carney; and Jas. Carney, having purchased the Tygart & Allen Company's interest, became the owner of the whole tract and still holds it.

South of it and adjoining this tract is the old Jordan farm. William Jordan, who was called "Gentleman Billy", owned this place long before the Revolutionary War, and was a prominent and influential man in the neighborhood and in his Church (Quaker Church), died leaving his whole estate to his wife, Anne Jordan, who lived sometime after his death, and having no child, left the most of the estate to her husband's nephew, W. E. Jordan, at her death, to the great chagrin of some of her own relatives; and W. E. Jordan, at his death gave this tract to his son, Jno. K. Jordan, who lived a few years after marriage, died leaving a widow and two sons. (It was on this place I was born November 13, 1835). A few years after, the farm was sold, and Robt. Jordan bought it, and still owns it. (He is dead, but his widow and two sons own it.)

Just across a deep branch to the south of the above was another settlement owned by a family of Buckston's, they sold out to "Gentleman Billy Jordan, and thus it became one farm as it now stands. There is a noted spring in that branch that has always been called Buckston Spring.

We will go east along Quaker Neck road and to the south of the tract owned by J. E. Jordan and adjoining the same, is the old Thos. Wainwright place; the widow and chilof the Wainwright and Denby tracts and made one farm of it. This farm afterwards became the property of E. D. Hargroves. After his death, Williams Bros. and Jas. Barnes of Norfolk purchased and still hold it.

South of this farm and just across a branch of Bennett's Creek is a farm that was owned by Saml. Lightfoot up to the main stage road to Portsmouth, (some of his descendants now live in Norfolk). This farm was bought by Willis Hargroves Sr. Between these farms there was a tide grist mill, now called Cow Bridge.

Just across the main road was a tract of land owned by my grandfather, Edmond Jordan, and grandmother, Zilla Jordan. At their death a large portion was heired by Robt. Jordan a brother of W. E. Jordan, and after his death it was sold, and Willie Hargroves Sr. bought it.

Between these two tracts and Dr. A. W. Wilson's line is a tract that once belonged to a family by name of Bullard; they sold out to Willis Hargroves Sr. and moved away. Jas. Hargroves Jr., son of above, heired this farm, and it is still owned by the family. The other two farms, Lightfoot and Jordan, were willed to his son Willis Hargroves Jr. The father of these two boys, Willis and Jas., died when the boys were quite young; the boys are now dead and the property of each still remains in the family of each.

Across the main stage road is the "Saunders Place", another one of the Poor's places; and at this time occupied by C. E. Reynolds.

South of and adjoining this place is another small farm the history of which I can only trace to Wm. Redd as the first owner. He died and his son William heired it, and he sold it to E. J. Driver to whose estate it now belongs.

Still farther south and adjoining this place is a farm that once belonged to Edward, James, and Washington Browne. It was sold for a division by their uncle, Jack Mintor, to a man whose name was Wilson Williams, who originally came from the northwestern portion of Norfolk Co., who held it and gave it to his son Saml. at his death. It was called Sam. Williams old place for many years. When he died this descended to his wife and only child, Mary Anne. (I shall speak of Wilson Williams again.)

East and adjoining this place was a piece of timbered land that also adjoins the Willis Hargrove tract, which was the property of Edward Jordan, my grandfather. After his death, my father, W. E. Jordan heired it. After owning it many years he sold it to Thomas Kilby; who, after sawing the best of the timber, sold it to Wm. Warrington, who sold to Jno. R. Kilby, who sold it to J. R. Trammell, and it now belongs to a colony of negroes too numerous to mention even if I knew all of their names.

I will now go back to the old mill-run on the old stage road, and after crossing the run come to the farm that, as far as I have ever heard, dated back to the Bakers, my grandmother's people, as first owner. She heired it, and it went to my grandfather, Edward Jordan, by marriage. There was a gristmill there as the dam now there shows, and where the public road crosses on. The mill was called Jordan's Mill. This was a public place long before Hargroves' was established. I have heard my father say, who if living today, would be 110 years old. My grandfather was fond of sporting and soon was compelled to sell this place.

Mr. Jno. C. Hatton (some of whose family afterwards moved to Portsmouth, and some of whose descendants are still living there) bought it, and the old mill changed its name to Hatton's Mill. A part of Hatton's people were buried on the old churchyard hill just across the run. He sold out this farm to Wilson Williams, who it appears lived there for some years, when he died, leaving it, as well as the Browne farm aforementioned, to his son Samuel Williams. He lived on this farm for some years, married, and not many years after died, leaving his widow and only one child Mary Anne. The widow married again, but had no more children, so at her death the girl heired the whole estate. Mary Anne married a short time before her mother's death, a very worthy young man, E. J. Driver, and raised up a small family of children. He was a very industrious, energetic, and prosperous man, and a good citimanded a Pinnace under Cuthbert Fenwick, general agent under Lord Baltimore. He took part with Richard Ingle in 1644, and was evidently a Protestant Like many other men in that day, he could not write. He removed across the Potomac and settled at Appomattox (now Mattox). Having examined the records of Westmoreland more closely, I venture to present the following tentative pedigree:

ANDREW[1] MONROE married Elizabeth—and died before 1668, leaving issue, according to a deed made by the widow to them, 2 Elizabeth, who married Bunch Roe, 3 Susan, 4 Andrew, 5 George, 6 William. The widow in 1679 had for husband George Horner.

ANDREW[2] MONROE (Andrew[1]) (born about 1664) married Elinor Spence. Patrick Spence, her father, died in 1685, and his widow, Dorcas, married John Jordan, whose will was proved January 27, 1696. In 1705 Andrew Monroe made a deed for three acres to John Hore, part of a tract patented by his father, Andrew Monroe, in 1652. Andrew Monroe married secondly about 1707, Sarah, widow of John Elliot. His will was dated December 30, 1713, and proved May 26, 1714. Issue named in John Jordan's will, 7 Elizabeth, married Arrington, and had John Arrington; named in his own will, 9 Andrew under eighteen, 10 Spence under eighteen, to have a negro, "given him by his grandmother Jordan, his silver-hilted sword, his drum, a gold ring, and a sorrel horse he calls his." In his inventory are mentioned six case-knives and forks and three large pictures.

9 ANDREW[3] MONROE (Andrew[2] Andrew[1]) came of age in 1718, (court order); married Jane Watts, daughter of Richard Watts and sister of Margaret Strother and Mary Blackburn, two other daughters (see will of Mary (Watts) Chilton, dated April 3, 1737). He was a merchant, and married secondly in 1762 Margaret Washington (deed). His will was dated May 11, 1769, and proved March 27, 1770. Issue, 11 John Monroe, who married Jane—and had five children: Elliott Monroe, to whom land in Loudoun county, John Monroe, Jane Monroe, and Elizabeth Monroe. Executors: Dr. James Bankhead, John Ashton and Spence Monroe.

CHAPTER ONE

HILL FAMILY ROOTS IN ENGLAND AND IRELAND

Handed down through the generations of our Hill family is the tradition that our first ancestor in America was a William Hill who left England to escape persecution for his religious beliefs. He was one of many Englishmen driven by the strict laws and corruption of the state church to reject its doctrines and the supremacy of the ruling monarch as its head.

History tells the story of the troubled times in England during the succession of reigning monarchs from King Henry VIII to Charles II. It was the period of the Reformation of the Church of England and a time of upheaval and conflict. Many people in England opposed the changes and the strict government enforcement of the new laws. As a group, these people were called Puritans and held widely different views. Various laws were passed to ensure that everyone in England would conform to the new laws of the state church. Because the Church did not allow any freedom of conscience in matters of religion and enacted harsh new penalties to enforce obedience to the Church authorities, many Puritans decided to leave England.

It was in the reign of Queen Elizabeth I that the Puritans first began to suffer from this intolerant policy. A Bill of Coercion was passed by Parliament to deal with the increasing problem of religious dissenters. This bill provided that any person who refused to attend church during the space of a month, or who denied the supremacy of the Queen in church affairs, or who attended religious assemblies other than those of the Established Church, should be committed to prison. Unless he recanted within three months he would be banished, and, if he returned, he would be put to death. The prisons were soon full of dissenters, and once their prison terms were completed many of these people fled to the Netherlands.

These non-conformist Englishmen of free thought were first called "Separtists" or "Brownists" after their leader, Robert Browne. Browne was the first to preach openly on English soil the doctrine of the separation of church and state. He fled England in the 1580's and established the Ancient Church in the Netherlands.

Dear Mrs. Jordan,

I saw your name in the N. C. Genealogical Society Index to Ancestors. I'm wondering if the Benjamin Jordan you listed is the same one that was in the household of John T. Jordan in Pike county, Ga. in 1850. I'm also doing Jordans. Even though I haven't found any Benjamins in my direct line, I have certainly come across a lot of them. I have been corresponding with a Mr. Thomas who is the great grandson of this John T. Jordan. He has been trying to find out if this Benjamin Jordan listed with him in 1850 is his father and also, if John T. Jordan had any brothers and sisters, and if so, what were their names. He knows he had 2 sisters, Elizabeth and Adeline, but wonders if there were more.

If this is the same Benjamin Jordan, I would appreciate it if you would let me know if you know whether John T. Jordan was his son. If this does prove to be a mutual ancestor of Mr. Thomas and yourself, I will give you his address so you can write him and compare notes, and possibly help each other. I do hope this is his great-great grandfather, because he's been looking a long time.

Sincerely,

Helen M. Sammons

Feb. 17, 1950

Dear Mrs. Jordan,

Just saw your name in the N. C. Genealogical Society Index to Newspapers.

I'm wondering if the Benjamin Jordan you listed in the same one that was in the Bookshelf of John T. Jordan in Pike county, Ga. in 1850. I'm also doing Jordans, even though Jordan's found my Ancestors in my direct line. I have certainly read across a lot of them. I have been corresponding with a Mr. Thomas who is the great grandson of this John T. Jordan. He was been trying to find out if this Benjamin Jordan listed with him in 1850 is his father and also, if John T. Jordan had any brothers and sisters, and if so, what were their names. We know he had 2 brothers, Elbanus and Ambrose, but wonder if there were more.

If this is the same Benjamin Jordan, I would appreciate it if you would let me know if you know whether John T. Jordan was his son. If this does prove to be a mutual ancestor of Mr. Thomas and yours, I will give you his address so you can write him and compare notes, and possibly help each other. We have this in his great-great grandfather, because we have been looking a long time.

Dear Mr. Thomas,

I symphathize with you in your search for John T. Jordan's father. As Mrs. Watkins said, they can be a real problem. I have a lot of material on the Jordans in general and have looked over all of it, but cannot find anything that will definitely help you. I was a long time finding my great grand-dad Jordan's father, but I finally did and also his grandfather and so I have hopes that I can go further.

There are a few names on that list in the newsletter that I can identify, so I'll give you those. However, it's been such a long time since that letter was written that you may already know about these.

The Frederick Jordan that died in Wayne County, N. C. in 1795 was my great-great-great grandfather. He had sons, Frederick (who was my great-great grandfather), Avon, Charles, and Matthew. All of the sons went to Georgia in the early 1800's and settled in Jefferson County. All of them stayed in Jefferson except Avon who moved to Monroe county and died there. Frederick Jordan, Jr. died in Jefferson in 1820. He had sons, James A.. Thomas G., Jesse Pridgen (who was my great grandfather), and Sterling Green Jordan. For some reason my great grandfather, Jesse, came back to North Carolina and died in Pender County, N. C. in 1881.

Avon Jordan was a Revolutionary War veteran and received lands in the 1832 land lottery. He died around 1835. James A. Jordan went to Miss. in the late 1820's and lived there for the rest of his life. He married Rebecca Ball.

John C. and Rhoda Jordan, parents of Elvers Jordan who moved from the Neuse River in N. C. were John Chanley Jordan and Rhoda Sorrell ~~Jordan~~ from Pitt County, N. C., married in 1789 in Wake County, N. C.

The James A. Jordan who lived in Pike County and married Martha Bull left Pike County in 1848, lived in Alabama, and Arkansas, and finally ended up in Williamson County, Texas. I believe this James A. Jordan was probably brother or close kin to your John T. Jordan and George Jordan, of Pike.

I have corresponded with a descendant of this James A. Jordan . She said that James A. Jordan's father was unknown. She thinks that he was James Jordan, a trader with the Indians working for the government. She sent me some information and a copy of a transaction dated June 7, 1842 in Pike county which read- Sheriff's sale of land seized in satisfaction of a debt of Nathan Holliday, James A. Jordan, and George Jordan to Egbert P. Daniel. Described as the property of James A. Jordan, Dist. 9, No. 200,

Dear Mr. Thomas,

I sympathize with you in your search for John T. Jordan's father. As Mrs. Watkins said, they can be a real problem. I have a lot of material on the Jordans in general and have looked over all of it, but cannot find anything that will definitely help you. I was a long time finding my great grandfather Jordan's father, but I finally did and also his grandfather and so I have hopes that I can go further.

There are a few names on that list in the newsletter that I can identify, so I'll give you those. However, it's been such a long time since that letter was written that you may already know about these.

The Frederick Jordan that died in Wayne County, N. C. in 1795 was my great-great-great grandfather. He had sons, Fred (who was my great-great grandfather), Aron, Charles, and Matthew. All of the sons went to Georgia in the early 1800's and settled in Jefferson County. All of them died in Jefferson except Aron who moved to Monroe County and died there. Frederick Jordan, Jr. died in Jefferson in 1820. He had sons, James A., Thomas, Jesse Fridgen (who was my great grandfather), and Sterling. Jesse Jordan, for some reason my great great grandfather, Jesse, came back to North Carolina and died in Tender County, N. C. in 1841.

Aron Jordan was a Revolutionary war veteran and received lands in the 1819 land lottery. He died around 1825. James A. Jordan went to Ohio in the late 1820's and lived there for the rest of his life. He married Rebecca Hall. John C. and Mark Jordan, records of Rivers Jordan who moved from the Tugaloo River in T. C. were John Stanley Jordan and Rhoda Sorrell Jordan from Pitt County, N. C., married in 1793 in Wake County, N. C.

The James T. Jordan who lived in Pike County and married Martha Ann L. C. Pike County in 1843, lived in Alabama, and Arkansas, and finally died up in Williamson County, Texas. I believe this James A. Jordan was probably brother or close kin to your John T. Jordan and George Jordan, of Pike.

I have corresponded with a descendant of this James A. Jordan. The said that James A. Jordan's father was unknown. She thinks that he was James Jordan, a trader with the Indians working for the government. She sent me some information and a copy of a commemoration dated June 7, 1842 in Pike County which read- Governor's sale of land seized in satisfaction of a debt of Nathan Holliday, James A. Jordan, and George Jordan to Robert F. Daniel. Described as the property of James A. Jordan. Dist. 3, No. 200.

101.25 acres. Sold to John T. Jordan for $20.00. This lady said that James A. Jordan and Nathan Holliday were brothers-in-law and business partners. However, it looks as if John T. and George were closely connected with James A. When James A. Jordan left Pike in 1848, this George Jordan could have moved along with him. Next time I go to the State Archives, I will look this up. Another thing I noticed is that James A., George, and John T. Jordan of Pike all had a daughter named Dorcas and you know how they used to be about family names. I thought maybe if you could establish that these three were brothers that it might help in some way to find the father. You have the names of John T. Jordan's children and some of George Jordans. The names of James A. Jordan's children are: (1) Margaret Ann Augustus, born Dec. 12, 1838 in Pike County, Ga., died Sept. 13, 1876 in Williamson county, Texas, married Stephen E. Splawn, 1864 in Bradley County, Arkansas. This having Augustus in her name seems to connect them with the Augustus Franklin Jordan you mentioned in the newsletter.

(2)John Robert, born Oct. 19, 1841 in Pike county, Ga., died in the Civil War.

(3)James Holmes, born Aug. 5, 1843 in Alabama, died in the Civil War.

(4) Mary Jane Jutson, born Sept. 28, 1845 in Alabama, died Dec. 7, 1933 in Williamson County, Texas, married James H. Denson in 1868 in Arkansas.

(5) Campbell Ambrose, born Jan. 7, 1848 in Ashley County, Arkansas, died Aug. 27, 1942 in Colorado City, Texas, married Alice Martha Taylor in 1869 in Arkansas.

(6)Mary Susan Dorcas, born Oct. 29, 1850 in Ashley county, Arkansas, married James Barnett

(7)Thomas Daniel Clinton, born May 17, 1853 in Ashley County, Arkansas.

(8) Rebecca Adline, born Mar. 4, 1855 in Ashley county, Arkansas, died Mar. 24, 1904 in Williamson county, Texas, married Griffin L. Taylor

(9) William Daniel, born Oct. 29, 1857 in Arkansas

The Benjamin Jordan who died in Wilkes County, Ga. in 1788 was the son of George Jordan, of Northampton county, N. C. who died in 1792 in N. C. Josiah Jordan who was guardian of the children was Benjamin's brother. The Benjamin S. Jordan who was in Ga. 1840 census in Baldwin was the son of Hezekiah Jordan who died in 1815. He had property in Northampton county, N. C. and Greensville county, Va. He was also son of George Jordan who died in Northampton county, N. C. in 1792 and brother to Benjamin who died in Wilkes county, Ga. in 1788, and also brother of Josiah Jordan. Benjamin S. Jordan died in Baldwin county, Ga. in 1858.

One other thing- I was reading a book on early settlers of Burke county, Ga. It mentioned Benjamin Jordan who was a veteran of the Revolutionary War and said he moved to Pike county and that he was the son of Benjamin Jordan. I do wish that I had something conclusive to give you and that there is something to help you in this.

If I ever come across anything that I think will help you, I'll send it on to you.

Sincerely,

Helen Sammons

P.S. There was a John Jordan in Washington county, Ga. who was a Revolutionary War veteran and died around 1829. He received land in Lee and Troup counties in 1827 lottery. He was married to Wineford Jordan, daughter of the George Jordan who died in N. C. in 1792, and sister to Hezekiah, Benjamin, and Josiah Jordan. Her sister, Olive Jordan, married a Thomas Jordan. Both of these girls were probably married to cousins. John Jordan of Washington county had children: Britton, who died before his father did, Burwell, Priscilla who married a Tennille and died before her father did, one daughter who was married to John H. Newton, John, Jr., and Green H. Jordan. John Jordan also owned land in Early county, Ga.

If any of this will help you, let me know and I'll give you the source.

Dear Mrs. Sammons:

There has been a very strange series of events that would defy all probabities! (Let's see if I can put it down on paper)

N.O. Thomas is my husband's cousin, we have known each other a long time, in fact we will be visiting in his home the end of this month. When she was alive, Mildred Watkins, was in his employ trying to find John T.'s father...maybe Benjamin in the 1850 census. N.O. sent me your letter to him of Jan 25. knowing that now that I have retired, I was going to try to spend more time in researching the Jordan/Jourdan(s).

I have been trying to puttmy 25 or 30 years of records, on my computer. I started with the Jordan line because I have so little!!! Just a few weeks before receiving your letter from N.O., I had entered two completely different records of Jordans not of my line, (but you never know) from ladies that had seen my queries re the Jordans.

I immediately wrote to Mrs. McLemore and gave her your name. You may have already been in contact but neverthe less she is of the Sterling Green Jordan line. I also gave her the address of a lady who in 1985 was 76 years old who is also of this line. I do hope she is still alive for she was so wanting to know about Sterling!

Now along comes your letter to me of the 17 Feb.

I'm sorry but my printer is on the fritz or I would print out a chart for you. My husband's line from John T. and Mary J. Holmes is through their son, John Pope Jordan and Nancy M. Barker; through their son, John Thomas and Nancy Lee Hooten;
through their son, Booch Pope and Clifford Allene Boswell

If I find anything in all those notes that I'm plowing through, on your Jordans, I'll sure let you know and I would, of course, appreciate any help on our elusive 'Benjamine'.

Please keep in touch.

Most Sincerely,

Mrs. Vivian J. Jordan

Dear Mrs. Simmons:

There has been a very strange series of events that very, very, very improbable! (Let's see if I can sort it down on paper)

M.O. Thomas is my husband's cousin, we have known each other a long time. In fact we will be visiting in his home the end of this month. When she was alive, Mildred Keating, was in his employ trying to find John T.'s father...maybe somebody in the 1920 census. M.O. sent me your letter in his of Jan 90. Assuming that now that I have retired, I was going to have to spend more time in researching the Jordan/Jourdan(?).

I have been trying to untangle 23 or 24 years of records on my computer. I started with the Jordan line because I have so little! Just a few weeks before receiving your letter from M.O., I had entered two completely different records of Jordans not of my line, but you never know! From Dallas that had seen my queries on the Jordans.

I immediately wrote in Mrs. Vivian and gave her your name. You may have already been in contact but never the less she lives at the starting Green Jordan line. I also have her address of a lady who in 1985 was 78 years old who is also of this line. We'd hope she is still alive for one was so wanting to know about Sterling.

Now along comes your letter to me of the 17 Jan.

I'm sorry but my mother is on the Wills or I would write more about for you. My husband's line from John T. and Mary I. Holmes is through their son, John Pope Jordan and Nancy [illegible]. Through their son, John Thomas and Nancy Lee Hodges. Through their son, Enoch Pope and Clifford Allen Jordan.

If I find anything in all these notes that I'm digging through, on your Jordans, I'll sure let you know and I would, of course, appreciate any help on our elusive Keating.

Please keep in touch.

Most sincerely,

Dear Mrs. McLemore:

Yourwrote to me in 1986 about my Jordan line.

In putting my records of many years onto the computer, I've found quite a bit on Sterling Green Jordan.

If, in the interfum you haven't solved your Sterling's parentage, I believe that Mrs. Helen M. Sammons, 2025 Trinity Ave., Wilmington, NC 28405 may be able to go back several generations for you.

She recently wrote to a cousin and he sent the letter onto me. She states that her ancestro was Jesse Pridgen Jordan, a brother to Sterling Green Jordan. They had brothers, James A., and Thomas G. There father's name was Frederick, as was his Father's name. Frederick, Jr. died in Jefferson County, GA in 1820.

In 1985, a lady of 76 yrs at that time, also answered my query on Jordans. Her father was Sterling Green Jordan. If alive her name is Mrs. Kathleen T. Bowers 1203 Hawthorne Rd. Hanahan, SC 29406.

I do hope that this will help you. Thank goodness for computers!!

Sincerely,

Mrs. Vivian H. Jones

Dear Mrs. McLemore:

Your wrote to me in 1994 about my Jordan line.

In putting my records of many years onto the computer, I've found quite a bit on Sterling Green Jordan.

It, in the interim you haven't solved your Sanford's parentage, I believe that Mrs. Helen M. Simmons, 2027 Trinity Ave., Washington, DC 29106 may be able to go back several generations for you.

She recently wrote to a cousin and he sent the letter onto me. She states that her ancestor was Jesse Pridgen Jordan, a brother to Sterling Green Jordan. They had brothers, James A., and Thomas E. Their father's name was Frederick. He was his father's name, Frederick, Jr. died in Jefferson County, GA in 1829.

In 1905, a lady of 78 was at that time, also answered my query on Jordans. Her father was Sterling Green Jordan. If alive her name is Mrs. Kathleen T. Powers, 1203 Hawthorne Pl., Atlanta, GA 30306.

I do hope that this will help you. Thank goodness for computers!!

Mrs. W. R. Eckhardt Jr.
4522 Willow Bend Blvd.
Houston, Texas

Dear Mrs. Eckhardt:

Thank you for your letter of August 31 and do forgive my delay in writing, but things have been so busy at the paper and with the addition to the family due in about 3 weeks, I've been slowed down a bit.

I do appreciate the information and still wonder if Burwell and Jane ~~XXX~~ Jordan were both children of Benjamin ! Jane M. (Jordan) Holland, since she was administratrix, would almost certainly be some close relation--and I think it was daughter. If we could only find more estate records on Benjamin--but apprently the few I have, dated 1860-62, were all recorded---or others were lost.

I have found that Mary Caroline ~~XXXXXX~~ Jordan, daughter of Benjamin Jordan, Esq., married George Lee Alexander on April 25, 1826, with Rev. Jesse Stratton officiating; all were of Jasper County, according to a notice in The Southern Recorder, published at Milledgeville, Ga. She died in 1835--and her children were living with he parents in 1850. (1850 census of Jasper shows: Benjamin Jordan, 73, born N. C.; Elizabeth, 63, born Va.; Marshal G. Alexander, 21, b. Ga.; William F. Alexander, 18, b. Ga., and Thomas J. Alexander, 16, b. Ga.). IF Benjamin was also the father of Jane and Burwell, then Mary Caroline was their sister---and I hope John T. was a brother !!But, nothing so far to help on that.

By the way, noting your list of names, I am also working on Griffin (trying to find parents of Charles Henry, George W. and Samuel Griffin, born 1799-1808, lived Wilkes Co., Ga., then Troup and Meriwether Co., Ga., and Ala.); Reno (Reneau, Renno) from Penn. to Ga. and Alabama; Smith of Pitt and Craven Counties, N. C.---could any of these connect with yours? Thomas and Jordan are my main problems---so frustrating !

Do let me hear and if I can send anything of interest to you, please let me know.

Sincerely,
Mildred Watkins

Dear Mrs. Sokhardt:

Thank you for your letter of August 31 and do forgive my delay in writing, but things have been so busy at the moment and with the addition to the family due in about 3 weeks, I've been leaved down a bit.

I do appreciate the information and still wonder if perhaps Jane Jordan were with children of Benjamin ! Jane M. (Jordan) Holland, since she was adolescentwhile, would almost certainly be some close relation--and I think it was daughter. If we could only find some estate records on Benjamin--but apparently the few I have, dated 1850-53, were all recorded---or others were lost.

I have found that Mary Caroline Alexander Jordan, daughter of Benjamin Jordan, Sen., married George Lee Alexander on April 25, 1854, with Rev. Jesse Stratton officiating; all were of Jasper County, according to notice in The Southern Recorder, published at Milledgeville, Ga. She died in 1874--and her children were living with me. Records in Atlanta (1870) census of Jasper County: Benjamin Jordan, 73, born S. C.; Elizabeth 65, born Ga.; Sarah O. Alexander, 21, b. Ga.; William T. Alexander, 19, b. Ga., and Thomas L. Alexander, 16, b. Ga.). My Benjamin was also the father of Jane and Sarah, then Mary Caroline was their sister---and I hope John T. was a brother !! But, nothing so far to help on that.

On the way, noting your list of names, I ran also versions on Griffin (twice in Ga. Genealogy of Walter Henry, George W. and Samuel Griffin born 1770-1820, lived Wilkes Co., Ga., then Troup and Hartwell Co., Ga., and Ala.); Mann (Thomas, Benj.) from Penn. to Ga. and Alabama; ~~[illegible]~~ with Tennessee and Jordan are my main problems---so Frustrating !

So let me know if and if I can send anything of interest to you, please let me know.

Sincerely,

Mildred Lockhart

Jordan - Jermain Gen. Records

French Ancestry of the Jermain (Jordan) Family

Statement translated from the original French memoranda & notes, transcribed in France by E. Irenaeus Stevenson, 1897.

The story of the JORDANS or to call them as they once were called & still are called in France, "JOURDANS" & "JOURDAINES" begins in the richly historic old city of Toulouse, the "Tolosa" of Roman Days.

X to XIII Centuries

Count Jourdan de Toulouse (also called Count "Alphonse Jourdan de Toulouse" & also "Alphonse I of Toulouse") was of Italian descent, more remotely connected with the Giordani. He was in power in Toulouse in 1112, or among the latter group of Toulouse's sovereigns; & succeeded by Raymond V, VI, & VII, & to adventurous Simon de Montfort. (1212-18). From the line of Count Jourdan de Toulouse was descended legimately a branch of the Jordan blood. This branch presently transferred itself to WesternFrance & to the seacoast, & thus became the Jourdan family -- at some date, probably earlier than the XIII century, identified with the City of La Rochelle, then a thriving & precious seaport, & center, a strongly Protestant community, & destined to play such a tragic part in France's religious wars.

XIII to XV Centuries

In the year 1455, we find the Jourdans fully identified with the City of La Rochelle. Pierre Jourdan (whom we call Pierre Jourdan I, is mayor of La Rochelle. He died sometime after the year named. We have no particulars of his marriage, or of his family, but there must have been a large descent from him.

XVI Century

Pierre Jourdan II, of La Rochelle, is co-elected mayor of La Rochelle, in 1511-1523. He was known as the lord of the estate of Bonnomie. He m. a lady of La Rochelle of high distinction, named Francoise Nicolas. Their son was Pierre Jourdan III, who will presently be spoken of as being baptised, adopting the Reformed faith. Up to that time the Jourdan family doubtless had been Roman Catholic.

Francois Jourdan (1) of the same generation with Pierre (3) also was of La Rochelle. He m. Marguerite Breton. A son is mentioned as theirs, David Jourdan (2) who was baptised into the Reformed church in 1569. The two men probably were cousins. Other descendants of their father Francois not stated.

Contemporary with the preceding was Rene Jourdan, of La Rochelle in 1517, a surgeon. We have no particulars of his marriage, or children; but a descendant was another David Jourdan, to be called David Jourdan (2), who was a "conseillure du roy", a "counseller" to King Louis XV, in 1630, & died at Nantes in Aug. 1671, as will be noted later.

A further advance, a generation, brings us to the following Jourdans, all of La Rochelle, or of the old city's environs.

XVI Century

Pierre Jourdan II, of La Rochelle, is co-elected mayor of La Rochelle, in 1511-1523. He was known as the Lord of the estate of Bonnonie. He m. a lady of La Rochelle of high distinction, named Francoise Nicolas. Their son was Pierre Jourdan III, who will presently be spoken of as being baptized, adopting the Reformed faith. Up to that time the Jourdan family doubtless had been Roman Catholic.

Francois Jourdan (1) of the same generation with Pierre (3) also was of La Rochelle. He m. Marguerite Breton. A son is mentioned as theirs, David Jourdan (2) who was baptized into the Reformed church in 1569. The two men probably were cousins. Other descendants of their father Francois not stated.

Contemporary with the preceding was Rene Jourdan, of La Rochelle in 1517, a surgeon. We have no particulars of his marriage, or children; but a descendant was another David Jourdan, to be called David Jourdan (2), who was a "conseillure du roy", a "counsellor" to King Louis XV, in 1630, & died at Nantes in Aug. 1671, as will be noted later.

A further advance, a generation, brings us to the following Jourdans, all of La Rochelle, or of the old city's environs.

Francois Jourdan exuyer (esquire). He wedded Helend de Goulais, ca. 1570. Adam, Marie Jourdan is named. Other offspring & data not given.

Pierre Jourdain (3) named above, & approximately of the same generation. He, too, is of La Rochelle, the son of Pierre Jourdan[2], & Francois Nicholas, who was one of the most honored La Rochelle families. He (Pierre[3]) is baptized as a "Reformed", in Jan. 1569. We have no data of his marriage or family.

David Jourdan, also referred to above, was of this group, a La Rochellais, the son of Francois Jourdan; & Marguerite Breton. David also was baptised as a "Reformed", in Jan. 1659, probably at the same time as his near relative Pierre[3].

It is noteworthy that these converts to Reformation principles were "presented" for the rite by a godfather or godmother of high nobility, Charles Poupart, the Seur de Pona, a gentleman who had accompanied Queen Marguerite of Naverre, his sovereign, to La Rochelle; & the Lady Jeanne du Fay, was the marraine. Both baptized were adult.

Reenee Jourdan, was a lady of the group of Jourdan of this time, a cousin or near relative. She became the wife of the Sieur Louis de Buisson, & they had a son known as Pierre (de Buisson) de Ponlebon, ecuyer, & also as Sieur de Pons, later.

Marie Jourdan (1) dau. of Francois Jourdan[2] & Helene de Goulard named. She m. in Oct., 1592, apparently at La Rochelle, her relative (cousin?) Aime de Goulard, Chevalier & Sieur de Bois-Pourreau, an estate near Beauvais. No further data is at hand.

XVII Century - The Emigration

Jean Jourdan[1] was of La Rochelle, & was known as the Sieur de Mealle, of the vicinity. He m. Marie Guy. It would seem that he died a young man, for his wife m. again, & her husband, a relative, was the same Sieur Pierre de Ponlebon et du Pons, mentioned above, the son of Renee Jourdan & the Sieur Louis Buisson. We have no other data.

Catherine Jourdan[1] of La Rochelle, as to whom no other data, earlier than 1618, m. in that year the Sieur Francois Pequinier, or Peguinie, ecuyer, & lord of the estate of Martiniere. Their family is not recorded.

David Jourdan[2] is La Rochelle, & perhaps also of Paris. No personal data other than this descent from Rene Jourdan, & that he was named a "counsellor" to the king (Louis XV), either as a special or general advisor in 1630. He probably was a Catholic. He d. at Nantes in Aug. 1671.

The refugees went first to Glasgow, & to Edinburgh, either because the ship's course left them no choice, or on account of their own plans. This halting place accounts for the tradition occasionally heard that the "Jourdan" family came originally from Scotland, & were Scotch, or English, by descent.

Francois Jourdan ^{2} (esquire). He wedded Helene de Goulais, ca. 1570. Adam, Marie Jourdan is named. Other offspring & data not given.

Pierre Jourdain (3) named above, & approximately of the same generation. He, too, is of la Rochelle, the son of Pierre Jourdan ^{2} & Francois Nicholas, who was one of the most honored la Rochelle family. He (Pierre ^{3}) is baptized as a "Reformed", in Jan. 1569. We have no date of his marriage or family.

David Jourdan, also referred to above, was of this group, a la Rochellais, the son of Francois Jourdan; & Marguerite Breton. David also was baptized as a "Reformed", in Jan. 1569, probably at the same time as his near relative Pierre ^{3}.

It is noteworthy that these converts to Reformation principles were "presented" for the rite by a godfather or godmother of high nobility, Charles Fouquet, the Seur de Pons, a gentleman who had accompanied Queen Marguerite of Navarre, his sovereign, to la Rochelle; & the lady Jeanne du Fay, was the marraine. Both baptized were adult.

Renee Jourdan, was a lady of the group of Jourdan of this time, a cousin or near relative. She became the wife of the Sieur Louis de Buisson, & they had a son known as Pierre (de Buisson) de Ponlebon, sawyer, & also as Sieur de Pons, later.

Marie Jourdan (1) dau. of Francois Jourdan ^{2} & Helene de Goulard named. She m. in oct., 1592, apparently at la Rochelle, her relative (cousin?) Aime de Goulard, Chevalier & Sieur de Bois-Pourreau, an estate near Beauvais. No further data is at hand.

XVII Century - The Migration

Jean Jourdan ^{1} was of la Rochelle, & was known as the Sieur de Meslle, of the vicinity. He m. Marie Guy. It would seem that he died a young man, for his wife m. again, & her husband, a relative, was the same Sieur Pierre de Ponlebon et du Pons, mentioned above, the son of Renee Jourdan & the Sieur Louis Buisson. We have no other date.

Catherine Jourdan ^{1} of la Rochelle, as to whom no other date, earlier than 1618, m. in that year the Sieur Francois Feuillier, or Feuillie, sawyer, & Lord of the estate of Martinière. Their family is not recorded.

David Jourdan ^{3} is la Rochelle, & perhaps also of Paris. No personal data other than this descent from Rene Jourdan, & that he was named a "counsellor" to the King (Louis XV), either as a special or general advisor in 1630. He probably was a Catholic. He d. at Nantes in Aug. 1671.

The refugees went first to Glasgow, & to Edinburgh, either because the ship's course left them no choice, or on account of their own plans. The name of Jordan is said to have first come into use as baptismal name at the time of the early Crusades, being derived from the river of that name in the Holy Lands. It is found on ancient records in the various forms of Jourdan, Jurdan, Jordayne, Jourdaine, Jourdain, Jourden, Jourdeins, Jordani, Jurden, Jorden, Jordin, Jordon, Jordan and others, of which the last form mentioned is that most generally accepted in America today and the form immediately proceding it is also frequently used.

One of the earliest lines of the family in England was that descended from Richard Jordan of County Surrey, who was the father of John and William, of whom the first will be referred to again and the second married Feber or Phoebe Athurne, or (according to some authorities), was the father of a son named Richard who married her, and had issue of a son William, who married Alice Lovey of Devonshire and had a daughter named Joane.

John, elder son of the first Richard of County Surrey, was the father of Peter and William, of whom the second made his home at London and the first was the father of William, who had William and Thomas, of whom the first was probably the father in the early fifteenth century of a son named John (some authorities put in another generation--Reginald, son of Willian and father of John), who married Rose Docington of County Surrey and was the father by her of John, Thomas, Henry, William, Margery, of whom the father was the father by his wife Alice of John, Richard, Rose and Joane,of whom the first married Joane Fenner and had issue by her John, Henry, Richard, Nicholas, Thomas (father of Henry), Margery, Anne, and Anthony (father of Thomas), of whom the first married Margery Berwick in latter sixteenth century and was the father by her of William, John Mary, and Thomas, of whom the first married Catherine Hussey and was the father by her of Edmond, Lawrence, William, Thomas, and Catharine, of whom the first was married in the early seventeenth century to Susan Warnett by whom he had issue of John, Susan, Edmond, William, Catharine, and Mary

Among the other early records of the family in Great Britain were those of Jordan de Cantington of Normandy, who went into Wales in the eleventh century and is believed to have been the ancestor of Leonard Jordan of Pembrokeshire in the latter Fourteenth century, Roger Filius

The name of Jordan is said to have first come into use as baptismal name at the time of the early Crusades, being derived from the river of that name in the Holy Lands. It is found on ancient records in the various forms of Jourdan, Jurdan, Jordayne, Jourdaine, Jourdain, Jourdan, Jourdaine, Jordani, Jordan, Jordan, Jordin, Jordon, Jordan and others, of which the last form mentioned is that most generally accepted in America today and the form immediately preceding it is also frequently used.

One of the earliest lines of the family in England was that descended from Richard Jordan of County Surrey, who was the father of John and William, of whom the first will be referred to again and the second married Peter or Phoebe Atburne, or (according to some authorities), was the father of a son named Richard who married her, and had issue of a son William, who married Alice Lovey of Devonshire and had a daughter named Joane.

John, elder son of the first Richard of County Surrey, was the father of Peter and William, of whom the second made his home at London and the first was the father of William, who had William and Thomas, of whom the first was probably the father in the early fifteenth century of a son named John (some authorities put in another generation--Reginald, son of William and father of John), who married Rose Doington of County Surrey and was the father by her of John, Thomas, Henry, William, Margery, of whom the father was the father by his wife Alice of John, Richard, Rose and Joane, of whom the first married Joane Tanner and had issue by her John, Henry, Richard, Nicholas, Thomas (father of Henry), Margery, Anne, and Anthony (father of Thomas), o f whom the first married Margery Berwick in latter sixteenth century and w s the father by her of William, John Mary, and Thomas. of whom the first married Catherine Hussey and was the father by her of Edmond, Lawrence, William, Thomas, and Catherine, of whom the first was married in the early seventeenth century to Susan Warnett by whom he had issue of John, Susan, Edmond, William, Catherine, and Mary

Among the other early records of the family in Great Britain were those of Jord n de Cantington of Normandy, who went into Wales in the eleventh century and is believed to have been the ancestor of Leonard Jordan of Pembrokeshire in the latter fourteenth century, Roger Fitzne (son of) Jurdan of Cambridgeshire in 1273, Robert Filius Jordan of Yorkshire in 1379, Giles Jordan of Leicestershire before 1415, John Jordain of Dorsetshire in the early fifteenth century, who was the father of John, who married Christie Chantmarle and is believed to have been the ancestor of Robert Jordaine, who married a Miss. Coker in the early sixteenth century and had issue by her of Robert and Henry, of whom the first is believed to have been the father of other children as well, the brothers, Edmund and Richard Jordan, of County Kent about the middle of the sixteenth century, of whom the second married Elizabeth Courthope and had issue by her of Edward, Richard, Mary and Elizabeth, and Robert Jordan of County Kent about the beginning of the seventeenth century, possibly a descendant of the last mentioned branch, who was the father of Stephen, who married Sarah Edwards and had at least one son named John and possibly others as well.

It is not definitely known from which of the many illustrious lines of the family in England the first emigrants of the name to America were descended, but it is generally believed that all of the Jordans and Jordons were of common ancestry at a remote period.

Among the first of the name to emigrate to America were numerous Virginia emigrants, none of whom left complete records of their immediate families or descendants. Some of these were Samuel Jordan of 1619, Robert Jordan of Charles City in 1622, Anthony and Jonathan Jo Jordan of Warrasquinoke County in 1635, George Jordan of James City in 1637, Jacob Jordaine in 1649, Thomas Jordan in 1653, Edward of James City in 1654, and Patrick of Northampton County in 1655.

One of the first of the name to come to New England was Francis Jordan of Ipswich, Mass., about 1634, who was married in the following year to Jane Wilson, by whom he had issue, Sarah, Hannah, Mary, (died young), another Mary, Lydia, and Deborah, as well as possible others.

About 1640 the Reverend Robert Jordan or Jordon, who is claimed by one authority to have been the son of Edward Jordan of Worcester, England, and by others to have been a descendant of the Dorsetshire line of the family, settled at Casco, Me. About 1642 he married Sarah Winter, who was the mother by him of John, Robert, Dominicus, Jedediah, Samuel and Jeremiah.

One John Jordan, Jourdaine, Jordon is said to have settled at Plymouth, Mass., about 1643 and to have been the father of possibly among others, Jehosebeth and Baruch, of whom the latter made his home in Hingham, Mass.

In 1655 one James Jordan is said to have died at Dedham, Mass., leaving at least three children, Mary, Thomas and Ann and possibly others.

Others of the name who came to America at early dates left few records of themselves and their families were Stephen of Ipswich in 1634 (probably) brother of the before mentioned Francis), John of Guilford, Conn., in 1639, Thomas of Guilford before 1659, and Thomas of Rehoboth before 1674.

(son of) Jurden of Cambridgeshire in 1273, Robert William Jordan of Yorkshire in 1379, Giles Jordan of Gloucestershire before 1415, John Jordain of Dorsetshire in the early fifteenth century, who was the father of John, who married Christie Chentmarle and is believed to have been the ancestor of Robert Jordaine, who married a Miss. Coker in the early sixteenth century and had issue by her of Robert and Henry, of whom the first is believed to have been the father of other children as well, the brothers, Edmund and Richard Jordan, of County Kent about the middle of the sixteenth century, of whom the second married Elizabeth Courthope and had issue by her of Edward, Richard, Mary and Elizabeth, and Robert Jordan of County Kent about the beginning of the seventeenth century, possibly a descendant of the last mentioned Gremon, who was the father of Stephen, who married Sarah Edwards and had at least one son named John and possibly others as well.

It is not definitely known from which of the many illustrious lines of the family in England the first emigrants of the name to America were descended, but it is generally believed that all of the Jordans and Jordons were of common ancestry at a remote period.

Among the first of the name to emigrate to America were numerous Virginia emigrants, none of whom left complete records of their immediate families or descendants. Some of these were Samuel Jordan of 1619, Robert Jordan of Charles City in 1622, Anthony and Jonathan Jordan of Warrequinoke County in 1635, George Jordan of James City in 1637, Jacob Jordaine in 1649, Thomas Jordan in 1653, Edward of James City in 1654, and Patrick of Northampton County in 1655.

One of the first of the name to come to New England was Francis Jordan of Ipswich, Mass., about 1634, who was married in the following year to Jane Wilson, by whom he had issue, Sarah, Hannah, Mary, (died young), another Mary, Lydia, and Obadiah, as well as possible others.

About 1640 the Reverend Robert Jordan or Jordon, who is claimed by one authority to have been the son of Edward Jordan of Worcester, England, and by others to have been a descendant of the Dorsetshire line of the family, settled at Casco, Me. About 1642 he married Sarah Winter, who was the mother by him of John, Robert, Dominicus, Jedediah, Samuel and Jeremiah.

One John Jordan, Jourdaine, Jordon is said to have settled at Plymouth, Mass., about 1643 and to have been the father of possibly among others, Jedediah and Benjamin, of whom the latter made his home in Hingham, Mass.

In 1655 one James Jordan is said to have died at Woburn, Mass., leaving at least three children, Mary, Thomas and Ann and possibly others.

Others of the name who came to America at early dates left few records of themselves and their families were Stephen of Ipswich in 1634 (probably) brother of the before mentioned Francis, John of Guilford, Conn., in 1639, Thomas of Guilford before 1659, and Thomas of Rehoboth before 1674.

The descendants of these and probably of l ter branches of the family in America have spread to practically every State of the Union and have aided as much in the growth of the country as their energy, industry, ambition, integrity, piety, perseverence, fortitude, patience, resourcefulness, courage, initiative, loyalty, and leadership.

Among those of the name who fought as officers in the War of the Revolution were Captain Griffity of Delare, Lieutenant William of Georgia; Captain John of Virginia, Captain John of Pennsylvania, Captain John of Maryland, and Captain charles (Jourdine) of Georgia.

Richard, John, Thomas, Henry, Edmond, William, Robert, Edward, Samuel, and George are some of the Christian names most highly favored by the family for its male members.

A few of the many members of the family who have distinguished themselves in America in more recent times are:

Thomas Jordan, of Virginia, Military Officer, 1819 - 1895
Conrad N. Jordan, of New York, Financier 1830-1903
John Woolf Jordan, of Pennsylvania, Librarian and Editor, 1840-1921
Jules Jordan, of Connedticut, Composer, 1850-1927
David Starr Jordan, of New York, Educator and naturalist 1850-1931
William George Jordan, of New York, Journalist 1864-1928

One of the most ancient and frequently recurrent of the numerous coat-of-arms of the English family of Jordan is that described as follows:

Arms --"Azure, semes of crosses crosslet, a lion rampant or."

Crest - - "A lion sejantx or, sustaining a cross crosslet fitches."

(Arms taken from Burke's "General Armory", 1884).

SHREVEPORT, LOUISIANA

August 10, 1969

Mrs. W. R. Eckhardt Jr.
4522 Willow Bend Blvd.

Dear Mrs. Eckhardt:

Sometime ago we corresponded on Thomases---and I regret I am still stumped with ole Lewis Thomas, but still looking for his parents ! However, just recently I was delighted to find we have another line of mutual interest--and that is the Holland-Jordan ! I realize your interest is primarily Holland, while mine is Jordan---and am quite sure you have all the information you need, since you have done so much work.

I noted in Historical Southern Families by Boddie the record of Lewis Conner Holland, showing his children and among these Joseph Lawson Holland who married Jane Jordan, and Lavinia W. Holland who married Col. Burwell Jordan.

We have a John T. Jordan, born Oct. 14, 1806, died Sept. 26, 1859, Pike County, Ga. (died in Pike, county of birth unknown, but it was in Georgia). In the 1850 census a Benjamin Jordan, born about 1776, was living or visiting in the household of John T. Jordan in Pike County. According to a notation made by a descendant, now deceased, Benjamin Jordan was the father of John T. Jordan.

However, we cannot find any information on Benjamin Jordan in Pike County--no record of him owning land, buying or selling, witnessing any deed, etc. From an 1824 Macon newspaper we find he was on a grand jury in Pike County that year---but that is all we find in Pike on him, except for 1840 and 1850 census.

In Jasper County, Ga., 1850 there was a Benjamin Jordan, born about the same time, with wife Elizabeth and with three grandchildren, all Alexanders. Also, from an old newspaper we find Mrs. M. E. Alexander died in 1835 at the home of her father, Benjamin Jordan, in Jasper Co., Ga.

This Benjamin had some land in Jasper and Jones--and it was apparently a large estate from the information found in the few estate papers we have been able to locate. Yet, we find no real disposition of his property. The Alexanders did receive some of it--and in 1860, 1862 and 1863, Jane M. Holland was the administratrix of the estate. I am sure she was the same Jane ~~XXXXXXX~~ Jordan who married Joseph Lawson Holland. She is in the 1860 census in the household with her children. Was Burwell Jordan related to her?

We have wondered if this could be the same Benjamin as the one in Pike--and if M. E., Jane M., John T., Adeline and Elizabeth could have all been his children !Just pure suppostion now---but Benjamin is so elusive that we have to "suppose" a bit in trying to find proof. I wondered if, in doing so much documented work on the Hollands, you had come across more on the Jordans.

I have quite a collection of Jordan material from Virginia, N. C. and S.C. and Georgia---and will be glad to share anything I have of interest to you. We probably have something on parents of Benjamin--but since we have so little on him now, we just cannot prove which Jordan line he belongs to ! But, your Holland-Jordan connection gave me a spark of hope !

I indeed will look forward to hearing from you---and will be glad to send anything I have of interest to you on these. Best wishes--

Sincerely,
Mildred Watkins

Notes on the JORDAN family:

First off, don't go chasing around central Alabama looking for Jordans...you will get funny looks and a lot of indifference.....you must pronounce the name as "Jerdans"....even though it may be spelled Jordan or Jourdan.

Rhoda Jordan was born in South Carolina,July , in 1825, when they were first opening up Alabama. The Western part of Randolph Co was later added to the new Clay County. Clay was organized in 1866 after the Frazier family had already moved to Arkansas, and the old Randolph Co. Courthouse burned around 1890, and the old records were lost.

On the township map of Sections 35 of TP 20, and Sections 2, 3 & 11 of TP 21 are shown the parcels of land acquired by the Jordan Family and Ben Darby Frazier in the 1840's and1850's. He and the Jordans were next door neighbors, and this sort of belies the story Ben Darby used to tease his wife....."When I left home to seek my fortune, I was walking along this road and met this girl. We got to talking, and decided to put in together. We took all of our belongings and put them all into a bandana handkerchief, put the package on a pole, and went on down the road together. We just took-up together."

We don't know how Rhoda put up with this....but we do know that when she died, on the tombstone was inscribed her birthday, date of death, and the date of her marriage, the first such date of marriage we had seen on a tombstone up until that time.

Mary Frances Burnett, (one of the Sorge children) says she remembers going to visit Gr-Grandma Frazier when she was just a small girl, and here are her memories of Rhoda: "I do remember her. She was a tall woman and always had a smile and loved everyoneShe had gray hair and wore long dresses that almost touched the floor. I sure loved her. She would say to me, 'Come here, my sweet little girl' and she would comb my hair and plait and fix it different. She always had some good cookies or pie to eat. I can remember my mother and myself going and my mother helping her do some work. (about ½ mile between the two houses). They carded some cotton with some cotton cards, and made some thread with this spinning wheel. Then they would take this thread and a big thing called a loom and make a piece of cloth with this thread they had spun." This was in Wood Co., Texas, at East Point.

From what we can determine, Rhoda was one of about 10 or 11 children. Her parents were William and Elizabeth Jordan. In 1816, in Chowan Co., North Carolina, there was a marriage of a William Jordan and an Elizabeth Blanchard, and the Jordans are supposed to have come from the Carolinas....but there is no proof. On the coast of No Carolina, particularly in the Perquimans area, were many, many, Jordans from 1745 on, including a lot of Williams. One of the earliest listed in Chowan Co. was a John Jordan, 1704.

Using the 1850 and1860 Alabama census, we have reconstructed the Jordan family as likely was constituted at that time.

William Jordan, b: @ 1797-1798 in So Carolina, m: (1) to Elizabeth, who was b: @ 1793 in So. Carolina. There is another William Jordan marriage to consider, that of a William and an Elizabeth Runelza in Wilkes Co., Georgia in 1821. Runelza could just possibly be an Indian name, and in central Alabama there was some talk about some Indian heritage in the family, but no one could pinpoint it. Elizabeth died in late 1859 or early 1860, for in 1860 it showed William with a wife named Nancy, one Nancy Green that he had married within the previous year. Nancy at that time had two children from a previous marriage, one Dolphus Green, age 8, and one Harvey M green, age 5.

Roda (Rhoda) b: 1825, So Car married Ben Darby Frazier
Andrew D ? b: 1825 So Car " Elizabeth E
Andrew J.? b: 1830 So Car " Nancy
(We don't know for sure which of these Andrews was Rhoda's brother...they were both in the right areas at the same time....in 1850 Andrew J living right next to William, but Andrew D only 16 houses away. Then in 1880 Andrew D is in Wood County, and there are some land transactions between him and the Frazier family. Feel sure these Andrews are at least cousins.
William D. b: 1832, So Car married Martha E
Jane b: 1839 Ala
Margaret b: 1840/41 Ala (twin Charles R. b: 1840/41 Ala (twin Priscilla
Antoinette b: 1843-45, Ala
Newton J. b: 1840-45, Ala m: Ann
Wiley J. b: 1850-51, Ala
?James? b: 1828, S.C. m: Sarah
?James? b: 1827, Ga. m: Ann Again, both of these boys were in the right area at the same time, and we feel one of them was the son of William, more likely the one born in So Car., but nothing can be sure, for the 1850 census shows Elizabeth, William's wife, as being born in Georgia, and if she were born in Georgia, she likely married there, and who knows?

Then you look at the early day grants in Randolph Co., Ala., and see the Jordans who were living close together at that place and time: Andrew D., Andrew J., William D., Marhark, Henry W., and Caleb.

There is the remains of an old cemetery on the Henry Jordan plot, #8 on the township map. This is near the town of Cragford, and is known both as the Old Jordan Cemetery, and as the Ebenezer Cemetery. However, there are no identifiable markers at this time, but the old Jordans are said to be buried there. At Cragford, there is a small City Cemetery and a marker for a Dr. Charles Jordan who is thought to be a nephew of Rhoda, but no one knows who his father might have been. Also near Cragford, there is an old house still standing that is said to be the "Old Jordan Homestead",.

Talk around Wood County, Texas, has it that in the late 1800's and early 1900's there were many Jordans in the area, but we were not able to locate or identify any of them.

Back in Randolph co., Ala., in 1850, living with the Sam Nunis family was one Delilah Jordan, age 90, born in So Carolina, who could easily have been the mother of our William D., who was 53 years old in that year. The connection that we see is that Rhoda named one of her daughters Delilah after her possible grandmother.

Last will & testament of Rhoda J. Frazier..... cont'd. p-2

Sixth: It is understood and intended that the provisions herein made for my said grandson James F. Taylor in subdivision 3rd of this will, shall not be of any effect unless he shall be living at the time of my death, and shall continue to live with me and kindly take care of me till the time of my death as he has done in the years he has been living with me, and in the event of his death before my decease, or should he not live with me and kindly take care of me until my death as he has done in the past, then all my said estate shall go to my said children (and their respective heirs) and grandchildren as stated in subdivision 2nd of this will.

Seventh: I nominate and appoint my son, Thomas Jefferson Frazier, to be executor of this will and direct that no bond or security shall be required of him as my executor.

Eighth: It is my will that no other action shall be had in the County Court in the Administration of my estate than to prove and record this will, and to return an inventory and appraisement.

In witness thereof I have hereunto set my hand this the 5th day of June, AD 1906, in the presence of M. W. Flournoy and V. B. Harriss, who attest the same at my request, the word "entire" in the 4th line of the 3rd page, and the word "go" in the 5th line of the 3rd page of this will having been interlined before signing, also the parenthetical words "(and their respective heirs)" on page 3 of this will.

R. J. Frazier

The above instrument was now here subscribed and signed by R. J. Frazier, the testatrix in our presence, and we, at her request, and in her presence, sign our names as attesting witnesses.

Dear Dave:

This day is a milestone for Julia & me. It is our oldest son's fiftieth birthday.

These pages from my family history have been of interest to me for some time. Thought you might find them of some interest.

Thank you again for the inspiration and help that your friendship has been to me since I first became acquainted with you.

Sincerely & Fraternally

JORDAN-JORDEN

Not as has be fancifilly conjectured, from the River Jordan, in Crusading times but from JOURDAIN, an early Norman baptismal name, probably corrupted from the Latin-HODIERNUS, which was a not uncommon personal name of the same period. It may be remarked that the name JOURDAIN AND HODIERNA, the feminine form, loccur almost contemporaneously in the pedigree of Sackville Marin's Dutch Dictionary defines JORDEN as Gregory, "een man's naam, Gregoir e, nom d'homme".

"The family name of Jordan is of Anglo-Norman origin. The first settler in Wales was Jordan de Cantington, one of the companions of Martin de Tours, in his conquest of Kemmes, temp. William I" the cause of the Government, and to disclose only those which support the claimants. Traits of such a disposition have conspicuously and evidently appeared in many cases of claim against Government for houses destroyed by the enemy in the late war. The law of the 9th of April, 1816, authorizes the President to prescribe the rules and regulations under which the evidence shall be taken. Pursuant to this authority, the President has directed that in all cases of claim the evidence of the officer who commanded the military occupation of any house shall be required indispensable to the admission of a claim, and that it shall be considered practicable to produce such evidence so long as the officer is within the limits of the United States. Did this claimant comply with the law? Did he produce the evidence of Commodore Barney, under whose authority he attempted to convince us his house had been occupied? No! aware (as it now appears) that the evidence of Commodore Barney would operate against him, he brings forward other witnesses, whose testimony the law itself would reject as not being the best of which the case was susceptible. The want of Commodore Barney's testimony, and especially when it was so completely in the power of the party to produce it, was a circumstance calculated to excite suspicion in the mind of the committee. It now appears that the suspicion was well founded; that the occupation of the house, as alleged by claimant, did not take place; that the destruction of it occurred some time after Commodore Barney had removed to Huntington court-house; and, consequently, that, by the law of April, 1816, as well as by the laws of nature, Government is under no obligation to make indemnification for the loss.

The committee feel it a duty to make any remarks calculated to throw light upon the subject of these claims generally, and the evidence which has been offered in support of them. They would, therefore, call the attention of the House to the case of John J. Pattison. This claimant proved that militia had been in the vicinity of his house; that provisions had been issued from, and, in the belief of the witnesses, cooked at the house; that, in consequence thereof, in the further belief of the witnesses, the house was destroyed. This evidence was, in general, too vague and indefinite to be entitled to any credit. But it now appears, from Commodore Barney's letter, that the claimant himself was the cause of the militia not being nearer to his house than the vicinity; that he had declared he would shoot the first man who attempted to come upon his place for its defence; that he was disposed to trust to the friendship of the enemy rather than to the valor of his fellow-citizens. The claimant, finding that his confidence in the friendship and forbearance of the enemy was misplaced, comes forward at the present session, and asks Congress to indemnify him against the just consequences of his own misdeeds. However unjust this act of destruction might have been on the part of the enemy, it was just as it regarded the petitioner; for to his conduct alone is the destruction to be imputed.

Such claims, but particularly when the evidence in support of them is so indefinite, when it appears so fraught with evasive, equivocal expressions, cannot be allowed. The committee, therefore, recommend that the claim of John Ireland be rejected.

HOUSES AND OTHER PROPERTY DESTROYED NEAR NEW ORLEANS IN 1814 AND 1815.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, FEBRUARY 16, 1818.

Mr. WILLIAMS, of North Carolina, from the Committee of Claims, to whom was referred the petition of B. and P. Jordan, brothers, reported:

That the claimants ask payment for sundry property destroyed and damage done to their sugar plantation on the right bank of the Mississippi, below New Orleans, during the invasion of the British army in the years 1814 and 1815, to the amount of $40,017 80. Among the items of their account making this aggregate, are a mansion-house and saw-mill estimated at the sum of $8,000, which, by the evidence, appear to have been wantonly burnt and destroyed by the enemy, contrary to the rules of warfare among civilized nations. There are also sundry other items in said account, say, two negro slaves, stated to have been taken off by the enemy, and not since recovered; sugar moulds; empty sugar hogsheads; sundry farming utensils; household and kitchen furniture; the value of which is stated by the claimants at $4,274. Whatever propriety there might be in paying for some part of the property last mentioned, a want of sufficient evidence of its loss or destruction forbids it, no other evidence being offered in support of this part of the claim but the oath of one of the claimants; nor is it stated whether said property was destroyed by the enemy or the United States troops. One other charge in said account is for damage done to said plantation by digging and throwing up the earth for works of defence, stated at $600. Although several witnesses state that works of defence were thrown up on said plantation, yet no one testifies to the amount of damage done to the farm thereby, except one of the claimants.

The balance of this claim, amounting to $28,043 80, is for the destruction of the following houses and buildings, with the property therein contained, and fencing of the plantation, to wit:

1 sugar house, valued by commissioners at	- - - - -	$12,000 00
A refining house,	do. - - - - - -	150 00
A barn and stable,	do. - - - - - -	400 00
A magazine with apparatus,	do. - - - - - -	1,800 00
A coach house,	do. - - - - - -	100 00
2 poultry houses,	do. - - - - - -	140 00
A kitchen,	do. - - - - - -	500 00

2 pigeon houses, valued by commissioners at	- - - - -	$200 00
10 negro cabins, do.	- - - - -	1,500 00
A granary, do.	- - - - -	150 00
A rice mill, do.	- - - - -	400 00
Fences of the plantation, do.	- - - - -	1,449 00
56,880 pounds sugar at 8½ cents, burnt in said sugar-house,	- - -	4,834 80
120 barrels of molasses, 50 gallons each, burnt as aforesaid, ($15,)	- - -	1,800 00
Corn and hay in part used by United States troops, and the balance burnt,	- -	1,220 00
Sugar cane plants used and destroyed by United States troops,	- - -	1,400 00
Amounting to	- - - - - - -	$28,043 80

For this latter sum the claimants appear to have a just demand on the Government, it being satisfactorily proved that said houses and buildings, as also the other property last enumerated, were burnt and destroyed by order of General Morgan, acting under an order from Major General Jackson, thereby the better to enable said Morgan to defend the post of which he had command.

Your committee are of opinion that the said sum of $28,043 80 ought to be paid the claimants; and for that purpose they report a bill.

15th Congress.] No. 392. [1st Session.

COMMUNICATED TO THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, FEBRUARY 17, 1818.

Mr. Williams, of North Carolina, from the Committee of Claims, to whom was referred the report of the Commissioner of Claims in the case of William Eadus, of the State of New York, reported:

That William Eadus claims the payment of $4,259 75, for property captured or destroyed by the British at Sodus, in the county of Ontario and State of New York.

It appears from the evidence in this case, which the committee have examined with some attention, that on the 16th of June, 1813, intelligence was received that the British had landed at Genesee river, and were coming to Sodus, where were deposited large quantities of provisions and stores destined for the American army, then in service against Canada. The militia were ordered out under General Burnett, and accordingly assembled at Sodus for its defence. While at Sodus, the militia were employed in removing the public property from the storehouse of Nathaniel Merrill, in which it had been deposited, to a place of safety, (perhaps in the woods,) some distance from Sodus. On the morning of the 19th of June, the enemy not having come to Sodus as was expected, the militia were discharged, except a guard which was retained for the protection of the property which had been removed; this guard, therefore, must have been at the place of safety to which the property had been removed, some distance from Sodus. On the night of the 19th the enemy landed, marched to Sodus, and captured or destroyed what property was in Merrill's storehouse; burnt the storehouse and several other houses, among which was the house of the present claimant, William Eadus. For this loss, sustained under such circumstances, he asks Congress to pay him for his house, valued at $2,500, and for the furniture therein, valued at $1,759 75.

In examining the evidence, the committee do not find that this case comes within the provisions of the act of April, 1816. It does not satisfactorily appear that the claimant's house was ever in the military occupation of the United States. General Burnett, under whose authority the house must have been occupied, if it was occupied at all, is silent on this head. Some of the other witnesses do state that, between the 16th and the morning of the 19th, the house was occupied, but the evidence is so vague and indistinct as greatly to diminish the confidence to be placed in it. At the time of its destruction, (on the night of the 19th,) there certainly was no person, much less a body of troops, in the occupation of it; for it will be recollected that, on the morning of the 19th, the militia were discharged, and only a guard kept in service for the protection of the property at the place of safety, to which it had been removed, some distance from Sodus. It is evident, therefore, that the guard must have been at this place of safety, some distance from Sodus; and, consequently, that the house could not have been destroyed while in the military occupation of the United States.

Although the committee would decidedly recommend the rejection of this claim upon principle, yet there are other considerations which it will be proper to bring before the House:

1. That throughout the whole of the evidence, consisting of twenty-five or thirty pages, not a question is propounded to the witnesses, calculated in the least degree to vindicate the interests of the United States. Perhaps in a case referred to them during the present session is the evidence so completely ex parte; not only so, but in many respects it appears equivocal and evasive.

2. The law under which this claim comes before Congress requires that the evidence of the officer commanding the military occupation of any house shall be produced before a claim can be allowed. If this house had been really occupied as barracks, it seems to the committee more than probable that General Burnett, the superior officer, and present on the spot, would have been apprized of the fact, and would have stated it in his deposition.

3. The amount of furniture in the house at the time it is alleged to have been destroyed, valued at $1,759 75, will, in the opinion of the committee, prove incontestably that it could not have been occupied as barracks. A [illegible] family pictures, and a carpet [illegible]

11/9/79 Many thanks for your reply on the Jordan line. I have typed up your info and here is a copy from you. Don't see any connection yet with my line but feel sure they were connected back in England somewhere around 1600. Have also enclosed copies of my Jordan line as far as I have gone. I am descended from Edward Jordan down thru Nathan Bartlett Jordan and you will find my name marked with red "X" on p. 6 of the latter genealogy. Would be pleased to continue further correspondence if you come up with any new or additional information.

Sincerely,

MGG

The Thomas G. Jordan Family During the War Between the States

By Max E. White*

A recent discovery of several letters written by members of the Thomas G. Jordan family provides us with a unique look at events on the battlefields of the War Between the States and also at the role of a particular family in the days before and during the War. In many respects, the story of the Jordan family is typical of non-slaveholding families throughout northeast Georgia, families who contributed substantially to the ranks of the Confederacy. The letters, printed here for the first time, yield a particularly stirring account of the hopes, fears, and sufferings of the Jordans during these crucial years. Most of the letters were written by Allen and Thomas Jordan to their parents, Thomas G. and Lovicie Crocker Jordan.[1]

The Jordan family was among the Scotch-Irish settlers moving into northeast Georgia in the first half of the nineteenth century. Thomas G. Jordan purchased 100 acres of land in 1843 in what was then Habersham County, and built a two-room log house on the property that same year.[2] Before his death in 1952, Floyd Jordan, youngest son of Thomas and Lovicie, recalled hearing his parents speak of the optimism at the beginning of the War. Outstanding in his memory was a speech made at Harmony Grove (now Commerce, Georgia,) by a Confederate official who stated that the war would not last long and that he would "drink all the Southern blood that would be spilled."[3]

On August 24, 1861, Allen C. Jordan and several other men from his community enlisted at Homer, county seat of the newly-formed Banks County. This group was in Company A, 24th Regiment, Georgia Volunteer Infantry, McLaw's Division, Wofford's Brigade, Army of Northern Virginia, and were known as the "Independent Volunteers."

*Instructor of Anthropology, Western Carolina University, Cullowhee, North Carolina.

On June 5, 1862, Allen wrote the following letter from Gums Mills, Virginia:[4]

Dear Mother and Father,

I seat my self to inform you that we had a very hard fight yesterday and today, it has been the hardest fight that ever has been, there has been the greatest slaughter that ever was, so they say. We are not on the front today, but we were in it yesterday, hot and heavy, our outfit had to retreat, the Yankies flanked us on the right side, and there was an open space of about three hundred yards that was left open. Our Company lost eight men taken prisoner or killed we don't know which. John Payton is gone, they got him for sure. William Chambers got his leg broken, and it is cut off, we got him off the field. It has been a regular fight all day, and it is still going on. We don't know what will be the final issue of it, but our men are in the works. The Yanks charge our men with six lines of battle, but they were repulsed with heavy losses. The way the Yanks fight we have the best chance you ever saw to kill all of them. One line of our men can whip six of them. It looks like this would consume them some time. I hope today will be the last time we will have to fight them for some time.

I will quit the fighting subject for a while. I heard from brother Thomas he is about well now and I hear he will be here in a few days. By the mercy and good blessings of God I escaped yesterday but it was a narrow one for sure. There is none of Uncle Frank's boys hurt yet, nor Thomas Boling, but we don't know how soon we will be for we are not out of danger yet. The cannon balls are falling among us today, and we don't know what minute some of them may hit us. Thomas Dodd has got back to the Company and he is well. Columbus Dodd is gone we don't know whether he is killed or taken prisoner, he is missing in action. We are looking for Thomas Jordan tonight I shall look for something good when he gets here. You need not look for me until this fight is over, if I don't get killed I intend to come home. Mother I want you and Father to remember your sons who are in a far distant State fighting for your freedom. I hope that God will bless us and watch over us while in battle. If a man ever needed God's help it is in time of battle. So I close for now . . . . . [this portion of letter missing].

In a letter dated simply "July 15" and mailed from Winchester, Virginia, Allen wrote the following:

Dear Mother and Father,

There was a big fight at Gettysburg . . . . [this portion of letter missing] . . . . Mountain Gap in Tensil Vanguard there was a big fight there also. We fought the Yanks three days then we came here, I have had good luck for sure and I thank God for it. I think we will have to fight here before long our men are fighting about three miles off and have been all day, Calvary fighting, no infantry fighting as yet. I got three letters yesterday and two of them were from you. I was glad to hear from home. We have seven thousand prisoners here within two miles of us. We fare better here than we did in . . . . [this portion of letter missing] . . . . We get butter and milk, honey, eggs, and all such as that. We draw whiskey some times since we got here, and I have no idea when we will get out of here, don't believe that we are going back to Gettysburg, we have a lot of men over here, and it will take old Meade a long time to drive us out. We have given him one whipping since we have been over here and if he fools with us we will give it to him again. I must close for this time. May God bless you.

A. C. Jordan to T. G. Jordan

Dear Father, Mother, and Brothers,

I am permitted to seat my self in order to drop you a few lines to let you know that I am well at this time, hoping that these few lines finds all well. We are here in line of battle . . our men have drove the Yanks back into town, but they are well fortified and the only chance I see is to get them out by going behind their lines and cut the supply off. We could charge them but we would lose a lot of men, we hear that our men are getting behind them but I don't know. Father I would like to see you very much I want you to come to see me it will not cost you much. It would take only about $20.00 to bring you here and take you back, I would give that much to see you . . . there is no chance for me to come home unless I get sick, as long as the war lasts. You could come and stay two or three days or a week. You would never regret the trip. You have been getting letters from me every two or three weeks, but from here on I don't know how it will be. Since we got here there is nothing to get. No paper, tobacco nor nothing else, we don't get anything but bacon and corn bread to eat here and you know that is tough living . . . When we were in Virginia we could get most anything we wanted by paying the money for it. Sept. 28, 1863, Father I can inform you that I saw Uncle Jordan Crocker today he is within 200 yds of me. I was glad to see him and he was glad to see me, he is well and looks well. Aunt Rany I saw him and John and William both her brothers looks the best I ever saw them in my life. Father you said that Grandmother was sick I hope she gets better in a short time . . . All is still along the battle line today. Our men are taking the Yankies wounded men over the line and the Yanks are carrying them off. So I shall have to close for this time.

A. C. Jordan to T. G. and Lovicie Jordan

On October 22, 1863, still in Chattanooga, Allen wrote:

Please send me one vest, one pair of socks, one pair of galloses, one peck of potatoes, one little bucket of butter, one quart of molasses, one bottle of that brandy that Mother has been saving for me so long . . . and some apples, something to eat is the thing to please me. Father and Mother I am going to tell you what we have to eat here. We have corn bread and beef and it is so poor that it isn't fit to eat, when they bring them in here on the cars they are hardly able to travel to the pen where we kill them . . . we boil the meat and you can't see an eye full of grease, that is the sort of meat we get to eat, and the meal we get rattles like wheat, this is what made me ask for so many things. I know that you have what I want so no more for now . . . Just one word more, you say John wants me to come home . . . if you can get a man to come to my Company and be mustered in, in my place I can get a 40 day furlough. If you can get any man to come I will pay $40.00 if any man has to come to the war, pay him to come here for me. Be sure to have it fixed so he will come here for me, if anyone would come here the boys would pay him a hundred dollars. They have to stay until the three years is out and have to come back again in forty days.

A. C. Jordan to T. G. Jordan

On April 13, 1864, Allen's younger brother, Thomas, enlisted and joined him in the "Independent Volunteers." On May 16, 1864, Allen wrote the following letter, his last, from Spotsylvania Court House, Virginia:

Dear Mother and Father,

I seat my self to inform you that brother Thomas and I are well, but I hope that these few lines may find you all well and doing well. I got to the Company yesterday and Thomas has got the measles, but he is getting better, as for my self I am very weak I am not able for duty, our Lt. doesn't put any duty on me at all he is very good to me I shall not forget him soon. Thomas was in the fight up at the Wilderness, he isn't hurt at all, he is very contented. He tells me that you want me to come home very bad, don't be uneasy hold on until the fight is over, and I think you will get to see me. If it pleases God that I should get to come home I intend to bring lots of lead with me for my brothers, and father you may prepare to kill a deer and other game. Father of all sights I ever saw in my life this fight was it, more dead Yankies than I ever saw before. So no more at this time only remaining your true son til death,

A. C. Jordan to T. G. and Lovicie

On August 19, 1864, Floyd Jordan, Thomas G. Jordan's nephew, wrote from Winchester, Virginia:

Dear Uncle,

I drop you a few lines which leaves me and three of my brothers well. I can't say whether Newton is well or not, nor can't tell if Allen and Thomas are well or not, as our boys got into a severe fight with the Yankie Calvary on the 16th of this month in the evening about one hour before the sun went down, our boys charged the Yankies' Calvary for about half a mile through an open corn field and got within 40 or 50 yards of them when there was a flank movement made and the enemy flanked around our left and got in on our rear, and caused us to all fall back in a most confused condition, and our boys being very much fatigued and tired down and being in that condition eleven of our boys fell into enemy hands as prisoners, namely . . Allen C. Jordan, Thomas W. Jordan, Newton Dill, Tilman B. Smith, Harris Stow, Thomas Dodd, Ruben Chambers, John C. Hix, James Boling, and Enoc Cape. The number of prisoners and persons. They wounded Jefferson Sanders and Adam Hiller our new elected Lt. We are all badly dissatisfied about losing so many of our boys, but if they ever have to fall in enemy hands let several go together so they may take care of each other. The battle was fought at Fort Royal, Va. The boys were taken in the evening near night, and the Yanks marched them through Winchester next morning about 10 o'clock a distance of 18 miles in one night and up to ten o'clock in the morning next coming day. There was two hundred and seventy men taken in Waffords Brigade, there was not any other troops ingaged in the fight but our Brigade. There was a force of Calvary posted on our left flank to protect us, and they gave a way at the sight of the enemy as usual, and caused all the Brigade to get flanked and taken prisoners but a few. That is there was only three Regiments ingaged namely the 24th Ga. the 16th Ga. and the Cobb Legion and the sharp shooters, these are the portions of the Brigade that did what was done and hoped what was hoped but got a little the worst of it. But they would have driven the Yankees in a hurry in front if the Calvary had done their duty and held them off our flank. Allen and Thomas were both well and hearty when they were taken prisoner, but was not rested farely from the march to Fort Royal, Va. There are now eleven guns and men to use them in Company A. There is 23 men total number sick. I think that all our boys as so many of them were taken together they can attend to each other in time of sickness or necessity of any kind if the Yanks will allow them to do so, which I expect they will. I will inform you that I was not in the fight, neither was Thomas and Calaway, I mean brother Thomas. Both of your sons were taken prisoners. You need not look for them soon I don't think. No prisoner of war is not to be exchanged until the war ends. I am your most sincere friend and nephew.

Floyd Jordan to Thomas and Lovicie Jordan

Both Allen and Thomas died of smallpox in the prisoner of war camp at Elmira, New York, and are interred in the National Cemetery there.[5] Just before the war ended, Jacob M. Jordan, younger brother of Allen and Thomas, enlisted. He was stationed at Athens, Georgia, and recalled that he was getting ready to march to Atlanta when news was received that the war was over.

After the War, change came gradually to the Jordan family and others like them in northeast Georgia. The annual trips by wagon to Athens, where whiskey and brandy were traded for a year's supply of salt and molasses, ceased in the 1870s. Railroads brought supplies closer, and farming was intensified as more land was cleared. Today, descendants of Thomas G. and Lovicie Crocker Jordan make up the majority of the population of Rock Springs Community in Banks County. It was through their cooperation that this article was made possible.

Thornton whose sister married a brother of George Washington. Thomas Meriwether was a wealthy and influential Virginia planter. He was a Colonel Commandant of Virginia troops in the French and Indian War and upon his death, George Washington, who had been his subordinate, assumed command. Francis Meriwether, Thomas's second son, brought his family from Albemarle to Wilkes in the Mathews' migration. Married to Martha Jamieson, the couple had ten children, all of whom married well and in keeping with their family standards: Thomas to Rebekah, daughter of George Mathews, Valentine to Barbara Cosby; Mary, the oldest daughter, was married to William Barnett; Mildred to Joel Barnett; Elizabeth to William Mathews, the son of Governor Mathews; Lucy to Groves Howard; Margaret to Dr. John Bradley; Nancy to William Glenn; and Sarah to James Olive. Nicholas was devoted to the practice of medicine often doing much charity work in healing the sick.

Other of Thomas Meriwether's descendants emigrated to Wilkes as well. His son David and his wife, Mary Harvie Meriwether, followed their kinsmen to Georgia. Their daughter Martha, an only child, married Benjamin Taliaferro. Thomas' daughters also developed connections with Wilkes. Mildred married John Gilmer while her sister Mary married Peachy Ridgway Gilmer and another sister Elizabeth was wed to Thomas Johnson whose son Nicholas removed to Wilkes.

Lucy Meriwether, third to youngest daughter of Thomas, was an active and dedicated businesswoman. She married William Lewis of the distinguished Virginia family. The oldest son of this union was Meriwether Lewis who later became the illustrious adventurer and leader of the Lewis and Clark expedition in 1804-1806. After William Lewis' death around 1780, Lucy married John Marks, who had been a Revolutionary soldier of some note. About 1784, the couple moved to Wilkes with their family and began a successful farming operation. Although attending school in Virginia, Meriwether Lewis spent a good deal of time in the Broad River area, perhaps in this virginal timberland learning to appreciate the glories of a wilderness which he so desired to conquer. After Marks' death, Lucy Marks returned to Virginia in 1792, however, she maintained her Georgia lands for several years afterward.

Thomas Meriwether Gilmer and his wife Elizabeth Lewis settled on the south side of Broad River. His ancestry was somewhat illustrious, but not magnanimously so. His grandfather was a Scotch immigrant who married three times, the third being to the sister of Dr. James Blair, the founder of the College of William and Mary. Thomas M. Gilmer's father was Peachy Ridgway Gilmer and his mother Mary Meriwether. Thomas Gilmer was a young man when he arrived in Georgia and rather poor, but not destitute. By the time of his death in 1817, he had amassed a creditable fortune and owned seventy-three slaves. One of his children, George Rockingham Gilmer, became a prominent politician as representative for the district in the United States Congress and later as Governor of Georgia.

The Harvie family was also prominent in early Wilkes perhaps primarily for its wealth of eligible young women who were singularly capable of withstanding the rigors of the Wilderness. Their average weight was almost three hundred pounds apiece! The Harvies intermarried with a number of the families in the Broad River section. William Harvie, one of the few male descendants, married Judith Cosby of another of the Virginia families. Daniel Harvie was a man of great size and strength to match. Weighing over 400 pounds, this giant of the backwoods was strong enough to right the corner of a millhouse which had been dislodged by a rise in the water level of the creek, simply by lifting the building back on its foundation. Another story of his physical prowess described his raising of hogsheads of tobacco over his head as easy as lifting a stick of wood.

The Jordans, who also united with the Harvie family, settled near the Goose Pond. Reuben Jordan of Virginia had married Genette Harvie and was a descendant of Pocahontas. These Jordans should be distinguished from the Jourdans who settled in Wilkes several years earlier and whose name was pronounced Jerden. Fleming Jordan was also a prominent settler and the namesake of Reuben's son, Fleming, who became a distinguished Georgia legislator. A daughter of Reuben and Genette Harvie Jordan, Elizabeth married James Jackson Gilmer, a brother of Governor George Gilmer.

The Strother family gained prominence primarily through the female line. William Strother died in 1774, in Culpeper County, Virginia. He was the father of several children, including William Dabney Strother, a pioneer Virginia Mason who was killed at the Battle of Guilford Court House, and Sarah Strother who became the wife of Richard Taylor and the mother of General Zachary Taylor, later President of the United States. Another William Strother of Stafford married Margaret Watts and fathered thirteen daughters, who married into the Lewis, Madison, and Jones families among others. William and John Strother who came to Wilkes with the Mathews' group were descendants of the Culpeper Strothers.

From Louisa County, Virginia, came Nicholas Johnson who proved to be one of the most colorful of all the settlers. A bachelor upon arrival, he later married Mary, the daughter of James Marks. After her death about 1814, Johnson moved to Alabama. He was a heavy drinker and had a flamboyant manner of dress. His eccentricities were numerous, perhaps his most famous being a love of dogs and cats having almost seventy of each breed in his house. His children married well, but none were individually outstanding.

Originally of Italian ancestry, the Taliaferros supposedly immigrated to the British Isles about 1500. Possibly alluding to an even earlier appearance was the inclusion of a knight named Talifer on a list of Norman invaders in 1066. The first Taliaferro to come to America was Robert who settled in Gloucester County, Virginia, prior to 1655. By this time, due to English and Scotch influences in pronounciation, the name was called Toliver, though spelled in its original form. Robert Taliaferro's son John was the grandfather of Benjamin Taliaferro, the Wilkes pioneer. John married Sarah Smith, the daughter of Major Lawrence Smith, and had eleven children, one of whom was Zachariah, the father of Benjamin. A cousin was Elizabeth, daughter of Colonel Richard Taliaferro, who was the wife of George Wythe, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Zachariah Taliaferro married Mary Boutwell and removed from Caroline County to Amherst County, Virginia, about 1770. Their oldest son was the adventurous Benjamin who had served as a Colonel in the Revolution and who also became a superior court judge and Congressman after he transferred his residence to Wilkes. Married to Martha Meriwether, he settled in 1784 on the south side of Broad River some ten miles upstream from Petersburg. Benjamin and Martha Taliaferro had nine children. They married into the local families such as Watkins, Barnett, McGehee, Hill, and Green. After Martha Meriwether's death, Benjamin wed a Miss Cox, by whom he had a son, Zachariah.

Benjamin's brother Zachariah had earlier been engaged to Martha Meriwether who had married Benjamin. Irreconcilably separated by this dispute, the brothers never again met as friends. Zachariah moved to the Pendleton district of South Carolina, eventually in 1802 marrying Margaret Chew Carter of Spotsylvania, Virginia, a member of an illustrious family. They had several daughters who all married well. Zachariah was a prominent planter in his area and lived to a venerable old age.

The remainder of Benjamin's brothers and sisters followed his advance to the Wilkes area. Sally, an older sister, married Daniel Harvie and settled on Broad River. Warren Taliaferro became the husband of Mary Gilmer, daughter of Thomas M. Gilmer. Warren was a handsome and debonair gentleman who, unfortunately, was prone to indolence. Nancy and Frances, other sisters, married respectively Thompson Watkins and Moses Penn, both settling near their relations in the Broad River Valley. Richard Taliaferro never married. He suffered from acromegaly, being physically deformed and was troubled mentally because of his defect, alienating himself from society. Burton, the youngest of was realized that the sign bore a picture of the esteemed George Washington. After Clark had come to his senses, he was deeply apologetic for his actions and, bespeaking his fortitude, paid for his damages as well as offering a public apology. Clark afterwards became Governor of the state, but always remembered this incident as a lesson well-learned. The son of the martyred John Dooly, John Mitchell Dooly, was admitted to the bar in Washington in 1789. Almost immediately he became an influential member of the legal establishment in the state, later serving a number of years as judge. Other well known politicians were frequently observed in the area, such as George Mathews, General Meriwether, and many others. Washington, although boasting a very meagre population, did serve as a convenient meeting place and a "gateway" to the remainder of the backcountry.

Some of the character of Washington began to change in the early 1790's with a new impetus for settlement. The anti-French sentiment on the West Indian island of Santo Domingo had forced a number of families to evacuate their homes. Several of these French families came to Washington where they established themselves as merchants. The entire area bordering north on Market Street and east on Middle Street became a center of French activity. About 1794, Louis Maquire and Nicholas LePrestre opened a rather extensive general merchandising store in this area on a lot earlier occupied in 1792, by Peter Duhem DeMontrong who was declared insane. LePrestre also owned a large amount of land in the county and was an immensely wealthy man. One of his daughters married Robert Simpson of Wilkes some time before 1820. Other Frenchmen coming during this period were Louis Prudhomme, Louis Picquet, the Dugas family, Alexander Deblieux, the Revieres, and a number of others. On November 20, 1798,

> Upon the petition of Nicholas Laprestree, Louis Picquet, Gilbert Gabriel, Jean Baptista DuBoisberrenger, Jean Louis DuBoisberrenger, Pierre Reni DuBoisberrenger, Reni DeMalFaltastre, Francis Aubin, Louis Maquire, and Francis Mercier praying to be admitted as Citizens of the United States and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Court from the recommendation of Sundry inhabitance of this County that the said Petitioners had behaved themselves as men of good Morrel Character, attached to the Constitution of the United States, and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same, and they being previously examined whether they Claimed any title of Nobility and severally declaring that they did not and upon the affidavit...That they had resided in the United States the time required by the Act of Congress passed January 1795 whereupon they are admitted as citizens of the United States in conformity of the Act of Congress in such case made and provided.

These Frenchmen played an important role in the early commercial development of the town. However, by the second decade of the nineteenth century most of these families had moved away from Washington to the larger towns of Augusta and Charleston to continue their businesses.

Other commercial interests in Washington had also begun to thrive. The stage coach from Augusta came to Washington as of 1786, on a regular schedule of once a week bringing the mail and depositing it at Henry Mounger's office near the court house. John Beal opened a stage line between Washington and Petersburg about the same time. Micajah Williamson had begun his tavern in 1786, and in the same year Joseph Wilson opened an inn and tavern of his own. A brickyard was established in the early 1780's in the southern part of town to make enough brick available to the citizenry for adequate building. There were several stores and private businesses which had opened along Middle Street between Market and Broad, and on Market Street. Among the establishments were a dress shop kept by Marie Alexis Catonnett in 1791, and a law office held by James Williams from 1788 to 1793. Williams was reputed to have owned the first real carriage in Washington. Other lawyers in the 1790's were John Griffin, John Mitchell Dooly, Peter Carnes, and Nathaniel Churchill. Nathaniel Harrison Churchill was of the proud Virginia family which has produced such outstanding Americans as the writer Winston Churchill and Edward Delos Churchill, surgeon and medical researcher of the twentieth century. Nathaniel Churchill entered Washington in the late 1780's and established himself in the practice of law. He was an intimate friend of a number of prominent families including the Wade Hamptons of Carolina and the Willises. Churchill was successful in his judiciary work and was an important trial lawyer during these times. He also served as a justice of the peace and was a familiar figure among Washington society. Dr. John B. Ruston's home and office faced on Market Street near Williams, the lawyer.

French settlers also were active in the county with both commercial and agricultural ventures. Gilbert Rosignol operated an inn and tavern at Sharon. A mill was established on Fishing Creek by Ambrose St. Almand and his sons, Bonhomme and Washington. Francis and Mary Courvoisie owned land on Jumping Creek and Little River which they later sold to Alexis Catonnett and Laurence Vial. This section was known as Possum Town. Most of the county lands were taken up in agricultural pursuits, but there were several other grist mills and distilleries convenient to most of the citizens. Allen's Iron Works on Long Creek and Hillhouse's Works in the north end of the county were also in operation.

With a relaxation of tensions after the war, there was more time for leisure interests. As illustrated, the taverns proved a popular diversion for many. Church and religious activities also occupied many of the settlers' spare hours. However, perhaps the most popular of all leisure diversions was a picnic at the springs. Located about one and one-half miles south of Washington on a continuation of Middle Street, the Chalybeate Spring attracted many visitors, not only from Washington, but from other sections of the state. The waters of this spring were supposedly medicinal and a number of infirm were sometimes brought to Washington to partake of this healthful water. The spring was often crowded on Sunday afternoons as many families gathered for the social and healthful benefits which came from such an outing. Horseracing was also gaining in popularity due primarily to the Virginia influence in Wilkes, but it was not until later that organized racing began.

Although the area of Wilkes was gaining much more sophistication and the growth in population further was able to tame the wilderness, there still existed for a time, the problem of Indian uprisings. With the creation of Franklin and Washington Counties, the Indian threat to Wilkes subsided almost completely. One raid did prove significant, however, as a band of Creeks entered the Broad River area in the early 1790's arousing the fear of some of the Virginians in the vicinity. Due to the gallantry of these pioneers, including the young Meriwether Lewis, their settlement was saved and the Indians driven out. The men of Wilkes realized the dangers of the frontier through very intimate contact and when the newer lands were opened north and west of Wilkes, they felt a certain affinity for the problems. Thus the active militia units of Wilkes under such men as Samuel Alexander and Jesse Clay were frequent participants in quelling the Indian uprisings in these lands. Another fact which undeniably made them more concerned was that many Wilkes residents owned lands in the newly opened areas. Captain Autry was killed by the Indians at Scull Shoals in the area of Washington County while fighting in the company of a group of Elijah Clarke's Wilkes militia.

Clarke himself was, in his later years, a problem to the state of Georgia. Having obtained a large tract of land west of the Oconee River in what was Creek territory, Clarke established his Trans-Oconee Republic. Populated by ruffians and foolhearty adventurers, Clarke's colony became more of a threat to the new lands than the Indians. However, when exposed by Governor Mathews, Clarke received little chastisement. He

Although the following list does not purport to be complete, it is a representative sampling of North Carolina settlers and their home counties. From the map it may be seen that most of those immigrating to Wilkes came from the interior of North Carolina rather than the coastal region.

The Carolinians formed by far the largest single group in the influx of settlers before 1780. After that time, athough decreasing in numbers, they still maintained a steady migration to the Wilkes area throughout the remainder of that century.

The following list, though only a sampling, gives an accurate picture of the numbers of those settlers who migrated from Virginia to Wilkes before 1800. Delineation by counties gives an indication of the areas of the state from which the greatest concentration of settlers was derived.

Edwards may be of as ancient blood as Mr. Neville, and high-sounding Mr. St. John is after all inferior in antiquity to plain Mr. Jones. For example—

JONES of Llanerchrugog Hall, Denbighshire, descends in a direct line from Gwaithvoed, lord of Cardigan and Gwent, A.D. 921, and represents one of the Fifteen Noble Tribes of North Wales.

JONES of Trewythen, co. Montgomery, derives from Cadwgan, lord of Nannau, son of Bleddyn ap Cynfyn, King of Powys.

JONES of Hartsheath, co. Flint, claims from Cowryd ap Cadvan, a chieftain of Dyffryn Clwyd in Denbighland. B.L.G.

JONSON. The same as Johnson.

JORDAN. JORDEN. Not, as has been fancifully conjectured, from the river Jordan, in Crusading times, but from Jourdain, an early Norman baptismal name, probably corrupted from the Lat. Hodiernus, which was a not uncommon personal name of the same period. It may be remarked that the names Jourdain and Hodierna, the feminine form, occur almost contemporaneously in the pedigree of Sackville. Marin's Dutch Dict. defines Jorden as Gregory, "een man's naam, Gregoire, nom d' homme."

"The family of Jordan is of Anglo-Norman origin. The first settler in Wales was Jordan de Cantington, one of the companions of Martin de Tours, in his conquest of Kemmes, temp. William I." B.L.G.

JORDESON. The son of Jordan, which see.

JOSELIN. See Joslin.

JOSEPH. JOSEPHS. The personal name. A common surname among the Jews, but not confined to that nation.

JOSKYN. A diminutive of Joseph.

JOSLIN. JOSLING. JOSLAND. Corruptions of the personal name Joscelyne.

JOURDAN. JOURDAIN. See Jordan.

JOY. Probably from one of the several places in Normandy called Jouy; or perhaps a contraction of Joyce.

JOYNSON. A corruption of Johnson.

JUBB. Perhaps a corruption of Job.

JUDD. Possibly Jude, the Christian name. The Dutch Jode, a Jew, also suggests itself; and if this be so, Judson must be equivalent to "Jew's son," Judkin to "the little Jew," &c.

JUDE. This now unusual Christian name was more common in old times, and possibly gave rise to Judd, Judkin, and Judson.

JUDGE. This surname can hardly have been borrowed from the office, because in this country judges have always been persons of dignity and consideration. It may have been either a sobriquet, or a name given to an umpire in some medieval game.

JUDKINS. See Judd.

JUDSON. 1. See Jude. 2. See Judd. Most of the Judsons, both in England and America, trace their origin to the neighbourhood of Leeds, and the surname is still common in Yorkshire.

JUGG. Perhaps the sign of an inn.

JUGLER. Does not imply either a shuffling, dishonest person, or one skilled in the arts of legerdemain. It is the medieval jougelour, a minstrel, one who could play or sing, or both. It is true, however, that this person often combined both professions, namely, legerdemain and music. Hence Chaucer's expression—"Minstrales and eke jougelours that well to sing did her paine."

JULER. Perhaps a jeweller.

JULEUS. A mis-spelling of Julius.

JULIAN. JULIANS. The personal name.

JULIUS. The personal name.

JUMPER. The first Mr. Jumper would appear to have derived his name not from his saltatory skill, but from his having been a maker of jumps, a kind of short leather coat or boddice, formerly worn by women. See Bailey and Halliwell. Jumper is also a northern provincialism for a miner's boring tool, and may have been metaphorically applied to the miner himself.

JUPP. A nurse-name of Joseph.

JURDAN. See Jordan.

JURY. In the middle ages, when the Jews were a much-persecuted race, they resided partly by compulsion, partly by choice, in a particular quarter of our old towns and cities. Such a locality was usually called the Jewry, as the Old Jewry, in London. "Jewerie, a district inhabited by Jews." Halliw.

JUST. From probity of character; or more probably from an ancient personal name. Saint Just gives name to a Cornish parish.

JUSTICE. A magistrate; probably applied as a sobriquet. Justice was, however, personified in the old miracle plays. See particularly Hone's Anc. Mysteries, p. 38. et seq. It is remarkable that while we have several Le Justices in the H.R. we find one lady called Iva la Justice. Qu. was she a "miracle" actress?

JUSTINS. A genitive form of Justin, the personal name.

JUTSOM. JUTSUM. See Jutson.

JUTSON. Probably a corruption of Judson; though Ferguson thinks that, together with Jutting and Jutsom, it relates to a Jutish extraction.

JUTTING. See Jutson.

GENEALOGICAL DATA, 1755-1782

There are eight books titled "Miscellaneous Bonds" in the Georgia Department of Archives and History, Atlanta, which cover the periods from 1755 to 1782, and from 1798 to 1829.[1] Many of the records were mortgages and bond for the same, and notes. However there were 52 marriage agreements, deeds of gifts and one will. The following abstracts have been made for those items which had genealogical information, from the books listed below:

Book	Years	Book	Years	Book	Years
J	1755-1762	Y-1	1772-1774	HH	1798-1829[1]
O	1762-1765	Y-2	1774-1777	JJ	1779-1780
R	1765-1772	HH	1777-1778	KK	1780-1782

Savannah, the capitol of Georgia, was under control of the British up to Feb. 11, 1776, and from Dec. 19, 1778 to July 11, 1782, while the American colonists were in possession from Feb. 11, 1776 to Dec. 11, 1778, and after July 11, 1782. It will be noted that the date of recording of a particular record was often several years after the date of making. This was due to the unsettled state of the Colony of Georgia in 1776 and 1777 when the British were still the ruling government. Even after the State of Georgia was organized in 1777, Savannah was, for most of the time up to July 11, 1782, controlled by the British. It is a wonder that any records for this period were filed and saved. The British removed the records from Savannah when they pulled out in 1782, and shifted them first to Charleston, S. C., then to New York. From the latter, they were sent to Scotland and finally were deposited in the Tower of London, England where they were "rediscovered" shortly after 1800, and returned to Georgia.

McCorrie, Andrew, St. George Par., Ga., sold 250 head of cattle to Mordical Sheftall, of denominational lines. Since coming to his present pastorate he has received many flattering offers from other churches and also in connection with college work but he has preferred to remain in what he pronounces "the best church in the fairest city in the greatest state in the Union." On July 8, 1891, was solemnized the marriage of Doctor Jordan to Miss Ray Griffin, daughter of A. N. and Belle Griffin, now residents of Meridian, Miss. Doctor and Mrs. Jordan have no children.

Jordan, William A., judge of the city court of Blakely, Early county, ex mayor of the city, and one of the representative lawyers of that section of the state, was born in Pike county, Ga., May 20, 1856, a son of Willis Pope Jordan and Mary R. (Bethnell) Jordan, both natives of Georgia. The father was a lawyer by profession and served for a number of years as ordinary of Quitman county. William A. Jordan secured his preliminary education in the schools of Quitman county, after which he attended the University of Georgia. He read law under the preceptorship of his father and in 1877, at the age of twenty-one years, was admitted to the bar of his native state. He began the practice of his profession in Georgetown, Ga., and succeeded his father as ordinary of Quitman county, having been elected in 1881 and remained the incumbent of the office for a period of four years. In 1886 he located in Blakely, where he engaged in the practice of his profession and has ever since maintained his home, prominent in his profession and in the public affairs of the city and county. He was made solicitor of the county court in 1887 and in 1889 he was made Judge of the county court and served on the bench until this court was abolished by act of the legislature. In 1890 he was appointed judge of the city court, and has since remained in tenure of this office, where he has gained a high reputation for the effective discharge of his judicial duties. He served two terms as mayor of Blakely; has been alderman of the city several terms, and has always shown a public spirited interest in local affairs. He is affiliated with the Masonic fraternity, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Knights of Pythias, and both he and his wife are members of the Methodist Episcopal church South. His political allegiance is given to the Democratic party. In 1887

Judge Jordan was united in marriage to Miss Jennie Buchanan, daughter of James Buchanan, an honored and prominent citizen of Blakely, and at one time treasurer of the county. He served in the Seminole Indian war, in which he was wounded. Judge and Mrs. Jordan have three children—Maud, William, and Walker.

Joseph's Town.—Among the earliest settlements in Georgia was one about three miles below the mouth of Abercorn creek, opposite to Onslow and Argyle islands. Two Scotchmen opened plantations there and thirty servants were employed in cultivating the lands. The name of Joseph's Town was given to the place and for a time it promised to become an important settlement. Then malarial fever attacked the inhabitants, several of the servants died, the rest moved away, and the plantations lapsed into neglect.

Joyce, James J., proprietor of the finely equipped meat market and green grocery at 121 Liberty street, east, in the city of Savannah, was born and reared in that city, his birth having occurred Oct. 1, 1857. He is a son of Timothy and Mary (Keenan) Joyce, both of whom were born in Ireland. Timothy Joyce was reared and educated in his native land, where he learned the trade of ship carpenter. He came to America in the early '50s and settled in Savannah, where he passed the remainder of his life, his death occurring in 1883. His wife was likewise reared to maturity in the Emerald Isle, whence she came to America as a young woman, depending upon her own resources. She located in Savannah, where her marriage was solemnized, and here her death occurred on June 1, 1873, both she and her husband having been communicants and zealous members of the Catholic church. Five children survive the honored parents, James J. being the eldest, and all being residents of Savannah. Julia is the wife of Charles Harvey; John W. and Bernard are identified with business interests in their native city; and Bridget is the wife of William F. Crosby. James J. Joyce secured his early educational training in the public and parochial schools of Savannah—principally in the school connected with the Catholic cathedral. Before he had attained the age of fourteen years he began a practical apprenticeship at the butcher's trade, with which he has since been identified, either as an employe or as the owner of a market. He was employed at his

Dear Mr. Jordan:

How nice to hear from you again! Haven't heard from you since Oct 1987 when you sent a group sheet on Josiah Garland Jordan and family.

I rechecked my records and couldn't find anything except this one little clue that you might want to follow up.

If I sent this last time, forgive me. Too lazy to check through my carbons. Mrs. Katholeen T. Bowers 1203 Hawthorne Rd., Hanahan, SC 29406.

She is working on the Tyson family primarily. Her mother's people were Jordans. Edwin Pridgeon Jordan of Jefferson Co., GA.- his father was Sterling Greene Jordan of Jefferson Co., GA. You probably already have this but just in case...

Dr. Allee, here in Houston called me that he, also had received a letter from you. So you see, we are keeping in touch aren't we? Just wish that one of us would get lucky and do something with these Jordans!!!

Wish I could be of more help. Keep on researching.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Vivian H. Jordan

Hello,

I just saw your posting from last August on the Pike Co. GA site and wondered if you knew anything about how Henry W. Jordan fits into the Jordan families of Pike Co.?

I am familiar with the names you mentioned in your posting but I don't know how everyone fits together. In the 1850 census of Pike Co. I find John Jourdon (sic) age 43, and wife Mary (Holmes) age 42, with five children and Benjamin Jourdon 74, birth place GA, on page 129. On page 128, very near your John, is Henry W. Gourdon (sic) age 22, and wife Caroline F. age 19 and two children.

Henry W. Jordan, according to census info was born in 1828 in South Carolina. He was already married before 1850 to Caroline Frances _____?, but I haven't been able to find their marriage record. They are listed in Pike Co. 1860, but by 1870 Caroline or Frances (she is listed alternately by both names) is listed alone with her children. I haven't been able to tell for sure if Henry might have died in the Civil War. There are several Henry Jordan's serving from GA and one could be him, but his widow did not file for a pension.

Henry and Caroline's children are: Dicey E. born 1848, John F. born abt 1849, Mary Ann born 1851, Henry Soloman born 1853, Sarah C. born 1855, Joseph Jackson born Oct. 15, 1857, Wiley M. born 1860, and William born 1864.

I'd appreciate very much any information you could share about the Jordan's, and who in Pike Co. Henry W. Jordan is related to. I would especially like to find out who his parents were.

Thank you,

Lynn Mayes
